Bill Passed House to be Engrossed

In the legislature today the "Bar and Bottle" bill passed to be enacted on a voice vote. Rep. Doyle of New Bedford gave notice of reconsideration tomorrow. The speaker announced that the bill will go to the senate at once but may be called back tomorrow.

From the gossip about the corridors of the state house today there were many who believe that the bill may be killed in the senate or passed by a close vote.

The corporation tax bill which means so much to Lowell passed to be engrossed in the house this morning.

"The best prepared report that comes into this office, and I think it ought to receive special mention," said City Clerk Dadian as he called the reporter's attention to the annual report of the superintendent of streets as prepared by Clerk Clarence Raymond. The report showed that the report was a splendidly prepared one, but the detail was a bit overwhelming. All of the information contained in the report is of a statistical nature and in the street and sewer department there is a big territory to cover.

The report gives 135.44 as the number of miles of accepted streets in Lowell, January 1, 1910, and the miles of paved streets as follows:

Brick 177, asphalt 193, asphaltina 1.65, stone block 16.54, wood block 0.255, bituminous 1.31, macadam 35.56, Hassam 0.437.

Streets Committee

The committee on streets will go a-viewing tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will visit premises mentioned in petitions now before it.

Start Sewer Work

Supt. Putnam hopes to be able to start in on sewer work within a week or ten days. SHAM PAINTINGS

Sale

NEW YORK, April 20.—The revelations made in the case of Count De Galtigny who with his countess is being examined at Tours on a charge of having misrepresented the origin of paintings and the antiquity of furniture to Mrs. Charles Payne of this city have caused a profound impression in the world and served to open up the whole question of the sale of sham paintings, of art and antique furniture.

Although the declarations of Henri Rochefort, editor of the Patrie, regarding the Rembrandts may constitute a satirical exaggeration it is the general opinion that there is a nucleus of truth in his assertion that celebrated collections in hundreds of homes in America and elsewhere contain spurious Rembrandts as well as copies of other masters. M. Rochefort has said that 80 per cent. of the "Rembrandts" owned in America are forgeries.

The recent exposures are hailed here as helping to check the brazen fraud perpetrated in France and elsewhere and as a warning to foreigners to buy masterpieces with the greatest caution. The newspapers pursue the Galtigny affair with avidity and are immensely amused at the various reports of how the count entered the most exclusive society. Early photographs of Galtigny show a handsome young man with a proud face, fair and long locks and frank blue eyes. He is dressed in the uniform of a chancery of the Order of Melitine. His breast is literally laden with ribbons and medals.

Superior Court—Judge Sheldon
Presided Over Session

The supreme judicial court, Justice Sheldon presiding, held a brief session at the court house in Groham street this morning, adjournment coming unexpectedly through a peculiar omission on the part of counsel in a case ready for trial.

Opening prayer was delivered by Rev. N. W. Matthews, after which the list was read. The Lowell list included three cases, one of which was supposed to be heard today. The case to be heard was the appeal from the decision of the probate court in the Wright L. Hill will case, the title of which was Edward E. Hill executor, petitioner, vs. Charles B. Hill et al., appellants. George W. Fane and Dunbar & Rogers appeared for the petitioner and the Messrs. Hogan for the other side. Counsel in the case, after calling of the list, had gotten out their papers all ready to start on the case when Clerk Smith announced that the will had not been sent up from the probate court. The court announced that the case could not proceed without the will unless counsel agreed upon certain legal requirements relative to it and as no agreement was reached the court ordered the case transferred to this term of the superior court for trial.

The other two cases were: David N. Talenboom, petitioner, vs. Talbot Clothing Company et al., appellants; Bennett Silverblatt and McIntire & Wilson; and the case of Susan J. R. Quinby, ex. pet., vs. Joseph E. Blood et al., John J. Harvey and the Messrs. Pearson. In the first counsel was in court while in the second one of the counsel announced a withdrawal of the contest. Court then adjourned to Cambridge. The jury list for the supreme court session is as follows:

HAVENS ELECTED

Democrat Wins in a Strong Republican District

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—Between 10,000 and 15,000 voters of Monroe county chanted from the republican to the democratic chime today and elected the first democratic congressman that has represented the 32d district in 20 years.

James S. Havens, a democrat, running on a tariff reform platform, defeated George W. Aldridge, for a score of years the ruler of the county republican organization, by 5821 votes.

Monroe county, which comprises the 32d district, is normally republican by about 6000.

today, carried the district in 1908 by 10,167 votes.

Havens had arrayed against him one of the strongest political organizations in the state. Yet in a campaign lasting but 17 days and with hastily constructed machinery, he accomplished one of the most remarkable overturns in political history. The result of this election takes its place beside the democratic victory in the 14th Massachusetts district, where Eugene N. Foss was sent to congress from a district supposed to be as rock-ribbed republican as this one.

Mr. Havens rode to victory on a platform advocating tariff revision, removal of the tax on hides, lumber and iron ore, an income tax, and party independence of all political bosses.

Mr. Aldridge, his opponent, contented himself with general proclamations in favor of the policies of the republican administration. On the tariff proposition he was regarded as a "stand patter."

Mason is Charged With Assault on John Scott

John J. Mason, the young man who it is alleged assaulted John Scott, the janitor of the Training school, a couple of weeks ago, appeared before Judge Hadley in police court for sentence this morning. The court was undecided whether to sentence Mason or hold him for the grand jury, but after a conference with Medical Examiner J. V. Melgs, Judge Hadley found probable cause of guilt and held Mason under $500 bonds for the grand jury.

Stole a Bicycle

John J. Burns was charged with drunkenness and the larceny of a bicycle valued at $25, the property of Napoleon Daigle. He entered a plea of guilty to both complaints and was ordered to pay a fine of $30 in three days or go to jail for three months on the larceny charge, the case of drunkenness being placed on file.

Napoleon Daigle, the owner of the bicycle, testified that he left his wheel outside his house in Verrill street on the night of March 17th and when he returned found it was gone.

Patrick Keegan, the Moody street bicycle dealer and shoe repairer, said that Burns entered his store Monday night and tried to sell the bicycle for $4, but witness knew the wheel had been stolen, he having been so informed by Daigle. He told the court that he knew the wheel and the number owing to the fact that he had fitted it with tires.

Patrol Officer Peter Cawley said that he was told by Burns that a little boy met him in Adams street and asked him if he wanted a ride. Burns, according to his story, took a ride and when he returned was unable to find the boy.

Patrolman Somers said that when he placed Burns under arrest the latter said that he did not know how or where he got the bicycle but later said that it was given him by a boy in Adams street.

Alfred Plouffe, who was in Keegan's store Monday night, corroborated that portions of Keegan's testimony relative to Burns trying to sell the wheel.

The defendant, when placed on the stand, said that Monday night while under the influence of liquor he was passing through Adams street and a little boy asked him if he wanted a bicycle which was offered him and he did not know what to do with the bicycle when he met a friend of his and the friend suggested that they "sell the wheel down to Keegan's."

Clergyman Fined

Rev. Danos Gineres appeared before Judge Hadley in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with operating a motor vehicle without being licensed. He was fined $10.

Placed on Probation

John E. Archambault, who was ar-

Unstamped Veal

Jesse Kemp pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with unlawfully selling veal and a fine of $15 was imposed. Kemp's case was brought as the result of the activity of the board of health in prosecuting people who sell unstamped veal, the law stating that "unstamped veal shall be unfit for sale."

Case Continued

The case of Chandler McLaughlin charged with assault and battery on John McShane was continued till next Wednesday at the request of the counsel for the defense.

Drunken Offenders

Edwin S. Bow, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to the state farm and Dennis J. Grogan, a parole man, will be returned to that institution. Della Kennedy was sentenced to one month in jail, but she entered an appeal. Henry Burdell was sentenced to the state farm.

Horatio H. Otis will spend the next ten days in jail. John Jackson and Henry D. Egan were fined $5 each. There were five first offenders who were fined $2 each and two simple drunks were released.

HAVEN'S FRIENDS

TALKING OF HIM AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—In the first flush of victory the friends of James S. Havens, the democrat who was elected to congress yesterday by a large plurality in one of the strongest republican districts in the country, are already talking of Havens for governor this fall. Judging from the conservative tenor of the successful candidate's remarks, however, he accepts his victory as bearing little on the political changes in the state except as regards the issue of bossism.

"This is not wholly a partisan victory," said Havens, "it is a victory over the things for which Cannon has stood and for the ideals which Gov. Hughes twines."

The Hughes republicans today declare that although Havens' election shows that the people of this district are dissatisfied with the tariff policy of the republican national administration and with the political control of George Aldridge, Havens' defeated opponent, it entrenches Gov. Hughes and his policies more strongly than ever. Expressions by various Hughes legislators in Albany, telegraphed here, confirm this idea.

Messages of congratulations received by the successful candidate from all over the country show the intense interest displayed by the nation in yesterday's election.

Revised returns from the towns slightly reduce Havens' plurality, leaving the figures 5440 for the district.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE D. A. R. AND SOME OF THE PROMINENT OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution dislike peace, according to some of the members. Each annual meeting of the D. A. R. means a war of some kind, and the session now on in Washington is following the example of last year, the year before and on back for a dozen annual meetings. This year's meeting is to wind up with a lawsuit, according to the present program. Miss Agnes Gerald, the headquarters clerk, is going into court, so she says, and make some of the officers explain certain remarks not to her liking. A number of state rows are on in full blast, and before the meeting comes to an end Mrs. Matthew Scott, Mrs. Donald McLean, Mrs. William Cummings Story, along with a few lesser lights, declare they are going to bring around a change in the business methods as well as social doings of the D. A. R. Dinners, receptions and conferences in the meantime are keeping the hundreds of delegates busy.

MEMORIAL MASS FOR MEMBERS OF HOLY NAME SOCIETY

This annual memorial mass for the deceased members of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's church was held yesterday at that church. The requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. John F. Burns, spiritual director, and over 400 members attended the service in a body. At 5:45 o'clock the members assembled at the fair hall and two abreast marched to the church, where seats were reserved.

The line was headed by Marshal William J. Gargan, followed by President Richard Lyons and Vice President Jas. W. Cooke and the other members, and it was a splendid showing indeed. As the members proceeded down the main aisle, Mrs. J. W. McKennedy at the organ played Chopin's funeral march. The choir under the direction of Mrs. McKennedy, augmented for the occasion, rendered the impressive Gregorian plain chant. At the offertory Miss May E. Whitley in an exquisite soprano voice sang the beautiful Latin requiem hymn, "O Meritum Passionis" with deep devotion. After the elevation James E. Donnelly rendered "Jesu Salvator Mundi." After the mass as the men filed from the church the choir chanted "De Profundis."

NORTH BILLERICA COL. GOETHALS CHARITY BOARD

Drama Presented by Mathews in Talbot Hall To be Chief of Engineer Corps Wm. F. Curtin Says He Will Resign

PANAMA, April 20.—General Wm. F. Curtin will resign as chief of the engineer corps of the army June 11, and President Taft and Secretary of War Dickinson want to give the post of honor to Colonel George W. Goethals, chief of the Panama canal. While

At the regular meeting of the board of charities held Monday night at the board's headquarters at city hall, William F. Curtin made official announcement of his intention to resign as a member of the board. He said that in all probability he would not attend another meeting.

Mr. Curtin's brother members regretted his decision to resign and in his remarks Mr. Curtin took occasion to thank his fellow members for their courtesy toward him since the organization of the board last January. Mr. Curtin delivered a valedictory address in which he voiced his appreciation of the cordial relations that existed among the members and of the honest purpose that inspired every member to work for the best interests of the city and the welfare of the unfortunate placed in their charge.

The board was called to order soon after 8 o'clock. The board voted to give each ambulance surgeon a telephone at his office at the expense of the city.

On motion of Commissioner Rickard it was voted to delegate Commissioner Howe to introduce an ordinance into the city council, recommending the change of name of the city hospital to the Chalmers Street hospital.

In reporting a visit the board made to the city farm on April 7, Chairman McCarthy took occasion to call attention to the need of repairs generally. The chairman expressed considerable surprise at the general conditions found at the place and said it did not speak very well for those in power in the past to allow such conditions to exist without any concerted effort to correct them.

It was voted to have the lands and buildings department look over the

GREAT ENTHUSIASM PATRIOTS' DAY

Col. Roosevelt Wildly Cheered by the Hungarians

How the Holiday Was Observed in This City

BUDAPEST, April 20.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit left here last night by the Orient Express for Paris, where they will arrive Thursday morning. Instead of crossing Switzerland, the route runs north through the Austrian Alps and southern Germany, entering France at Avricourt.

Colonel Roosevelt's last day in Hungary only furnished additional proof of the deep impression his personality has made upon the hearts of the people, high and low. The pitch of enthusiasm increased to the moment of his departure. Hundreds cheered in front of the hotel when he left yesterday morning for a visit to the government stock farm at Babolna, where the breeding of Arab horses is carried on, and thousands were massed about the station when he returned at 7 o'clock last night. They greeted him with Hungarian cries, equivalent to the American "hurrah" for Roosevelt, which the ex-president, with his ability to grasp the meaning of things, seemed to understand and thoroughly appreciate.

The packed streets echoed the cries, as he passed, and this demonstration was thrice repeated later during the evening—in front of the hotel, as he departed for the breeding farm and on his return, and when he left the hotel finally for the station, where another frantic multitude had waited until midnight to see him off.

The same popular enthusiasm was displayed seventy miles from Budapest, on the drive from the railroad to Babolna. Carriages drawn by six horses, with drivers in picturesque Hungarian costume, conveyed the party through thatched-roofed villages, decorated with crude American flags, until they reached the breeding farm, where the colonel, in charge of the stud, an Arab who came from Syria as a stable boy, took the greatest pride in showing the fine points of the beautiful animals, saying to Mr. Roosevelt: "I am not married; my family is in the stable."

The ex-president and the ladies of the party, including Countess Szechenyi, who was Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, fed the horses with sugar. Later the party visited the broad mares, where Col. Roosevelt was shown a tiny thoroughbred which was born yesterday. It was a filly, but the colonel christened it "Roosevelt."

There was an inspection also of the blooded cattle, sheep, pigs and domestic fowl. When the party left the Arab asked the ex-president if he was satisfied, and in the way of a reply Mr. Roosevelt shook him warmly by the hand, saying "Good-bye comrade."

The dinner at the foreign office last night was followed by a big reception. Count Szechenyi, who had a narrow escape from serious injury from the whirling blade of a fan on board the train during the trip to the breeding farm, suffered no ill effects. The sharp blade fairly grazed his head; another half inch and it would have cleaved the skull.

SLANDER CASE

LONDON, April 20.—One farthing damages was awarded yesterday by the jury in a slander action brought by Jacques Henri Duveen against his cousin, Joseph Duveen, of the famous firm of Duveen Bros.

Jacques Duveen, whose real name is Handjas, complained that Joseph Duveen had described him as "an unscrupulous scoundrel, not to be trusted." Joseph on the stand yesterday denied using this language, but admitted describing the plaintiff as ungrateful, and explained how his firm had rendered assistance to his cousin. Under examination the plaintiff stated that he always went by the name of Duveen except when he signed legal documents, and then he signed "Handjas."

Patriots' day shone bright and clear, despite the fact that it was preceded by a night of rain, wind and nervous clouds. Those of us who "went to the feathers" about the midnight hour on Monday expected to awaken upon a rainy day, but instead of that there was sunshine everywhere and the air was deliciously balmy and refreshing.

Lowell's celebration of Patriots' day was not at all out of the ordinary. The ball games at Spaulding park constituted the big noise and the games were well attended. When a ball game is on all else is faded in the distance and while the games were in session yesterday the streets down town were pretty well deserted except for the coming and going of visitors.

The influx of the military like in the afternoon aroused considerable attention and enthusiasm. Though a fleeting show it was absolutely new and all along the line of march from Boston the boys were greeted with happy smiles. The scene at the armory in Westford street upon the arrival of the "likers" was one of great cheer and enthusiasm.

The moving picture show was the piece de resistance in the evening and although Lowell is fairly well supplied with houses of this kind they were not equal to the occasion last night and devotees of the moving picture were turned away at almost every picture house in the city.

The contingent from this city to Lexington and Concord was not as great as in days of yore. When the bicycle was having its innings the exodus from Lowell on Patriots' day was much greater than at present, quite a number went from this city to Lexington and Concord yesterday.

It seemed a great day for visitors in Lowell and one met a good many strange faces in the street. There was a good deal of automobiling, too, and there were other attractions in the line of games and sports besides the ball games at Spaulding park.

Everybody seemed to be having a good time. Even the fellow who remained at home to paint screen doors and windows and outside receptacles for flowers whistled as he painted and seemed to enjoy it as much as the fellows on the bleachers enjoyed the ball game.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY MOLLY VARNUM CHAPTER, D. A. R.

Patriots' day was celebrated in an appropriate manner yesterday by the members of Molly Varnum chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Spaulding house in Pawtucket street. A business meeting was held, at which officers were elected, and following the meeting a musical program was carried out.

Mrs. F. L. Roberts had charge of the musical program, and the entertainers were, besides herself, Mrs. W. H. Peppin, soprano, Mr. Harry Hopkins, tenor, Mr. Warren T. Reid, baritone, Miss Savage, accompanist, and Miss Annabel Savage, piano soloist. The program was as follows: Kipling's "Recessional" sung by the quartet; "The Serenade" by Schubert; Mr. Hopkins, "Passage Bird's Farewell"; Eugene Hildach, Mrs. Peppin and Mr. Reid; "The Garden of Roses"; Mrs. Roberts, piano selection, "Tendre Aveux" by Edouard Schmetz; Miss Annabel Savage, trio, "O Memory"; Mrs. Peppin, Mrs. Roberts, Mr. Hopkins, quartet, "Joys of Spring"; and the closing number the "Star Spangled Banner."

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. W. P. Brazier and Miss Mary A. Webster poured tea and chocolate.

AT CHELMSFORD CENTRE

A track meet on the common in the forenoon and a ball game on the Homestead grounds in the afternoon constituted the Patriots' day attractions at Chelmsford Centre. The track meet was between members of the Chelmsford high school and the Ellis class of boys of the Central Baptist church. The Ellis class won by a score of 54 to 27.

At the ball game in the afternoon the Chelmsford defeated the N. Y. N. H. & H. clerks by a score of 7 to 3.

At North Chelmsford there was a soccer game in the forenoon between the North Chelmsford Machine & Supply Co. and a picked village team. The boys from the supply company won by a score of 5 to 5.

GAME AT TEWKSBURY

A ball game was among the Patriots' day attractions at Tewksbury. The contestants were the Tigers of Tewksbury and the Indians of Lowell. The game was forfeited in the ninth inning by the Indians refusing to play on the umpire's decision.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

Met Pres. Taft at White House

WASHINGTON, April 20.—William Jennings Bryan and President Taft spent more than an hour closeted together at the White House late yesterday. The two great travelers exchanged remembrances, it is said, and both commented upon how well the other was looking.

The president rather intimated that being beaten at the polls didn't seem to be such a bad thing for one's health and happiness, after all.

"The call was purely a social one," said Mr. Bryan as he left the executive offices.

"Did you discuss the tariff bill?" was asked.

"No," smiled the Nebraskan. "We forgot all about it."

"Or politics?"

"No, that didn't occur to us either."

Both the president and Mr. Bryan seemed to have thoroughly enjoyed the quiet chat. Mr. Bryan walked in democratic fashion to the White House. He was received with the usual courtesy by the attaches and was shown at once into the president's office.

Mr. Bryan left at 7:55 o'clock last night for Lincoln, Neb.

CORPORATION TAX

The State May Lose a Large Slice of It

BOSTON, April 20.—Foreign corporations of all sorts, of which there are thousands in the state, that since 1903 have been paying the commonwealth an excise tax based on a percentage of their total authorized capitalization, have been presented with a very pretty gift by the United States supreme court.

In an opinion in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. the State of Kansas the court has ruled that a tax of this nature, based on the total capitalization of a foreign corporation and ignoring the property outside the state, is unconstitutional.

What hence this right home to Massachusetts is that the foreign corporation excise tax in this state is figured just as the Kansas tax is, on the total authorized capitalization, irrespective of the proportion used in and outside this state.

There was a time, not so very long ago, when this decision would not have upset the state treasury to any special extent. Of late, though, the corporations have been giving up something more than $250,000 a year—a sum which will make more than a little difference in running expenditures.

CLASSY BASE BALL

Five Thousand Fans Cheered the Lowell Team

Hartford and Utica Defeated and the Team Showed Up Finely—Tyler Was the Star of the Day, Pitching a Remarkable Game

Everybody connected with the baseball team to the fans themselves looked happy at Spaulding park yesterday, and there was a reason.

The management was happy because the day turned out fair and the crowds turned out fairly. The fans were gleeful because the Lowell team in the morning defeated Hartford, the champions of the Connecticut league and in the afternoon walloped the Uticans who in the morning had defeated Brockton, 10 to 1. They were also happy because the Lowell team showed unmistakable signs of strength and because Lowell showed in Tyler a pitcher who promises to do things this season. There were many in the crowds who were given their first glimpse at Spaulding park since it has been improved and they were much pleased with the changes.

Over 5000 people attended both games, about 1000 in the morning and the remainder in the afternoon and not a word of adverse criticism was heard at either game.

On Monday Manager Gray announced that he had bought First Baseman Jack Sullivan from Providence and Sully appeared in yesterday's game. Neither Gray nor any of the fans knew who Sully was until he appeared on the field and then he was recognized as Pat Sullivan, formerly right fielder and first baseman of the Lowell team who broke into professional ball in this city under Fred Lake. Sully must have improved a lot to make the Providence team and it shows any class here Manager Gray will gladly retain him. During the afternoon game Harry Huston arrived from the far west and watched the game from the grandstand.

THE MORNING GAME

The Hartford team, champions of the Connecticut league, was the attraction at the morning game and it presented an old opponent for a pitcher in the person of Ira Swanson, formerly with the Fall River team. Moore, formerly of the Millbrook (Me.) team, did the twirling for Lowell, and for six innings it was a pretty pitcher's battle with honors even. In the seventh, for some unaccountable reason, the visitors sent up a fellow named Wood to replace Swanson, and the home team took to Wood like a kid to a stick of candy. They swallowed him up and won out at the last moment. Moore surprised the local fans with his slow, straight delivery and as he pitched the first few innings they were nervous and couldn't see where he was going to get off, putting cream over as large apparently as balloons. The visitors, too, thought they had something soft in Moore's delivery and it was amusing to watch them fall for it. Moore showed up well.

AFTERNOON GAME

Nearly 5000 people turned out for the afternoon game. The bright particular star was little Tyler from Derry, N. H. Some fans there are who have doubts as to Manager Gray's ability to judge a ball player, not having much experience as a manager up to a year ago. But here is a case that proves that he knows a good player when he sees him. Last season Tyler who had been playing good ball in the country towns came here for a few games but was nervous before the multitude and proved to be an unsafe man in a pinch, but nevertheless he impressed Manager Gray that he had the goods somewhere concealed about his person and the latter held on to him, taking him along with the team for practice and reserving him for this year. Tyler by the end of the season had become used to his surroundings and went back to Derry vowing that he would show the goods this year. Yesterday was really his first appearance and he pitched a magnificent ball. He had everything known to the baseball art. He has speed and the slow ones shoots wide curves and drops galore, and the way he got them over the plate was a caution. He made the heavy hitting Uticans look like mad money and after the game they freely admitted that he was a good pitcher. He fielded his position nicely and with Sullivan figured in a sensational play at first base. Tyler didn't allow a single walk. He struck out 14 men and gave only four hits, a couple of which were of the scratch variety. Magee hit safely to center and Pitz scored while Flaherty made a beautiful play. Flaherty scored on Magee's two-bagger. Jones hit a line drive to Daly who doubled up Magee at second. In the fifth Campbell opened with a two-bagger and took third on Tyler's error. Flaherty bunted down the third base line and Campbell sprinted home, beating out the ball. The next two men were easy outs. The visitors scored in the first and ninth innings. In the opening inning, with two out, Orday fumbled Johnson's grounder and stole second. He scored on a single by Zimmerman while the latter stole second. Winder hit to left field for a clean single and Zimmerman attempted to make home. Magee fielded the ball quickly and by a perfect throw to the plate shut off the run. In the ninth an error by Campbell let Genest on first and he stole second. A clean single that nearly took the roof off Umpire Read's body scored him. Utica will play here again tomorrow. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

Troy today.

Big Pat Sullivan was quickly recognized by the fans. Sully broke into professional baseball at Spaulding Park when he played right field for Fred Lake.

Campbell, Orday and Flitz are three fast infielders.

Moore is a deceiving twirler. His delivery looks like easy meat but it isn't.

Flaherty's crack in the morning game would have been a three-bagger if he had not fallen.

As Al Winn once remarked: "Are we discouraged? No-oo-o!" Not at all. We have a good team.

Maybe that boy Tyler didn't bend them over, yesterday, 14 strikeouts, 4 hits, no bases on balls. Some ball playing.

Troy today, weather permitting. Utica tomorrow and Worcester Friday.

The attendances yesterday were up to expectations.

While Smith had difficulty in holding Tyler he lost only one out of 14 strikeouts. Smith has a bad finger on his right hand which probably had much to do with his inability to make the ball stick to his mitt.

Swanson, the Hartford pitcher, formerly played with Fall River. He still retains the goods.

Harry Huston arrived at the grounds during the game and will don a uniform today.

Jimmie Magee played classy ball in both games.

Hi Hi Dickson made his first appearance at the morning game and was most favorably impressed with the team.

PITCHER MURRAY

Textile Twirler Smoothed Up B. U.

Pitcher Murray of the Textile school team showed some class in yesterday's game against Boston University on the Textile school campus by holding his opponents down to two hits, allowing but one base on balls and striking out 14 men. He received good support, the team putting up a better game than it did against Lowell. The score:

CATCHER KLING

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20.—John Kling, baseball catcher, will walk across a stage at a music hall in Chicago twice a day for one week, beginning Monday next, in order, he says, that he may earn the $700 fine imposed on him by the National baseball commission. Kling said that he would report to Manager Chance of the Chicago National baseball club Sunday and play out the season for the $3500 offered him.

BOXING GOSSIP

The New York sports on Thursday night will see the bout between Pat Moore and Jimmy Walsh, which the fans here have been anxiously hoping for, and one of the Boston crowd are going over as they believe it will be worth all the effort expended. It was a big disappointment to the Boston sports that the bout was not arranged for there.

On the same night in New York there will be a bout between Louie Cross and Dick Hyland that should be a good one. Cross is anxious to get even with Hyland for the whipping he got in California some months ago.

The Pittsburg fans will have a chance to see Al Kaufman and Jack O'Brien meet Thursday night. As the limit is Andrew Morris, who surprised the sports by defeating Al Kibbie last week, was matched to box Joe Thomas at Lymanville, R. I., April 29. They will go 15 rounds, which assures the fans some strenuous milking.

John L. Sullivan, who is filling engagements in England, will sail for New York May 21.

Peter Maher again says that he is through with the boxing game, as he is aware that the old wallop is not there and he does not relish being knocked out continually by fourth raters.

Though Jim Barry got defeated, as usual, by Langford the other day in California he is said to have received more of the receipts than Langford. He got a guarantee of $2500. Langford worked on a percentage and received only $2472.

Ad Walcott, the lightweight champion, does not fancy the stage, so he has cancelled his engagements before the footlights; he is tired of that kind of work, though it brought him in a good revenue.

Flanagan of Boston, the 106 pound champion of New England, is out with a challenge to anybody in New England at that weight. His manager, James Moran, is willing to put up a forfeit for weight and a side bet if anyone desires to take him on. Lowell has two 105 pound men in the novice class but no world beaters. If Flanagan will let him up as soon as his thumb is right and will put up a forfeit to make the weight. After his go with Kid Shea in Waterbury last Thursday night Freddie came to the conclusion that he would stick to his own class henceforth. Shea had about eight pounds on Freddie. The men weighed in at 116 at 3 o'clock. Shea weighed 116 while Freddie weighed 116. Shea then had eight hours in which to put on weight as they did not enter the ring until 11 o'clock. The following day Freddie weighed 116 pounds with all his clothes on.

HONEY MELLODY

LOST THE DECISION TO YOUNG LOUGHREY

BOSTON, April 20.—The visiting boxers took all the honors from the local boys at the weekly bouts at the Armory Athletic association last night.

In the main boxing young Loughrey of Philadelphia, got the decision from "Honey" Melody of Boston at the end of 10 rounds. Melody was wild, but landed many telling swings which dazed the visitor at times. Loughrey sent Melody to the floor in the second and fourth rounds and had him staggering a greater part of the time but was unable to deliver a stiff enough punch to end the bout.

THAT PUMP LOAN

Appropriations Committee Couldn't Agree on Amount

Question of Increasing Wages of City Laborers Laid Over—Board of Charity Asked to File Amount of Indebtedness on Jan. 1909 and Jan. 1910

The committee on appropriations, Alderman Gray, chairman, met Monday night and dealt with business handed down by the city council for its consideration.

The first business before the committee was the recommendation of the committee on public buildings that $3200 be allowed for a shower bath and nine individual rooms in the Warren street engine house.

Inspector Dow of the buildings department was present and Alderman Walnwright asked him why the committee on buildings had not made a report with reference to other improvements in the department. Mr. Dow said he didn't know.

The estimates for work at the city farm and in the public schools were read.

On motion of Councilman Flanagan it was moved that the $3200 proposition be referred back to the committee on buildings with the recommendation that the committee submit a lump figure for all improvements.

The bill of $3200 owed by the charities department to the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children came up on the question of special appropriation. It was voted that the debts of the department in January, 1909, and in 1910 be submitted to the committee by the board of charities.

The Water Board

Members of the water board were ushered in at this point. President Van Tassel said the board felt that the old Morris pump had about outlived its usefulness. It had been in service since 1872 and was liable to break down at any time. The new pump would cost in the vicinity of $60,000. Building the foundation and installing the pump would cost perhaps $15,000 more.

The expenditure of $75,000 would come out of the revenues of the water department and would not, it was explained, effect the tax rate. Supt. Thomas said it would not be necessary to borrow this year as it would take a year or more to build a pump for Lowell.

Mr. Thomas spoke of the danger of a water famine and he said at such a time the Morris engine would not be equal to the task. "Twice today the engine broke down," said Mr. Thomas, "and we expect to keep repairing it now and then while we have it. Last year we paid $300 for repairs."

Asked as to the possibility of saving money to pay a part of the loan next year, Supt. Thomas said it wasn't fair to cripple the service. The department had a lot of work on its hands including the putting in of 200 new wells.

Robert J. Crowley said he did not believe in neglecting any part of the city. He said that the man in the outlying districts has just as much right to service as the man down town.

After the board had been excused the committee considered the proposition. Alderman Dexter said he would vote for an order to borrow $75,000 or any part of that amount necessary to buy a pump. The loan would not be negotiated until the arrival of the pump, but authority to the water board to go ahead on the proposition might be voted by the city council this year.

Chairman Gray thought that $65,000 was enough. Councilman Flanagan moved that $75,000 be borrowed. Alderman Walnwright said $70,000. It was evident that the members could not agree on a figure, and on motion of Councilman Flanagan the proposition was laid on the table until the next meeting.

To Increase Wages

Then came the proposition that the street department take the sum of $4000 from the general-treasury fund to increase the pay of the city laborers from $1.75 to $2 a day.

Chairman Gray wanted to know why the city laborer should receive more than the corporation employee doing the same work.

Councilman Flanagan said that Lowell was behind other cities in the matter of wages to city laborers.

Chairman Gray said that the test of the question was found in the number on the waiting list.

Councilman Donohoe spoke in favor of the order. He said the men were entitled to the increase.

Councilman Fulton said that the superintendent of streets should be the man to judge as to the relative value of his employees. Chairman Gray said he didn't think that there was money enough in the general treasury fund. About $8000 was left in the fund by the committee at the first of the year, and of this amount about $4200 was taken for the police board hearing, $1000 for Memorial day and one or two minor sums for other purposes. It was figured that there was a little over $2000 remaining. The order was tabled on motion of Councilman Flanagan.

SCOTTISH SONGS

In Fine Concert by the Caledonian Club

The Caledonian Concert company, a purely local organization, gave its opening concert in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, last night. The hall was packed to the doors and they do tell that there was some class to that entertainment. The concert opened with a march and reel played by Piper James Ramsay on the bag pipes. The Caledonian quartet composed of Miss Annie Hamilton, soprano, Mrs. F. L. Roberts, alto, Harry Hopkins, tenor, and John McLaren, bass, sang "Hail to the Chief." "Mary of Argyll" was given by Harry Hopkins, and Miss Hamilton sang "Angus McDonald." John McLaren sang the "March of the Camerons" and Mrs. Roberts sang "Our Ain Folks" for which she received a rousing encore. James E. Donnelly imitated Harry Lauder in two of that noted comedian's numbers. They were "When I Gae Back Again to Bonnie Scotland," and "The Wedding of Sandy McNabb." Master Wallace McLaren, in Clan Grant tartans, danced a Highland fling and the sword dance, with Mr. Ramsay at the pipes.

Messrs. E. D. B. Smith, Hopkins and McLaren pleased much with the trio "Wullie Brewed a Peck o' Maui." "MacGregor's Gathering" was Mr. Hopkins' account, solo, and Mrs. Roberts sang "Hoo Can Ye Gang, Ladle." "When Ye Gang Awa, Ladle." Miss Hamilton appeared to excellent advantage in "Loch Lomond" and Mrs. Roberts gave the familiar "Cam Ye Awa, Cam Ye Awa." Master McLaren contributed two more dance numbers, a sailor's hornpipe and an Irish jig, and the quartet for its second number sang "Green Grow the Rushes, O." The evening's entertainment closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire gathering.

BRITISH BUDGET

Was Re-introduced by the Chancellor

LONDON, April 20.—David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, re-introduced last year's budget in the house of commons yesterday. He declared that he realized that the present deficit of $131,240,000 would be more than wiped out when all arrears had been collected and that there would be an actual surplus of $14,800,000. If the budget had been passed as usual last year, he said, there would have been a surplus of $21,000,000.

The chancellor commented upon the remarkable decrease of 32 per cent. in the consumption of whiskey, which decrease he attributed mainly to the extra duty imposed. The loss in the revenue from spirits as compared with the estimated figures was $14,000,000.

An early feature of the debate was the intervention of William O'Brien, who bitterly attacked David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer. Mr. O'Brien insisted upon the correctness of the statement which he made in Cork, to the effect that the chancellor had promised the nationalists as concessions for their support of the budget, relief from the spirit, stamp and succession duties, brewery licenses, and land taxes and from a general revaluation. He stated as before, that he had read aloud to Mr. Lloyd-George a letter which he had previously sent to the chancellor and which contained a reiteration of the proposed concessions. As no witness was present at the reading Mr. O'Brien said the chancellor had thought it safe to issue his denial that such a letter had either been received or read to him.

Mr. O'Brien added:

"The matter involves the honor and character of the minister, and great personage as he is, he thereby makes an issue of truthfulness and straight dealing which I am quite willing shall be judged by those who know me and know him."

Mr. Lloyd-George, replying, declared again that Mr. O'Brien's account of their interview was grossly inaccurate. The chancellor admitted that upon dealing which I am quite willing shall be judged by those who know me and know him."

Mr. Lloyd-George, replying, declared again that Mr. O'Brien's account of their interview was grossly inaccurate. The chancellor admitted that upon dealing which I am quite willing shall be judged by those who know me and know him."

LESTER HORNBY

To be Tendered Reception Tonight

Lester G. Hornby, the young artist recently risen to fame, will be given a reception at the Whistler house this evening. Mr. Hornby's etchings are now on exhibition at the Whistler house and have attracted much attention.

Lester G. Hornby, of course you know, is a Lowell boy and others than members of the Art association will be pleased and delighted to meet him and greet him as of yore, for despite his great triumphs he is still plain Lester G. Hornby, and this though he ranks among the foremost of foreign etchers.

Paris was the first to recognize the young artist's and now his name is rapidly becoming known in his native land.

The young artist has been engaged to do etchings of Boston, under contract with Houghton, Mifflin & Co., the publishers, to illustrate a book on Boston by Judge Robert Grant, the author of "Unrecovered Bread." When he has finished these he will go abroad again.

PIANO RECITAL

The piano pupils of Mrs. Mary G. Reed, assisted by Miss Lesley Endicott Reed, cellist, and the Reed-Ellis trio, gave a recital in Kilson hall on Monday night. The program was one of great excellence. The pupils who took part were: Alice Peard, Mary Lamson, Myrtle Taylor, May Peard, Mrs. Morse, Miss Reed, Carlotta Abels, Ella Penn, Helen Abels, Ruth Bill, Marion Bill.

TO OPEN CAMP

AT LOWELL GENERAL HOSPITAL, FOR CONSUMPTIVES

A number of inquiries have recently been made concerning the Tuberculosis camp of the Lowell General Hospital, the following may not be without interest.

Last year the camp opened May 10th and it is safe to predict that it will open about that time this year. Much will depend upon the weather, as it would not be wise for persons unaccustomed to outdoor life to make their first venture while the ground is wet and cold, and the weather generally disagreeable. Indeed, if the weather should be quite ideal there is no reason why the camp might not open some days even before the above date.

Statistics show that those who remain longest in camp are the most benefited, hence there should be no delay in beginning this outdoor life at the very earliest date possible.

Persons thinking about spending the summer at the camp should consult the superintendent of the hospital, Miss Sara A. Bowen, at once, in order that they may be present at the first day for examination of applicants, and thus have the full advantage of the camp for all the time it is open. Even if you have not fully decided what is the best thing to do, then consult your physician or go to the hospital and talk the matter over with Miss Bowen.

The camp was not established for advanced cases of tuberculosis. It is not a camp for incurables. It is a camp established for those cases which experience has shown are most benefited by this particular kind of treatment, namely those in the early stages of the disease.

Through the continued generosity of Mr. Frederick Fawcett Ayer of New York City, no one need be deprived of the benefits of this camp because of the cost.

TWO VITAL THINGS REQUIRED IN TREATING SKIN DISEASES

In treating and curing Eczema and other well defined skin diseases, two vital things must be done. One is to exclude dust, germs and air from the diseased parts, and the other is to set up the healing process at the same time. The new medical preparation called Cadum accomplishes both these results so effectively that the itching is stopped as soon as it is applied, and the sore parts heal up in a wonderful short time. Anyone with skin trouble can test Cadum by getting a 10-cent box at any drug store, and thus personally realize the power of this new compound, which is just as effective in the cure of pimples, blotches, blackheads, eruptions, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, sores, chafings, etc.

SWIFT IS GUILTY

Ex-Councilman Convicted of Bribery

PITTSBURG, April 20.—Guilty as indicated, with a recommendation for extreme mercy from the court, was the verdict returned yesterday in the case of former Councilman M. L. Swift, Jr., the first of the victims of the graft scandal to be put on trial. He was charged with bribery. Assistant District Attorney Seymour said last night that Judge Frazer has signified his intention to consider the recommendation for mercy and also that the district attorney's office will not oppose Swift. He added that the "immunity bath" is still open to those councilmen who desire to tell all they know of the graft syndicate.

THE RUSSELL CASE.

Fresno Dan has been acknowledged to be the genuine Daniel Blake Russell by William C. Russell who has been fighting against the claims of Dakota Dan. Thus the sentiment of the people of Melrose is proved false and the decision of Judge Lawton confirmed as correct.

THE CHINESE RIOTS.

The United States government should take prompt steps to stop the anti-foreign riots in China. Famine, it seems, was the exciting cause of the trouble, but once the outbreak came the foreigners became the chief object of fanatical fury. China should be made pay heavy indemnity for failing to protect the lives and property of the foreigners.

WOMEN HISSSED THE PRESIDENT.

President Taft made a very gracious speech before the woman suffragists in Washington the other night. He had the candor to tell the women that he did not favor woman suffrage under present conditions, because he did not believe a sufficient number of women were interested in it. If women could vote, he said, the franchise would be exercised most regularly by the least intelligent or the least desirable. That may be true, and if men are induced for a financial consideration to remain away from the polls there is little doubt that women who do not fully appreciate the sacred character of the franchise could be easily persuaded to do the same. The president made an honest and reasonable speech and the women did not help their cause by hissing him as they did.

SENSIBLE PROTEST FROM MILKMAN.

The protest made to the board of health by Milkman Best has voiced the sentiments of a great many people throughout the city. The matter of a pure milk supply is important, of course, and as far as the board of health has taken wise action to secure that boon for the people, its course will be generally approved.

It may be, however, that as Mr. Best says, the rules and regulations for the care and sale of milk to stores are too strict to be conformed to by the ordinary milkman. For example, it is impracticable to put up milk in half pint bottles as will be necessary for those who have no ice and buy only from hand to mouth, if milk can be sold only in sealed bottles.

It appears that many of the independent dealers, owing to the rigorous regulations, are thinking of getting out of the business and thus the way will be cleared for the incoming of a milk trust such as rules in Boston. This would be unfortunate for the people of Lowell, and it is to be hoped that no action of the board of health will encourage any such result.

It is alleged that the trust is here already and is seeking a stronger foothold. Should a trust get control of the milk supply we would soon have to pay higher prices and perhaps get worse milk than we get now.

It is true, as Mr. Best states, that more may be accomplished by looking to the sanitary conditions of the homes than by too much strictness with the milkmen.

The board of health early in the season inaugurated a movement for cleaning up the city. As yet we are afraid that very little has been accomplished in that direction. Any one who passes along some of our streets and sees the amount of rubbish and filth that is visible in the alleys and back yards will realize that there has been no systematic attempt to clean up the city as a whole. It is time that something of the kind were done. Something more than hot air is needed to accomplish results in a cleaning-up crusade.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE MERRIMACK.

Why, oh why, do we not see a single sail upon the beautiful Merrimack? Why not even a coal barge gliding over her murky waters? Where is the Merrimack River Rafting company and where, we were about to ask, is the gallant Commodore Pierce? But we know of his whereabouts and in fact we have heard from him on this very subject of the navigation of the Merrimack from Lowell to the sea.

Commodore Pierce assures us that the navigation of the Merrimack from Lowell to the sea is not impracticable despite the obstructions of low bridges, the building over canals and the abolition of several free landings. On this subject the commodore says:

"Fifty years ago the steamer Herald was sailed down the Merrimack river and sailed to New York under her own steam. When she arrived in New York, she was the largest steam vessel used and the ferry that formed the foundation of the Jacob Vanderbilt vast fortune was running to Staten Island.

"A steamer I owned, the Evangeline, under her own steam sailed up from the ocean to Nashua, and back again to the sea safely.

"Since that time by the work of the Locks & Canals huge jetties eight feet have been removed, and with the exception of a few large boulders above Lawrence there is not a natural obstruction to navigation between Lawrence and Lowell, except some few dangerous points at Hunt's Falls. The cost of getting them out of the way would be mighty small. The locks at Lawrence are in perfect repair. Every rock removed or rock blasted out is out for all time."

Thus the people of Lowell are reassured on the question of navigation so that if congress is to appropriate any money for the deepening of the river bed, let the work begin at Lowell. It would be of enormous advantage to Lowell if it were feasible to convey coal from tidewater by boat.

This is a subject that should engage the attention of our congressmen, for the saving on the transportation of coal alone would soon pay the expense of deepening the bed of the river so as to overcome all the present obstructions to free and economical navigation of our magnificent river.

We commend this subject to the attention of Congressman Ames and ask him whether Lowell and Lawrence are not equally entitled to a slice of the river and harbor appropriation to improve the navigable qualities of the river from Lowell to the sea.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Several members of the Oberlin college faculty are planning to teach in the summer schools of other institutions. A. B. Wolfe will conduct a course in economics and a course in sociology in the Harvard Summer school. C. H. Cole will give three courses at Ohio State university. S. F. MacLennan will conduct two courses at the University of Chicago. Professor MacLennan will also deliver a public lecture on "Four Phases in the Development of Morals." Professor Amariel S. Newell, college librarian, recently delivered an address before the Indiana Library school, in session at Indianapolis. George M. Jones, secretary, and Dean E. A. Miller attended the annual meeting of the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools in Chicago, and Professor C. W. Savage participated in the meeting of the Football Rules committee in New York.

Professor Frances Squitte Potter and Professor Mary Gray Peck are to be at the head of the work of organizing suffrage settlements in the north country. The settlements are to be under the auspices if not the actual control of the National Woman's suffrage association. The idea is said to have originated with Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who at her own expense established them in New York, one in Harlem and the other on Henry street, Baltimore, Chicago and Spokane, caught the idea at once and settlements have already been established in all three cities.

Alto, La Gal and Monsieur St. Elia in "The Carnival of Rome" take Lawrence by storm. Alto, La Gal and Monsieur St. Elia are presenting at the Colonial theatre the latest Parisian pantomime by Riccardo St. Elia. Both stars electrified the audience, both in their pantomime work and in their dancing. It is the most pretentious pantomime ever offered in vaudeville and accredited by public press and managers the peer of them all. Mr. John Adams is to be complimented in presenting to Lawrence such a worthy offering, an object lesson to all and an act over which both sexes cry one minute and laugh the next. Capacity houses will rule all week and the public are to make their reservations and not miss it as it is the Madame X of vaudeville. The stars are assisted by 20 clever artists and dancers—the costumes are by Madam Frisinger of Paris and the scenery by Gabes & Morange of New York.

SOCIAL SIDE

OF CHURCH WORK DISCUSSED BY REV. DR. BAKER

A goodly number of the members of the Men's League of Calvary Baptist church listened to a characteristic talk by Dr. Smith Baker, Monday night, on the importance of the social side of church work. Dr. Baker started with the proposition that the organization within a church that was worth while was the one that co-operated with the pastor in booming his own church. A strong church in any city strengthens every other church in that city. The same applied to individual members of a church. A man's field of Christian endeavor is within the lines of his church home.

Look out for strangers. Make every one feel that he is among friends. Men go where they feel they are wanted. Preserve and exhibit a spirit of cheerfulness.

Dr. Baker told many delightful anecdotes in happy illustration of the points thus put out.

President, Aaron H. Maxey; vice-president, Louis Browning; secretary, John G. Gordon; treasurer, William G. Gardner.

Chairmen of standing committees: Membership, Elam Ryan Halseil; Sick and Aid, William P. Hills; Religious Work, Orson E. McGregory; Social, Calrow L. Stanley; Entertainment, Rev. A. R. Dilts; Employment, Hans Moller.

The league voted to hold a lawn party and named as a special committee to have full power to run the party, Messrs. Halseil, Hills, McGregory, Stanley, Dilts and Moller, together with the officers of the league.

SENATOR HALE

Tells Why He Withdrew From Contest

WASHINGTON, April 20.—While still far from voluble on the subject, Senator Hale talked last night with more freedom than during the day concerning his announced determination to retire from the senate. He told his friends that having been accorded the unparalleled honor of five full terms in the senate without contest of any character, he did not relish the prospect of entering into a scramble at his time of life.

But while this was the principal reason given by the senator, he made it plain that his course had not been dictated by any fear of the results. The senator contends that so far as the contest has gone the indications are entirely favorable to his reelection. It is the conflict itself that appeals to him. Seventy-four years of age and unused to opposition in his political aspirations, he says he simply hated to enter upon a scrimmage which, while it probably would result in his triumph, would be injurious to his health and at the same time greatly disturb his peace of mind.

Can Hugh Jennings Pilot His Tigers to Another Championship?

By TOMMY CLARK.

CAN Hugh Jennings and his band of ferocious Detroit Tigers pilot their way through the seven American league pennant hunters and thereby smash all National and American league records by capturing the flag for the fourth consecutive time? This question is now being discussed by nearly every baseball fan in the country. In the history of the present major league organizations no club has ever captured a pennant four years in succession. In fact, the only teams in the history of organized baseball that ever won four flags in a row were the Bostonians in the National association during the seasons of 1872, 1873, 1874 and 1875 and Charley Comiskey's St. Louis Browns in the American association in 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888.

If Jennings can lead his Tigers to the top this season he will have accomplished a task that proved too much for Ned Hanlon, Adrian Anson, the late Frank Selee, Frank Chance and Fred Clarke. These men were the commanders of clubs that finished first three seasons in succession, but none of them, however, could lead the banner for the fourth consecutive time. Now it's up to Hugh Jennings to make good.

Anson had the chance in 1883, Selee in 1884, Hanlon in 1887, Clarke in 1894 and Chance in 1909. The Chicago team, which carried off the honors in 1890, 1891 and 1892, finished second the following year, being forty-one points behind Boston. In 1891, 1892 and 1893 Boston led the field and wound up third in 1894, Baltimore winning the banner, with New York the runner up.

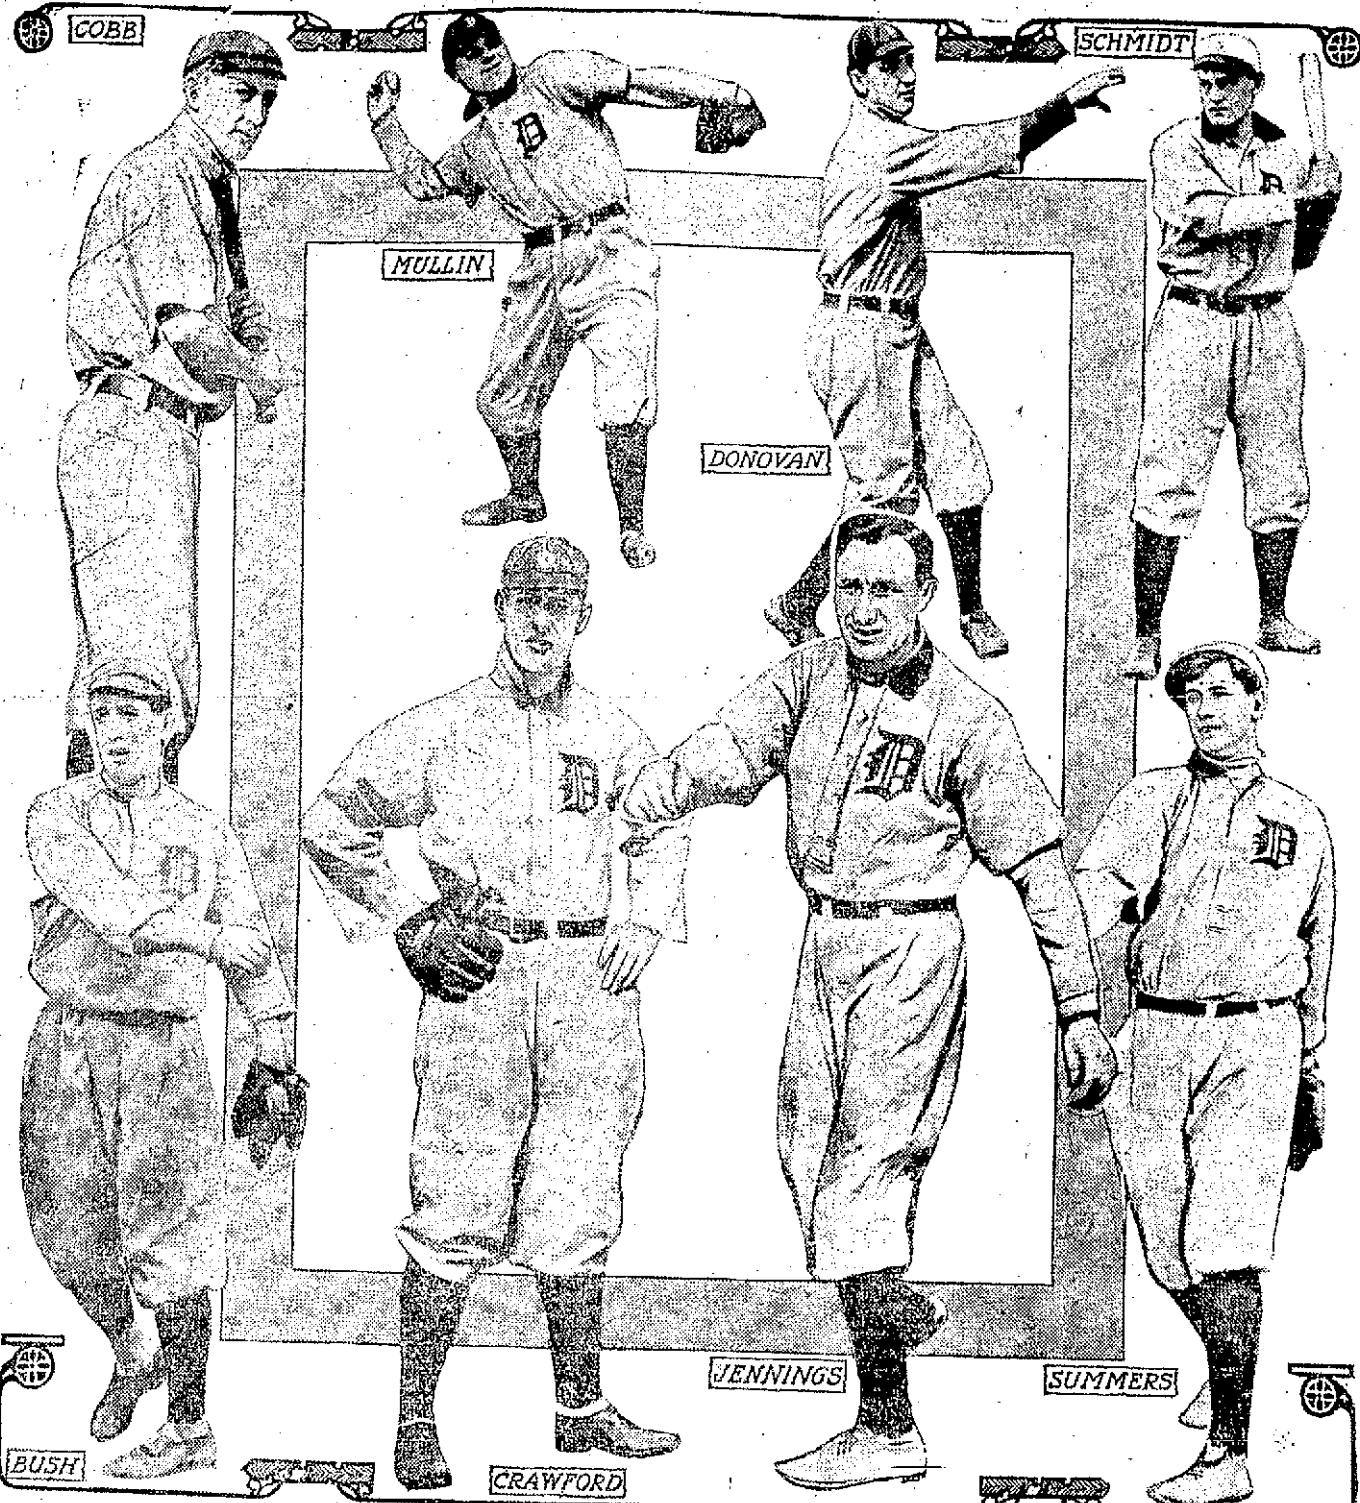

The Baltimore were the leaders in 1894, 1895 and 1896. One of them was Jennings, the record smasher. In 1897 the Bostonians wrested the championship title from the Orioles, who made a gallant fight to enter the ranks of four time winners. The Birdlets failed to do so, however, and when the final returns were in Boston's average was 705 and Baltimore's 693. In that year the destination of the flag hinged on the result of the final series between Baltimore and Boston.

The fourth National league team to win three flags in a row was Pittsburgh. The Pirates topped the list in 1901, 1902 and 1903. The following year they fell away off in their playing and dropped to fourth place.

Last year Frank Chance and his Chicago Cubs had the opportunity to become four time winners, but the Cubs ran a poor second to Pittsburgh, being forty-four points behind the Corsairs when the campaign closed.

The American league never knew what it was to have a team that finished first more than two years in succession until Hugh Jennings entered that organization. Chicago won the flag in 1900 and 1901. Boston was victorious in 1903 and 1904. Last year Jennings shattered precedents by piloting the Tigers to the top for the third consecutive time. He is now out to capture another govtalon.

Since the men started training this season no manager in the country has been working harder than Jennings in order to have his team as strong as ever. In fact, Hugh knows none has as much to lose as himself. History reveals that a three time winning team is about the limit. After that performance no manager has been able to keep a championship team from deteriorating, and that is what is making Jennings dig as he never has dug before. The lightning changes Jennings made in his makeup last season were in anticipation of a breakup. He saw it coming and put through trades that enabled him to get hold of First Baseman Tom Jones and Second Sacker Jim Delahanty. Jennings then appeared to be at the end of his string unless he could develop a star or two from his youngsters. Hugh has some advantage in the fact that he has experienced the slowing up of a pennant winner. He played short on the Baltimore Orioles during the day of three flags in a row and defeat by Boston for the pennant in 1897. He also closely observed the decline of the champion Giants under McGraw's leadership and the defeat of Chicago after they had won three pennants and two world's championships. Jennings is working his players harder than ever now. No detail escapes him. When a youngster shows a defect he is taken in hand until it is corrected. Cigarettes and late hours are barred, and the players are required to eat regularly and take the best care of themselves.

It is the general opinion that Jennings will experience tremendous difficulty in trying to keep the American league pennant for another year. It is also figured that the Tigers are destined to go back and go back badly in 1910 and that some club from the east, either Philadelphia or Boston, will be found at the top at the end of the 1910 campaign.

More Trouble For Horse Racing. Once more the thoroughbred horse racing game is in danger. This time it is the comparatively new field of Florida that is likely to be invaded, and the mountain that is gradually rising out of a molehill is becoming a menace to the future status of the game in the commonwealth of the everglades.

Jacksonville has enjoyed one of the few successful meetings held since the wave of anti-gambling sentiment began to sweep through the legislatures of racing states. The meeting saw many high class horses competing, the gate was profitable and the general tone of the meeting seemed excellent. But the inevitable has happened. An Irish owner—a woman, too—circulated handbills charging the management of the track with unfair tactics. She made it very much stronger than this. The gentleman against whom the diatribe was aimed saw fit to sue for criminal libel, and the matter has found its way into the courts.

A peculiar angle to the affair has jeopardized the status of racing in Florida. The woman's lawyer in the course of his attack set up the proposition that it is not a crime to publish a libel against any institution which in itself is illegal. He also sets forth that bookmaking is illegal on the ground that the law permitting it to be conducted in this manner is unconstitutional.

This of course brings the old heated subject of the legality of betting on horse racing right into the crucible, and the outcome of this wrangle, if the matter is pressed, is not difficult to see. It is unfortunate that this should come up again at this time, just when racing seems in a fair way to rehabilitate itself, and respectably. Probably the matter will be adjusted amicably when the racing authorities realize the serious import of this chance trend to the affair. At the same time the discussion will not help the game, which is now in its swaddling clothes in Florida.

Why Not Let Johnson Alone? Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, seems to be developing a very likely goat, which the various departments of the law in this land seem bent on capturing. Every time Johnson turns around he is made the butt of the displeasure of some legal official and is accused of all sorts of offenses. Many of these have been thrown out of court, indicating petianimus in the original arrest, probably due to race prejudice.

Recently Johnson was made the subject of the displeasure of a New York judge before whom the case of Norman Pinder against Johnson was brought. It was a case involving an alleged assault by Johnson during a row in a New York saloon. Because the prosecuting witnesses did not appear the court seemed to think that Johnson was the cause of their nonappearance, notwithstanding he had come all the way from Chicago to enter an appearance in the case. On the strength of this belief the judge raised Johnson's bail to $5,000 and kept the fighter in jail for five hours.

If it had been the case of a white man too hasty. If it had been a white man who had been arrested for no more serious an offense there would probably have been very little noise about the affair. It's almost time to let Johnson alone. He will have enough on his hands when he tackles Jeff on July 4. Some people think he will have more than enough.

McLean Not to Become a Fighter. Ever since he had a run in with Manager Clarke Griffith there has been considerable talk of Larry McLean, the Cincinnati Nationals' star catcher, quitting baseball and joining the ranks of professional pugilists. This talk is all tommyrot. While "Fighting Larry" is big enough to tackle Jeffries or Johnson, he will stick to the game he is best at. There has never been a successful ball player pugilist, while, on the other hand, any number of the topnotch boxers have proved to be first class ball players.

Terry McGovern, Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries and a host of others can play the national game with considerable skill. Wrestlers have tried time and again to gain honors in the prize ring, but could not make good. Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, would rather be a good boxer than anything in the sporting line; so would Dr. Roller, the Seattle grappler. Jockeys by the score have taken up the boxing game, and some of them made good, but the majority of the knights of the saddle found that they were not fitted for the ring sport. The latest turf star to adopt boxing as a profession is "Cash" Sloane, brother of the famous Tom Sloane. "Cash" won several bouts in Jacksonville recently and will try hard to hook up with the cracks in the east shortly.

Shrubb, Great Runner, Now Through. Alfred Shrubb, the great English runner, has long been considered in a class by himself at any distance from five to fifteen miles. He was practically invincible at the latter distance up to a year ago, but since then he has been beaten a number of times and is now practically broken down. Hard training for the Marathon distance of 26 miles and 385 yards proved too much of a strain for Shrubb at his somewhat advanced age and brought about his poor condition.

New Pool Table. A novel game of pool played on a new table has recently been introduced in the west. The table has two pockets in each side, one in the center of each end, and none in the corners. Ordinary billiard balls are used, and the game is really more like billiards than pool.

Players On and Off the Stage

By FRANK H. BROOKS.

THE New theater of New York kept its best wine for the last. Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale" was put on in the waning nights of the gorgeous home of drama and music. The production of what is supposed to be the last but one of Shakespeare's creations was the cap-sheaf of the work that has been brought out at the New theater since its opening.

The production was unlike any "Winter's Tale" that has been seen. This does not mean that "Winter's Tale" has bewildering scenic effects. True, it is of the Elizabethan period, and it has been thought by some commentators that it was written in compliment to Queen Elizabeth as an indirect apology for her mother, Anne Boleyn. Others dispute this. Anything about Shakespeare has been disputed ever since his genius was admitted.

"Winter's Tale" as seen at the New theater was the result of long study and training by the company that gave it. The arrangement of the scenes by tapestries was different, as it should have been, from any arrangement seen in this country or perhaps in any other. And yet the whole was worked out with such marvelous fidelity and care that on the premier there was not a hitch, not a jar, not a minute of drag, not a faltering on a single line. This on the first production of a Shakespearean play even by the most intelligent actors is almost unknown.

It can be said without any juggling of adjectives or without that sort of adulation that has become meaningless that never did a Shakespearean play have such an intense hold upon an audience as had this. It was one of the incidents that added to the accurate movement of the production. Not many cuts were made in the version. The costumes were Elizabethan. The equipage, dignity and beauty of Miss Edith Wynne Matthison made her fit the part of Queen Hermione. Harry Kolker, a wandering star, was the jealous King Leontes. B. M. Holland, known in all cities where there are plays, was the foster father of Perdita, which character was beautifully sustained by Miss Leah-Bateman Hunter, who was the personification of virginal innocence. Ferdinand Gottschalk—all of us remember him when he was one of the Rosina Vokes company, the only company of its kind—was the clown of the days when that word had a different meaning from that of today. And it may have been the trickery of the mean-descent—Gottschalk has kept out of the way of the years that overtake most of us.

English on an American Stage. Quite an admission when you think about it for an American manager to go to a German theater and pick out the star to play on the stage of a theater where English only is spoken. One reason why the manager did this, according to his own admission, is that there are not enough actresses to go round. The first consideration for selecting Mme. Marietta Oly was that she could act. But she had never played in English. If there had been some one else who was her equal as an actress and she had been conversant with English Mme. Oly would never have been drafted. Hence the conclusion that English speaking actresses who can act in this country are scarce. The venture was made in a New York theater, and it proved a success. Jaanuschek, Modjeska, Rhea and Janisch were stars on the English speaking stage, but in spite of their great histrionic talents they never quite got United States talk under control. Mme. Oly, however, has other things under control far better than any of those named. She is considered the best trained actress on the stage, and that is giving her a good deal of credit.

MISS KATHERINE KAELED.

When John Mason played his last week at Hackett's theater, in New York city, in "A Sea of People" he had a new leading woman in Miss Katherine Kaelred. She will appear in San Francisco during the summer as an actress-manager. She will return east next October, having contracted for a theater in New York city in which she will appear during the autumn season.

She lacks beauty, and her physique unsupported would empty a theater where she played, but she can look more than many American born and bred actresses speak. A twist of her wrist is enough to hold an old timer. She keeps herself in hand. Her emotions do not run away with her. She would not have been human had she not displayed some trepidation in appearing before an American audience as she did. Nevertheless she carried "The Whirlwind"—that is the name of the play—and left the impress of success upon it. But the fact remains that it is training that makes a triumph on the stage. Plenty of stage folks who think they can speak English are untrained for their parts, and many never get trained. An old manager who saw Mme. Oly, in her trial remarked: "She has succeeded in acting. Now if she can succeed in speaking English she might hand the secret to a lot of folks who are not on the stage, as well as many who are."

The Passing of Forbes-Robertson. Not many plays, if any, have been seen by "all sorts and conditions" as "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which has been on the boards at Maxine Elliott's theater in New York city since the opening of the season in the fall of 1909. The faultless production closed its remarkable business April 9, and it is now playing in Canada. It is one of the productions that was indorsed by the public almost without exception. It was succeeded in the theater where it had such a long run by "Lulu's Husband," a French farce, in which Mabel Barrison and Harry Conner are the principals.

When She Was Minnie Maddern. After all the triumphs (as well as failures) of the season back to New York went Minnie Maddern Fiske in "The Pillars of Society." Never mind now about that play. The story is about the little woman who, long before she became Mrs. Fiske, was wondering what would be the end of her aspirations. One afternoon in a western city Minnie Maddern was present at an afternoon tea. She was playing in the city in "Foggy's Ferry." It wasn't much of a play. Minnie Maddern then was not much of an actress. But there was one woman in the city who had seen her and "fell in love with her," a thing one woman does not often do for another woman. She invited Minnie Maddern to her tea. It was not a fashionable tea, such as many women now indulge in. It was just a quiet affair to which the woman who gave it invited a few of her near friends. Between slips the little actress almost tearfully admitted that she would never succeed until she found some one who would believe in her and who would either write her a play or help her in having a play written. The woman who gave the tea told Minnie she knew a friend who was ambitious to write a play for some one who would take the same interest in it that he would take. Minnie Maddern nearly spilled a cupful of tea on her gown over the prospect. A meeting was arranged. The little actress and the would-be playwright talked it all over. They talked like two children. "Just make it something that will give me a chance to climb," said the star of "Foggy's Ferry." She went on her way. The young man began writing a play. She waited and hoped and waited. The play was never finished. No matter why. And then Minnie Maddern turned her thoughts to other fields. If the play had been finished maybe she would never have been Minnie Maddern Fiske. For many reasons. She met Mr. Fiske, that was one reason. No matter about the others.

Playhouses For Women.

Almost within speaking distance of each other are two theaters in a side street just off Broadway, New York city, that were built to please two women. One is the Maxine Elliott house; the other, just opening, was erected to please Mme. Nazimova, the Russian actress. She had frequently expressed a wish to have such a playhouse as that which opens April 18. She calls it "A dear." The parquet floor contains 325 seats, the balcony has 175 and the gallery has 150. There are four boxes on each of the proscenium opening, and each box has six seats. The interior decorations are in the Louis XVI style. The walls are paneled and inclosed silk tapestry. The entire color scheme of the house is in old rose with antique bronze decorations. The drop curtain, all the draperies, the seat upholstery and the carpets are in old rose tones, harmonizing with the silk tapestry wall panels. While the house was being constructed Nazimova passed many of her nights in going about other theaters just as outsiders who buy their tickets do and enjoying the plays, dreaming always of the night when she would appear in her own little place. Her enthusiasm for her work is almost childlike. Not long ago she was in a box at a theater. She became so excited that she was fearful that her nervousness would be noticed, so she slid from her chair upon the floor and in that attitude she revealed in the scene on the stage. She lives in her profession. That is why she has succeeded and that is why somebody had enough faith in her to build her a theater she could call her "own little playhouse." The same sort of interest in any business will win.

Fun For the Players.

The little things that are not on the program give the players a bit of fun on the side and help to put a rift in the monotony. One of a chorus may have neglected properly to adjust some part of her makeup, and then it is the company's time to say something witty. The audience does not see it or hear it. Gossip on the stage is not permissible by a stage manager, but it happens just the same.

MAY DE SOUSA AND HARRY FAIRLEIGH.

MISS MAY DE SOUSA.

Miss May De Sousa, who first played in a Broadway theater last winter, is the prima donna in "A Skylark," a musical production that recently started in for a summer season. If all goes well, at the New York theater. The piece is under the direction of Henry H. Harris. Miss De Sousa's principal support is Harry Fairleigh. Her home is Chicago. She began as a singer in the smaller cities and towns in the middle west. Then she went to Europe, where she finished her musical education. After appearing in London and other European cities she returned to the United States and was seen last winter for the first time in New York city in the "Goddess of Liberty" at Weber's.

MILITARY HIKE

From Boston to Lowell a Feature of the Holiday

The Squads Were Cheered by Great Crowds Along the Way and Got a Great Reception on Reaching Lowell—Banquet to the Officers by Humphrey O'Sullivan

A squad of soldiers from Company F, Fifth regiment, M. V. M., yesterday won the first military marathon ever held in this country by walking from Boston to Lowell in the remarkable time of 5 hours and 57 minutes, and also captured the handsome trophy offered by Humphrey O'Sullivan of this city.

That a great deal of credit is due the members of the winning squad as well as others for their remarkable showing is due to the fact that instead of being stripped down to light running regalia the contestants wore their uniforms, carried their muskets and other military accoutrements.

The places of the first ten finishing squads, with the time of the first four, entitled to cups, follow:

First, Company F, Fifth, M. V. M., Waltham, 5 hours, 57 minutes.

Second, Company I, Naval Brigade, Fall River, 6 hours, 13 minutes.

Third, Company A, Naval Brigade, Boston, 6 hours, 15 minutes.

Fourth, Signal Corps, Boston, 6 hours, 22 minutes.

Fifth, Fifth company, C. A. C., Chelsea.

Sixth, Company H, Fifth regiment, Charlestown.

Seventh, Company C, Sixth regiment, Lowell.

Eighth, Company G, Sixth regiment, Lowell.

Ninth, Company II, Ninth regiment, Boston.

Tenth, Second company, C. A. C., Boston.

That widespread interest was taken in the event was evident by the thousands of people who were lined along the course watching the soldier boys as they passed. Between Billerica and Lowell the crowd of spectators was the largest, while along Thorndike street and portions of Westford and Chelmsford streets the crowds were kept back from the middle of the street only through the strenuous efforts of the police.

The infantry was badly beaten at its own game by the navy, for although the first prize was captured by Co. F of the 5th infantry the naval brigade took second and third place with Co. I of Fall River and Co. A of Boston, and but for the escape of one man, who had to be carried for nearly half the distance, the Fall River boys would have won handsly.

For the contest 27 teams reported at the state house at 8.45 a.m., each team try six teams, the 4th infantry, 5th teams, and the 8th infantry. They were all in light marching order, the blanket roll being discarded, but every man had to carry his rifle, bayonet, haversack and canteen, and everything that had to be partaken of during the march in the shape of food and liquid refreshments had to be carried on the person.

Start From State House

There was a large crowd of interested spectators present to see the start, including Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Brig.-Gen. Brigham, and the members of the governor's staff.

It was 10.40 when the bugle sounded the march, and then commenced one of the greatest tests of endurance ever attempted by soldiers in this country, either in the militia or the regular service, and the first competitive march ever undertaken in this country.

The goal was 26 miles away, Lowell, and the 27 teams started off at a good five miles an hour clip, down Bowdoin street to Cambridge street, and then the line began to straighten out.

Arriving at Cambridge bridge, several teams attempted to get into a better position, some going at double time, and the pace was increased to six miles an hour. Co. B of the 6th infantry forging ahead, but just before Cambridge was reached Co. H of the 9th infantry, by a long spurt at double time, went into the leading position, with its second team close up.

The clip up to Harvard college had been a killing one and the line was strung out nearly half a mile with Co. H of the 5th infantry bringing up the rear, and it was seen even at this early stage that some of the weak teams could not last half the distance.

Inman square, 3 1/2 miles from the start, was reached in 25 minutes, and here one of the teams of Co. G, 6th, put on a spurt at double time and ran through the whole outfit, but it was undoubtedly their undoing, as they shortly after fell back with several of the men in distress.

Brushes For First Place

North Cambridge, 4 1/2-10 miles from the start, was reached at 10.24 with the second team of Co. G, 6th, in the lead, while close up came Co. H of the 9th, the 12th company, C. A. C., and Co. of the 5th well hunched. The rear company at this point, Co. H of the 5th, was eight minutes behind the leaders.

For a couple of miles up Massachusetts avenue there were several brushes among the leading teams for first position, and as a result these teams ran well from their competitors, with the rear company at this point, Co. H of the 5th, was eight minutes behind the leaders.

show up as they passed team after team and began to crawl up on the leaders. At this point Co. G, 6th, lost a man from its second team and was out as far as any chance of winning was concerned, but the seven men kept gamely on.

Arriving at the 11-mile post on the town line of Winchester and Woburn, Co. F, 5th, was still in the lead, the time from the start being two hours and three minutes, and with the web-feet from Fall River 100 yards in the rear. Close up came the 12th company, C. A. C., signal corps, and Co. A, naval brigade. All five teams were strong and fit at this point.

Hard March to Finish

At the 14-mile post the Fall River boys overhauled the team from the Watch city, the time being 2 hours 42 1/2 minutes. Co. A, naval brigade, and the team from the signal corps were five minutes behind the leaders, but both were going strong.

At 15 miles Co. A, naval brigade, began to close up and was pushing the leaders, but both had men in bad condition, two men in Co. L, naval brigade, being badly used up, but the balance of the team was strong, and they helped the weak ones along by carrying their rifles. It was at this point the Yeoman Louis R. Morley showed the stuff that he is made of, as he not only carried three rifles for over eight miles, but also assisted one of his weak comrades by holding him up by the arm.

Arriving at Billerica, 19 miles from the start, which was covered in 4 hours and 17 minutes, one of the Waltham boys showed signs of distress, but by a comrade carrying his rifle and he hanging on to the belts of his teammates, he was dragged along.

From here to the finish it was a hard march, but the boys were game, and the great majority, as up to that time but five teams had withdrawn from the contest, 22 teams passing through the square in good order.

At North Billerica things began to look different, as the five leading teams had opened up a gap of nearly two miles, and the news being carried back disheartened many of the men, and the electric cars which began to pass the teams had a very inviting appearance to the weary and foot-sore soldiers. Several after passing this point gave it up and took cars to Lowell.

Waltham Boys 16 Minutes Ahead

At Billerica the boys of the Waltham company found awaiting them Capt. Hamilton and a score of their comrades, who cheered them along the last six miles, in fact so much so that after marching along for a mile they wrested the lead from Co. F, Fall River, and kept forging to the front, landing in the armory 16 minutes ahead of the webfeet.

The last four miles was performed under most gruelling conditions, the men stooping in mud puddles to wet their handkerchiefs to bathe their heads.

The time for the leaders was 5 hours and 52 minutes, which was little over four miles an hour for the 26 miles, arriving at 3.32.

The third team to arrive was Co. A, naval brigade, who crossed the line at 3.55; fourth, the signal corps at 4.10; fifth place, 12th company, C. A. C., Fall River, 4.12; sixth place, Co. H, 5th infantry, Charlestown, 4.15; seventh place, Co. C, 6th infantry, Lowell, 4.40; eighth place, Co. G, 9th infantry, Boston, 4.55, with about 100 men in place, Co. G, second team, 6th infantry, Lowell, 4.59; 11th place, Co. L, 6th infantry, Boston, 5.15, with six men.

The latter squad was commanded by Sergt. H. E. Carter, 48 years old, and who has been in the service 32 years. He finished as fresh as many of the younger men.

Immediately the teams arrived at the armory they were examined by the surgeons, and none was found to be worse for the trip. The principal trouble with men who fell by the wayside was through stomach trouble and cramps in the legs.

Names of the Winners

The first prize was a magnificent trophy presented by Humphrey O'Sullivan of Lowell, and the second, third and fourth prizes were silver cups presented by Capt. Gardner W. Pearson and officers of the Lowell companies.

After the contest the competitors were the guests of Mr. O'Sullivan, and later in the evening he tendered a

From Tewksbury Was Arrested Here Today

Rosa Medeiros Cravner, aged 21 years, and a resident of New Bedford, who was an inmate of the state infirmary at Tewksbury, made her escape from that institution yesterday, but she had been at large but a short time when she was placed under arrest in Merrimack square last night by Patrolman Kilroy.

She was taken to the police station and placed in one of the detention rooms. This morning when a doctor and a nurse and officer from the Tewksbury institution called for the woman she was seized with a fit of hysteria and it was found necessary to send to Tewksbury for the ambulance.

Shortly before noon the ambulance arrived and the woman was taken back to Tewksbury.

THE MARATHON RUN SOCIETY PEOPLE

Was Won by Cameron of Nova Scotia in Fast Time

BOSTON, April 20.—Fred L. Cameron of the Amherst (N. S.) Ramblers ramblined in a comparatively easy winner of the annual Patriots' day Marathon of the Boston Athletic Association yesterday. Cameron was one of a field of 135 starters that swept down "Old Maid's" grade at Ashland, the starting point of the race, at just high noon to a second. Two hours 23 minutes 52.2 seconds later Cameron broke the worsted in front of the B. A. A. clubhouse on Exeter street. Only twice before in the history of the race has the distance been covered in faster time, one of these occasions being when Longboat did his 26, 24m. 24s. in 1907. Henri Renaud, last year's winner, did not better than 2h. 53m. 20.4s.

Just a minute, plus one-fifth of a second, behind Cameron came Clarence H. DeMar of the North Dorchester A. A.—the only local starter to appear within the prize list of eight. DeMar had run a waiting race, eating up distance in a spectacular fashion during the last five miles. And it is one of the numerous "ifs" of the race that had he started to extend himself a bit earlier, the mammoth trophy cup, that goes with the winning might not only have remained on this side of the border line, but not been won by a local runner. Not since Timmy Ford won in 1906 has a Marathoner of Greater Boston been able to pull down the capital prize.

It was a great day and a great race for the Canadians, for, in addition to uncovering the winner in Cameron, three others of those to finish in the first eight all hailed from Ontario. These were: James J. Corkery of the Canadian Irish A. C., who finished third and came nearest to making good than any of the other numerous favorites before the race. Behind Corkery in fourth place came a fellow-townman, John R. Roe, from the West End Y. M. C. A. Seventh place went to the short and choppy edged R. E. McCormack of the Tecumseh C. C. of Toronto.

Several things stick out conspicuously in connection with Cameron's win. In the first place, when the Amherst Ramblers underwent the customary examination just before the start it was found that his heart had the worst "murmur" of any of the starters. There was nothing, however, in his running to indicate that he possessed even a trace of what is popularly known as "heart trouble," and when he was again examined, just after finishing his 26 miles, he was found to be in far better condition physically than any of those who came in behind him. Seven pounds of flesh and the price he won him the scales showing 115 pounds when he stepped upon them before the start. He could just bring up the arm at 111 pounds at the finish.

The Lowell Runners
John Rogan of this city, who participated in the race, was disqualified by President Sullivan of the National Amateur Athletic union, for running

BOSTON, April 20.—The Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the American Revolution celebrated their 21st birthday yesterday with a dinner at the American House. The men who spoke all emphasized the importance of turning the ideals of patriotism and liberty for which the society stands into a practical endeavor to face and fight the problems which threaten the Republic today, as the minutes men of 1776 faced and fought the British at Lexington and Concord.

The dinner was preceded by a meeting at the Old South Church at which the regular annual business of the society was transacted and officers for the ensuing year were elected. The Massachusetts society, according to a report read by the secretary, has now a membership of 1600, of which number seven are actual sons of men who fought in the Revolution. These are: John Adams of Gardner, Albert Barnes of Keamsburg, Elisha J. Faxon of Salem, Elisha Gifford of Worcester, George Mitchell of Groveland, Henry R. Reynolds of Dorchester and Cyrus S. Rockwell of West Bangor, N. Y.

The following officers were elected by a unanimous vote: President, Nathan Warren of Waltham; vice-presidents, Edwin Sandford Crandon of Springfield and Luther Atwood of Springfield; secretary, Herbert Wood Kimball of Waban; treasurer, Dr. Charles Montville Green of Boston; historian, Brig.-Gen. Philip Reed of Lowell; chaplain, the Rev. Lewis Wilder Hicks of Wellesley; board of managers, Alvin Richards Bailey of Newton, William Williams Bartlett of Roxbury, David Floyd of Winthrop and Wilford Jacob Littlefield of South-bridge.

THE HYDE TRIAL
The State Trying to Prove Motive

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20.—John Lucas, representing Dr. B. C. Hyde, today renewed his fight in the midst of the testimony of Miss Pearl K. Allen, a nurse, in order that the defense might argue the point. The court has held this far that the state has a right to introduce any testimony it may desire regarding the mystery in order to prove motive.

BURIED AT SEA
Two Babes Died on Steamship

BOSTON, April 20.—Two deaths occurred on the Italian steamship Lazio, which arrived here yesterday from Mediterranean ports. Shortly after leaving Naples Vello de Ruco, an infant of 8 months, was found to be suffering from intestinal trouble, and Latoria Cirio, the same age, was afflicted with acute bronchitis. In mid-Atlantic the infants died and their bodies were buried at sea. On arrival four age passengers were rushed to the Carney hospital one having spinal meningitis and the others fever.

Giuseppe Latano, classed as a stowaway, was found concealed in one of the ladies' lockers. He had a large sum of money in his possession and claimed he was carried away from Naples by mistake, having boarded the ship to say good bye to a relative.

The 1600 stowaway passengers proved one of the cleanest lots of immigrants brought to Boston in a long time from Italy. Many were returning to their country from visits and a considerable proportion are destined to the middle west. But 60 were held for investigation by a board of special inquiry.

CAUGHT IN POLICE TRAP

DRIVERS OF AUTOS

To be Summoned Into Police Court Next Week

Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department, is determined to put a stop to the reckless driving of automobiles through the streets in the congested parts of the city and with that end in view yesterday he set two traps, one in Central street and the other in Moody street. During the early part of next week about six drivers of automobiles and two drivers of motorcycles will be haled into court to show why they should not be fined for exceeding the limit of speed prescribed by law.

Numerous complaints have been made at the police station relative to the reckless manner in which the drivers of automobiles have sped their machines through the congested streets, irrespective of life or limb of people who happened to be crossing the streets. It was only recently that a reckless chauffeur while passing through Moody street ran into and knocked down a boy who has suffered internal injuries and his mental faculties are so deranged that he will never recover them.

After receiving the complaints and taking into consideration the reckless manner of some of the autos, Supt. Welch yesterday assigned the members of the liquor squad to look out for speeding autos during a portion of the day.

Sergt. Duncan and Inspector William Grady were assigned to Central street and inspectors Fox and Dwyer to Moody street and during the time that they were at work they held up many people and cautioned them about their speed while some of the violations were so flagrant that when the superintendent of police learned of them he ordered the drivers of the cars to be summoned into court.

The trap in Central street was an eighth of a mile in length and extended from Hurd to Merrimack streets. Sergt. Duncan was stationed at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets with a stopwatch in hand, while Inspector Grady was at the corner of Hurd and Central streets. When the latter saw a machine speeding through the street at a rate which he thought was excessive he waved a handkerchief and Sergt. Duncan started his stopwatch. If the auto was traveling more than the prescribed number of miles an hour the man was held up and questioned, his name and residence taken, also the number of his machine.

In Moody street the trap was set between Suffolk and Allen streets and while Inspector Philip Dwyer did the wave act with the handkerchief Inspector Frank Fox handled the chronometer.

According to the automobile law recently enacted cars must not be driven at a speed exceeding eight miles an hour in the congested portions of the city where there are intersecting streets, not more than 12 miles an hour where there are no intersecting streets and not more than 15 miles an hour in the suburbs where the houses are less than 200 feet apart.

SECOND CONTESTANT

Appears in Charles E. Adams Will Case

Mrs. Dale of North Attleboro Claims To Be An Heir—Judge McIntire Hears the Marital Troubles of Mrs. Marion and George Byam, Jr., in Contested Session of Probate Court

Now it's the Middlesex probate court, that is overwhelmed with cases, owing to the celebrated Russell and Glover cases which occupied the attention of Justices Latham and McIntire for so long a time. Both judges appeared at the local sessions this morning, it being Judge Latham's first appearance for many months. Judge Latham presided over the uncontested session while Judge McIntire held court in the afternoon.

Judge McIntire announced at the opening of the contested session that counsel would experience some difficulty in getting immediate assignments of cases owing to the crowded condition of the list. There are many cases, he said, that have been on the list since last fall.

Price Case Again
The family troubles of Louis Price and his wife, Sarah, which have previously been heard before Judge Chamberlain, are evidently not yet at an end, for this morning the first case on the list was a petition of Louis Price for a modification of the decree recently given by Judge Chamberlain, giving the custody of their child to the mother. Mr. Price asked that the decree name how often and under what conditions he can see his child and enjoy the little one's company. Judge McIntire suggested that as Judge Chamberlain was familiar with the facts in the case that counsel could present the matter to him at Cambridge next Tuesday and it was so agreed.

Adams Will Case

The contested will case of Charles E. Adams, contested by John Q. Adams, of Lowell, and Mrs. Dale of North Attleboro, a new contestant, claiming to be a cousin of the deceased, was in today's list and Messrs. McEvoy for the contestant Adams and Judge Pickman for the will asked for an immediate hearing, if possible. Mrs. Dale's counsel was not present in court. Judge McIntire was unable to assign a date for the hearing today but asked counsel to confer with him at Cambridge next Tuesday when a date will be set for a hearing in this city.

The separate maintenance case of Gould vs. Gould was continued one month.

Byam vs. Byam

One of the features of the alleged cruel and abusive treatment of Mrs. Marion W. Byam by her husband, George Byam, Jr., as told Judge McIntire by Mrs. Byam was that he would make fun of her figure in front of other people and ridicule her about her physical appearance. Mrs. Byam sues for separate maintenance. They were married in 1905 and the wife claimed that their troubles began six months after their marriage. Mrs. Byam has been living apart from her husband since January, 1910. There were several witnesses. A brother and a sister of the petitioner, residents of Bradford, testified to a conversation with Mr. Byam in January at the time of the separation, in which Mr. Byam stated that his wife had always been faithful but that he didn't like her any more and would give her $5 per week but would not live with her. The brother testified that when reminded of the child Mr. Byam said that the child was too much like its mother.

PERISHED IN A GALE

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., April 20.—Three fishermen of Priests Pond, a small settlement on the north side of this island, are believed to have perished in a gale off shore yesterday. The men, Peter Schan, 21 years; A. Holland, 18 years, and Lergus Campbell, 30 years, put out at dusk yesterday in a power dory to tend their nets. The wind blew strong off shore and the sea is said to have been so high that the power boat could not live in it. After the boat was half a mile out one of the occupants is reported to have been seen working at the engine.

A boat sent in search of the three fishermen returned without finding any trace of them. The government steamer Brant went out today in hope of finding some trace of the men or boat.

JAMES PATTEN

Says He Will Pay for Cotton

NEW YORK, April 20.—James Patten of Chicago denied flatly today that he was associated with any other interest in the cotton market and said that he was disposed to stand by his present position in the market.

Mr. Patten said: "I am not under any agreement with any other interest in the market. I was long on cotton before I even met the other gentlemen who are supposed to be bulls in the market, but naturally, as we are on the same side of the proposition our interests are to that extent mutual. I intend to take up the cotton called for by my contracts and to pay for it. I am willing to make contracts to supply mills anywhere in the world with cotton so far as my holdings will go. If the government wants to stop trading in futures why is not a plain statement made to that effect instead of instituting proceedings which merely tend to confuse the entire trade."

6 O'CLOCK HE SHOT HIMSELF Man Wanted to Leave Wife Free to Marry

NEW YORK, April 20.—The happiness of his wife is more to John Kinosh than his own life and so he shot himself today that she might be free to marry another man whom he believed she loved.

Kinosh's wife, Annie, had a sweetheart in Poland named Michael Solder before she came to America several years ago. Solder came to this city a few months ago and went to live with the Kinoshs. The husband thought he saw signs of renewed affection in his wife for her old sweetheart. Early today his wife was aroused by a revolver shot. Her husband lay gasping on the floor with a bullet in his abdomen.

"I am in the way," he said. "I shot myself so you could marry Mike."

They carried him off to the hospital and the doctors say he is dying.

Mrs. Kinosh says she loves only her husband and that his suspicions were groundless. Solder agrees with her.

LABOR WAR BREAKING UP

PITTSBURG, April 20.—The strike of the engineers employed in the erection department of the Pressed Steel Car Co is disintegrating, and according to the car company officials the plant is today operating with over 2500 men, an increase over yesterday of 1700 men.

Storekeepers who refused credit to the striking men are said to be responsible for the breaking up of the labor war. There was no disorder on the streets of McKees Rocks today. About a thousand men who yet remain on strike will hold a meeting late today to determine further procedure in their demands upon the car company for recognition of their organization, the Industrial Workers of the World.

MEAT PRICE HIGH KEEN RIVALRY

Because Fake Bids Are At Election of Officers Offered of D. A. R.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 20.—The high price of meat is due partly to the intense competition in bidding for cattle between buyers regularly employed by Swift, Armour and Morris, and buyers employed by the National Packing company, which is controlled by those interests, according to testimony given yesterday by A. N. Benn, vice president of the St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision company, in the investigation of the packing companies by Attorney-General Major of Missouri.

To this alleged "competition" the witness specifically attributed the recent price of $11.15 for hogs. Benn stated that buyers, ostensibly representing the National company, but in fact, representing Armour, Swift and Morris, frequently bid against the buyers directly employed by these firms and thus force up the price of meat. The benefit of this policy, which raises the cost price of raw material for the meat companies, was explained by the investigators as producing an illusion of competition in the eyes of the public.

"The competition between the different buyers is something fierce," said Benn. "If it had not been for that we should not have had hogs at $11.15."

"It looks as if the Swift, Armour and Morris interests are really trying to lift themselves over the fence by boot straps," commented Attorney-General Major.

"That's just what it is," agreed Benn.

KYLE WHITNEY

GOT THE DECISION OVER BILL HURLEY

LAWRENCE, April 20.—Kyle Whitney of California got the decision over Fighting Bill Hurley of Glens Falls, N. Y., before the new Bay State club last night in 15 rounds of hard fighting. The white man was outclassed in all particulars, but he put up a game battle, taking a vast amount of punishment. The colored Californian was quick and had plenty of strength, behind his blows. Time and again Hurley saved himself by grappling, and the bout resembled a wrestling match. Whitney carried himself safely throughout, and seemed to be looking for an opportunity to deliver a knockout blow. Hurley appeared groggy as the bell ended the last round. In skillful boxing the New Yorker was no match with the dusky lad and even at nighting, which Hurley preferred, he was not the star. Whitney's favorite blow was a right swing to the jaw and he landed many times. In the clinches the crowd thought that Whitney was inclined to use his shoulder and was cautioned two or three times by the referee.

Young Cashman of Northboro showed his superiority over Young Papke of this city in a three-round preliminary in what was to have been one of eight. Young Ivers and Young Burke went eight to a draw and Young McGhee of this city bested Mark Taylor of Haverhill in six.

RICHARD CROKER

Looks for a Union of Republicans and Democrats

NEW YORK, April 20.—"What I look for is a union of democrats and republicans," said Richard Croker thoughtfully today while discussing the Rochester congressional election. "We're going to see one big party that will be made up of representative men from each of the leading political parties."

The former Tammany chieftain, now grizzled with advancing years, departed today on the Lusitania after a several months' sojourn in this country.

"The trend of events," continued Mr. Croker, "has been in that direction for a long time and it probably will not be very long before we see vigorous steps undertaken for the amalgamation."

"The defeat of Aldridge looks good for the democrats for we will see more results like this. I see that Gaynor is making a good mayor and that he is a man with the courage of his convictions. It seems to me that a man who has accomplished as big things as he is fit to occupy any position that the country can give."

Lord Kilcheimer was a passenger on the Oceanic today and after making a small surrender to newspaper photographers confessed to some impressions as follows:

"I've had a jolly time. A ripping good time. This is a great town, really, you know. It has the prettiest girls I ever saw."

Charged With the Murder of Ruth Wheeler

NEW YORK, April 20.—With the resumption today of the trial of Albert Wolter for the murder of Ruth Wheeler the case entered upon a most important stage from the viewpoint of the prosecution. Yesterday, after the jury had been completed, Assistant District Attorney Moss devoted himself for the most part to an effort to establish the fact that it was in reality the body of the 15 year old stenographer that was found in a gunnysack on Wolter's escape. To this end, Ruth Wheeler's mother identified some of the exhibits in the case. Today it was expected the evidence of identifying would be concluded by the testimony of Adelaide Wheeler, sister of the victim, who alone of the family, had been able to nerve herself up to viewing the dismembered and charred body of her daughter. She then expected to tell the jury of her anxious hunt for her young sister and of what befell her in Wolter's flat, thus bringing the testimony to a point where Wolter's direct connection with the crime is sought to be established. Whether Wolter's counsel would abandon the "other man" theory of the defense as rumored could not be learned before the opening of court today.

Wolter did not cross the bridge of sighs from the Toms today, his attendants taking him early by another route to the court room and avoiding the curiosity seekers. The mother and the two sisters of the murdered girl were in court, and among the witnesses present was Jennie Fisher, the sales girl who is alleged to have sold a can of paint to Wolter the day the crime was committed and which the state seeks to show was used to obliterate traces of incineration in the fireplace in which the body was burned.

When Miss Fisher was called to the stand she testified that on the day in question she sold a can of paint and a brush to a person whom she positively identified as Wolter. Wolter, she testified, had been brought to the station house after the discovery of the body. In it was found the entry, "Ruth Wheeler, aged 15, American, living with parents."

This is presumed to be the book which the prosecution seeks to show belonged to Wolter. Captain Hughes also identified a garment claimed to have been taken from the fireplace from which Ruth's body was recovered. Some pieces of charred wood adhered to it and the exhibited the stained bit of cloth appeared to make a profound impression upon the jury. Captain Hughes also identified the rope found twisted around the young victim's neck and other articles found in the gunnysack, including the braid of hair which Ruth Wheeler's mother had testified looked like her daughter's.

Wolter maintained his attitude of stolid composure all through this testimony in court, and among the witnesses

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Mason is Charged With Assault on John Scott

John J. Mason, the young man who is alleged to have assaulted John Scott, the janitor of the Training school, a couple of weeks ago, appeared before Judge Hadley in police court for sentence this morning. The court was undecided whether to sentence Mason or hold him for the grand jury, but after a conference with Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs, Judge Hadley found probable cause of guilt and held Mason under $500 bonds for the grand jury.

Stole a Bicycle.
John J. Burns was charged with drunkenness and the larceny of a bicycle valued at $25. The property of Napoleon Daigle. He entered a plea of guilty to both complaints and was ordered to pay a fine of $30 in three days or go to jail for three months on the larceny charge, the case of drunkenness being placed on file.

Napoleon Daigle, the owner of the bicycle, testified that he left his wheel outside his house in Worthen street on the night of March 17th and when he returned he found it was gone.

Patrick Keegan, the Moody street bicycle dealer and shoe repairer, said that Burns entered his store Monday night and tried to sell the bicycle for $1, but witness knew the wheel had been stolen, he having been so informed by Daigle. He told the court that he knew the wheel and the number owing to the fact that he had fitted it with tires.

Court Officer Peter Cawley said that he was told by Burns that a little boy met him in Adams street and asked him if he wanted a ride. Burns, according to his story, took a ride and when he returned was unable to find the boy.

Patrolman Somers said that when he placed Burns under arrest the latter said that he did not know how or where he got the bicycle but later said that it was given him by a boy in Adams street.

Alfred Plouffe, who was in Keegan's store Monday night, corroborated that portions of Keegan's testimony relative to Burns trying to sell the wheel.

The defendant, when placed on the stand, said that Monday night while under the influence of liquor he was passing through Adams street and a little boy asked him if he wanted a ride. He said he did, and taking the bicycle which was offered him rode around the streets for a while and returned to the boy. He said he did not know what to do with the bicycle when he met a friend of his and his friend suggested that they "sell the wheel down to Keegan's."

Archambault, who was arrested on a complaint of drunkenness Saturday night by Patrolman Cossette and when arraigned in court Monday morning entered a plea of not guilty and asked for a continuance, was in court this morning and he stoutly denied that he was under the influence of liquor when taken into custody.

Patrolman Cossette said that the man was drunk and noisy and that complaint had been made to him by the man's wife. Wagon Officer Frawley and Keeper Mulry also testified that Archambault was drunk.

The defendant informed the court that he was not drunk, but admitted that he was noisy and said that it made him crazy when he was sober and his wife would say he was drunk. "I am working in Lawrence," said the defendant, "and if you give me a chance to go there I will keep away from Lowell. They don't bother me down there like they do here."

He was given a sentence of six months in the house of correction, the sentence was suspended and he was placed in the custody of the probation officer for one year.

HAVENS' FRIENDS

TALKING OF HIM AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—In the first flush of victory the friends of James S. Havens, the democrat who was elected to congress yesterday by a large plurality in one of the strong republican districts in the country, are already talking of Havens for governor this fall. Judging from the conservative tenor of the successful candidate's remarks, however, he accepts in victory as bearing little on the political situation in the state except as regards the issue of bossism.

"This is not wholly a partisan victory," said Havens. "It is a victory over the things for which Cannon has stood and for the ideals which Governor Hughes typifies."

The Hughes republicans today declare that although Havens' election was the result of the tariff policy of the republican national administration and with the political control of George Aldridge, Havens' opponent, it entrenches Gov. Hughes and his polities more strongly than ever. Expressions by various Hughes legislators in Albany, telegraphed here, confirm this idea.

Messages of congratulations received from the successful party, representatives of the country show the intense interest displayed by the nation in yesterday's election.

Revised returns from the towns slightly reduce Havens' plurality, giving the figures $490 for the district.

BILL PAPKE

LYS JEFFRIES IS IN GOOD SHAPE

BEN LOMOND, Cal., April 20.—Bill Pike, the fighter who joined Jeffries' training camp yesterday, expressed much surprise at Jeff's "good appearance."

His day from training yesterday appeared to do Jeff much good and his buoy state was heightened by a telegram message from his wife in Oakland saying she was recovering fast in her illness and expected to return Ben Lomond.

CRIMSON AND NAVY CREWS READY FOR START OF RACE ON SEVERN

For the next few months rowing will share the center of the college athletic stage along with baseball and track athletics. In fact, rowing will be the last of all the branches of collegiate athletic activity to pass from popular attention this year, for the reason that when the Harvard-Yale race at New London, the concluding event upon the varsity aquatic program, is rowed all of the other athletic teams will have been disbanded for the season. The Harvard-Yale race, by the way, comes late this season, being scheduled for June 30, but even so the windup of the college rowing season is a day or two earlier than in 1909. The first big event on the calendar is the Harvard-Annapolis race to be held on the Severn April 21.

Both crews are in excellent shape, and a good contest is looked for. Many shakeups have been made in the Crimson boat within the last few weeks, but the crew as now made up is expected to defeat the navy men.

COLUMBUS DAY
Rep. Keliher Wants It National Holiday
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Representative Keliher yesterday appeared before the house committee on the judiciary in favor of the Harrison bill, making Oct. 12 the anniversary of the discovery of America, a national holiday.

Mr. Keliher said the event which it is proposed to commemorate is the most momentous in history and that there is no greater historical figure than Columbus. He thought the republic could afford to commemorate that event and the central figure in it in fitting manner.

JACK JOHNSON

WILL LEAVE FOR THE PACIFIC COAST TOMORROW

CHICAGO, April 20.—There will be nine people in Jack Johnson's party which leaves for the Pacific coast tomorrow. Besides Jack and Mrs. Jack, there will be Manager George Little and wife, Sig Hart and wife, George Cotton, Barney Fuhrey and Monte Cutler. Tom Flanagan, the Canadian trainer, who will take charge of Johnson's road work, will report on the coast about the middle of May. Flanagan is the man who developed Tom Longboat, the runner.

NEW SPECIE OF ANTELOPE

LONDON, April 20.—Edmund Heller, the zoologist of Riverside, who accompanied Mr. Roosevelt on his African hunting trip, has decided that the sable antelope killed by Kermit Roosevelt is a new specie, peculiar to the Nornbassa region and not heretofore described. It will be named the Roosevelt.

$15,000 VERDICT

Was Set Aside by the Court

NEW YORK, April 20.—Damages in $15,000 were won and then lost by Miss Diancho B. Freeman of Philadelphia in the supreme court yesterday in her suit against Clifford B. Harmon, wealthy real estate operator and balloonist, for his alleged failure to pay her $100 a month for life and to provide her a home, in settlement of a $100,000 breach of promise suit.

The jury made the award but it was immediately set aside by Justice Erlander as excessive.

Miss Freeman claimed that Harmon, who she married in 1904, had promised to wed the daughter of E. C. Bonafel, yachtman and banker. She sued for $21,000.

HAVENS ELECTED

Democrat Wins in a Strong Republican District

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—Between 10,000 and 15,000 voters of Monroe county changed from the republican to the democrat column today and elected the first democratic congressman that has represented the 32d district in 20 years.

James S. Havens, a democrat, running on a tariff reform platform, defeated George W. Aldridge, for a score of years the ruler of the county republican organization, by 5331 votes.

Monroe county, which comprises the 32d district, is normally republican by about 6000.

James Breck Perkins, whose death in the middle of his third congressional term necessitated a special election today, carried the district in 1908 by 10,167 votes.

Havens had arrayed against him one of the strongest political organizations in the state. Yet in a campaign lasting but 17 days and with hastily constructed machinery, he accomplished one of the most remarkable overturns in political history. The result of this election takes its place beside the democratic victory in the 14th Massachusetts district, where Eugene N. Foss was sent to congress from a district supposed to be as rock-ribbed republican as this one.

Mr. Havens rode to victory on a platform advocating tariff revision of the duties on wool and woollen goods, removal of the tax on hides, lumber and iron ore, an income tax, and party independence of all political bosses.

Mr. Aldridge, his opponent, contented himself with general proclamations in favor of the policies of the republican administration. On the tariff proposition he was regarded as a "stand patter."

SHAM PAINTINGS MAYOR MEEHAN

An Investigation of their Reappoints Assistant Fire Engineers

NEW YORK, April 20.—The revelations made in the case of Count De Gagny who with his mistress is being examined at Tours on a charge of having misrepresented the origin of paintings and the antiquity of furniture to Mrs. Charles Payne of this city have caused a profound impression in the art world and served to open up the whole question of the many-sided traffic in sham paintings, other works of art and antique furniture.

Although the declarations of Henri Rochefort, editor of the Patrie, regarding the Rembrandts may constitute a satirical exaggeration it is the general opinion that there is a nucleus of truth in his assertion that celebrated collections in hundreds of homes in America and elsewhere contain spurious Rembrandts as well as copies of other masters. M. Rochefort has said that 80 per cent. of the "Rembrandts" owned in America are forgeries.

The recent exposures are hailed here as helping to check the brazen frauds perpetrated in France and elsewhere and as a warning to foreigners to buy masterpieces with the greatest caution. The newspapers pursue the Gagny affair with avidity and are immensely amused over the various reports of how the count entered the most exclusive society. Early photographs of Gagny show a handsome young man with a proud face, fair and long locks and frank blue eyes. He is dressed in the uniform of a chancellor of the order of Meusine. His breast is literally laden with ribbons and medals.

Mayor Meehan, today, reappointed as assistant fire engineers, James F. Norton, Edward Moloy, Charles Stackpole and Charles E. Alway. Mr. Norton is first assistant and is appointed for a term of three years. The appointments will go to the board of aldermen tonight for confirmation.

ANNUAL REPORT

Of Street Dept. Received by City Clerk

"The best prepared report that comes into this office, and I think it ought to receive special mention," said City Clerk Dudman as he called the reporter's attention to the annual report of the superintendent of streets prepared by Clerk Clarence Raymond. The report was a splendidly prepared one, but the detail was a bit overwhelming. All of the information contained in the report is of a statistical nature and in the street and sewer department there is a big territory to cover.

The report gives 135.44 as the number of miles of accepted streets in Lowell, January 1, 1910, and the miles of paved streets as follows:

Brick 177, asphalt 193, asphaltmac 166, stone block 16,954, wood block 6,256, bituminous 1,31, macadam 35,56, Hassam 4,437.

Streets Committee

The committee on streets will go a-viewing tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will visit premises mentioned in petitions now before it.

Start Sewer Work

Supr. Putnam hopes to be able to start in on sewer work within a week or ten days. The start will be made in East Merrimack street where the brick sewer will be extended from its trunk near Rutland road to Plummer avenue and a pipe sewer will be laid in Plummer ave. in accordance with a petition submitted a year or more ago.

Rep. John F. Sullivan of East Boston was a caller at the mayor's office this forenoon.

NEARLY $200,000 RAISED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Nearly $200,000 was raised for the work of the African Methodist Episcopal church in the fiscal year just ended, according to a report made to the financial board in session here today.

Bishop Grant of Kansas City is president. Rev. John Hurst, financial secretary, reported that after reservations for educational purposes, church extension, superannuation of ministers and provisions for their widows and children nearly $100,000 was reserved for the general treasury of the church for payment of salaries of bishops, general officers and denominational needs.

MARK TWAIN'S CONDITION

REDDING, April 20.—The condition of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), who is seriously ill of angina pectoris at his home here, was reported practically unchanged this morning from that of last night when he was said to be resting quietly, but to have grown weaker. A physician and nurse are in constant attendance. Dr. Robert Halsey of New York, who has remained at the bedside of the sick man since his arrival at Stormfield last Thursday evening said this morning, "Mr. Clemens had a restful night, but his condition is unaltered."

BYRNE APPOINTED UMPIRE

BOSTON, April 20.—Secretary Jacob Morse of the New England league announced today that James Byrne of Providence had been appointed an umpire in place of John J. O'Brien of Lewiston, Me. Mr. O'Brien reported that he would be unable to appear at the opening of the season next Friday.

CLASSY BASE BALL

Five Thousand Fans Cheered the Lowell Team

Hartford and Utica Defeated and the Team Showed Up Finely—Tyler Was the Star of the Day, Pitching a Remarkable Game

Everybody connected with the baseball team to the fans themselves looked happy at Spalding park yesterday, and there was a reason.

The management was happy because the day turned out fair and the crowds turned out finely. The fans were glad because the Lowell team in the morning defeated Hartford, the champions of the Connecticut league and in the afternoon walloped the Utica who in the morning had defeated Brockton, 10 to 1. They were also happy because the Lowell team showed unmistakable signs of strength and because Lowell showed in Tyler a pitcher who promises to do things this season. There were many in the crowds who were given their first glimpse at Spalding park since it has been improved and they were much pleased with the changes.

Over 5000 people attended both games, about 1000 in the morning and the remainder in the afternoon and not a word of adverse criticism was heard at either game.

On Monday Manager Gray announced that he had bought First Baseman Jack Sullivan from Providence and Sully appeared in yesterday's game. Neither Gray nor any of the fans knew who Sully was until he appeared on the field and then he was recognized as Pat Sullivan, formerly right fielder and first baseman of the Lowell team who broke into professional ball in this city under Fred Lake. Sully must have improved a lot to make the Providence team and if he shows any class here Manager Gray will gladly retain him. During the afternoon game Harry Huston arrived from the far west and watched the game from the grandstand.

THE MORNING GAME
The Hartford team, champions of the Connecticut league, was the attraction at the morning game and it presented an old opponent for a pitcher in the person of Ira Swanson, formerly with the Fall River team. Moore, formerly of the Millinocket (Me.) team, did the twirling for Lowell, and for six innings it was a pretty pitcher's battle with honors even. In the seventh, for some unaccountable reason, the visitors sent up a follow named Wood to replace Swanson, and the home team took to Wood like a kid to a stick of candy. They swallowed him up and won out at the last moment. Moore surprised the local fans with his slow, straight delivery and he pitched the first few innings they were nervous and couldn't see where he was going to get off, putting them over as large apparently as balloons. The visitors, too, thought they had something soft in Moore's delivery and it was amusing to watch them fall for it. Moore showed up well.

For six innings the pitchers did the work and there was no scoring. In the fourth, with only one out, Fluharty cracked out a pretty two-bagger and Moore to third on a wild pitch, but Magoo and Jones were fanned out and he was left at the third station. In the sixth Lowell got one. Fitz opened with a pretty single and made second on Ordway's grounder to Gode. Ordway dying at first. A single by Magee sent Fitz home. Smith and Fitz by lightning throwing stopped a score by the visitors in the first. McKenna got on with a single and later with two out made third on Connery's single. He and Connery then tried a double play and McKenna was nailed at the plate. The visitors didn't get beyond second again until the seventh, when they threatened to pull off a victory. In this inning Connery opened with a single and Gode got first on being hit by a pitched ball. Metzker flied out to Jones. Then Stark got a single and Connery scored. Wadleigh hunted down the third base line and Gode scored, while Sully dropped the ball, letting Wadleigh on. With two men on bases Anderson, who went to bat for Swanson, struck out and McKenna flied out to Fluharty.

Lowell had a picnic with Wood in the seventh. After Sullivan had gone out, Smith cracked the ball to the right center fence for a clean three-bagger, and Campbell scored him with a two-bagger. Campbell then went to third on a passed ball. Moore hit to Stark, who fumbled, and Campbell scored. Fitz went out on a grounder and a single by Ordway scored Moore. The score:

AFTERNOON GAME

Nearly 5000 people turned out for the afternoon game. The bright particular star was little Tyler from Derry, N. H. Some fans there are who have doubts as to Manager Gray's ability to judge a ball player, not having much experience as manager up to year ago. But here is a case that proves that he knows a good player when he sees him. Last season Tyler who had been playing good ball in the country towns came here for a few games and was notious before the audience and proved to be an unsafe man in a pinch, but nevertheless he impressed Manager Gray that he had the goods somewhere concealed about his person and the latter held on to him, taking him along with the team for practice and reserving him for this year. Tyler by the end of the season had become used to his surroundings and went back to Derry vowing that he would show the goods this year. Yesterday was really his first appearance and he pitched magnificent ball. He had everything known to the pitcher's art. He has speed and the slow one, sharp wide curves and from gallop and the way he got them over the plate was a caution. He made the heavy hitting Utica look like bad money and after the game they freely admitted that he was something of a pitcher. He held his position nicely, and with Sullivan's curves and from gallop at first base, Tyler didn't allow a single walk; he struck out 14 men and gave only four hits, a couple of which were of the scratch variety. Magee was the star of the game. He headed off a run at the plate by a beautiful throw and made two doubles and a single.

Lowell scored two in the first. Fitz opened up and got first by being hit. He stole second. Ordway fanned. Fluharty hit safely to centre and Fitz by a pitched ball. Fitz made second on the play. Fitz scored on Magee's two-bagger. Jones hit a line drive to Daly who doubled up Magee at second. In the fifth Campbell opened with a two-bagger and took third on Tyler's sacrifice. Fitz hunted down the third base line and Campbell sprinted home, beating out the ball. The next two men were easy outs. The visitors scored in the first and ninth innings. In the opening inning, with two out, Ordway fumbled Johnson's grounder and stole second. He scored on a single by Zimmerman while the latter stole second. Wadleigh hit to left field for a clean single and Zimmerman attempted to make home. Magee held the ball quickly and by a perfect throw to the plate shut off the run. In the ninth an error by Campbell let Gonost on first and he stole second. A clean single that nearly took the roof off Umpire Reed's body scored him. Utica will play here again tomorrow. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

Troy today.
Big Pat Sullivan was quickly recognized by the fans. Sully broke into professional baseball at Spalding Park when he played right field for Fred Lake.

Campbell, Ordway and Fitz are three fast infielders.
Moore is a deceiving twirler. His delivery looks like easy meat but it isn't.

Fluharty's crack in the morning game would have been a three-bagger if he had not fallen.

As Al Winn once remarked: "Are we discouraged? No-o-o-o!" Not at all. We have a good team.

Maybe that boy Tyler didn't bend them over, yesterday, 14 strikeouts, 4 hits, no bases on balls. Some ball playing.

Troy today, weather permitting. Utica tomorrow and Worcester Friday.

The attendances yesterday were up to expectations.

While Smith had difficulty in holding Tyler he lost only one out of 14 strikeouts. Smith has a bad finger on his right hand which probably had much to do with his inability to make the ball stick to his mitt.

Swanson, the Hartford pitcher, formerly played with Fall River. He still retains the goods.

Harry Huston arrived at the grounds during the game and will don a uniform today.

Jimmie Magee played classy ball in both games.

Hi Hi Dickson made his first appearance at the morning game and was favorably impressed with the team.

Two newspaper men from Utica were surprised at the crowd and at Tyler's pitching.

Pitcher Murray of the Textile school team showed some class in yesterday's game against Boston University on the Textile school campus by holding his opponents down to two hits, allowing but one base on balls and striking out 14 men. If Managor will let it go at 110 Freddie Maguire will take him up as soon as his thumb is right and will put up a forfeit to make the weight. CATCHER KLING

HAS AN EASY WAY TO EARN SUM OF $700
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20.—John Kling, baseball catcher, will walk across a stage at a music hall in Chicago twice a day for one week, beginning Monday next, in order, he says, that he may earn the $700 fine imposed on him by the National baseball commission. Kling said that he would report to Manager Chance of the Chicago National baseball club Sunday and play out the season for the $4500 offered him.

BOXING GOSSIP

The New York sports on Thursday night will be the bout between Pat Moore and Jimmy Walsh, which the fans here have been anxiously hoping for, and some of the Boston crowd are going over, as they figure it will be worth all the effort expended. It was a big disappointment to the Boston sports that the bout was not arranged for there.
On the same night in New York there will be a bout between Leach Cross and Dick Hyland that should be a good one. Cross is anxious to get even with Hyland for the whaling he got in California some months ago.
The Pittsburgh fans will have a chance to see Al Kaufman and Jack O'Brien meet Thursday night. As the limit is six rounds O'Brien is likely to outpoint his men.

On Friday the Union club of Brockton holds a show that should attract a big crowd, as the bouts will be warm ones. I also feature contest. Willie Moody of Philadelphia meets Eddie Shevlin. In the semifinal Max Lundy clashes with Joe O'Brien, the ex-amateur champion. The result of the latter bout will be awaited with much interest, as it will settle a number of arguments.

The Rhode Island club, at Thornton has a list of bouts for its meeting tonight that will draw many sports, for the boxers are rival ones of that section. The feature contest will be Young Dyson and Harry Cronson, bantams, of Providence, between whom there has been great rivalry for a long while. They will make a slugging bout. The three preliminaries will also be good contests.

The amateur championships of Canada, which are to be held in Toronto Friday and Saturday nights, are not generally of much interest to Boston fans, but this year some of the local amateurs who made good in the recent national championships here are going to compete in them. Gallant, who won the 116-pound title, will be one of the boys to go, and a number of sports will go with him, as they expect to make a good cleanup in the betting on him.

Andrew Morris, who surprised the sports by defeating Al Kubiak here a few weeks ago, has been matched by box Joe Thomas at Lymanville, R. I., April 28. They will go 15 rounds, which assures the fans some strenuous milking.

John L. Sullivan, who is filling engagements in England, will sail for New York May 21.

Peter Maher again says that he is through with the boxing game, as he is aware that the old wallop is not there and he does not relish being knocked out continually by fourth raters.

Though Jim Barry got defeated, as usual, by angling for either day in California he is said to have received more of the receipts than Langford. He got a guarantee of $2500, Langford worked on a percentage and received only $2412.

Managor of Boston, the 165 pound champion of New England, is out with a challenge to anybody in New England at that weight. He manager, James Moran, is willing to put up a forfeit for weight and a side bet if anyone desires to take him on. Lowell has two 165 pound men in the novice class but no world heaters. HONEY MELLODY

LOUGHREY
BOSTON, April 20.—The visiting boxers took all the honors from the local boys at the weekly bouts at the Anson Athletic association last night.

In the main bout young Loughrey of Philadelphia, got the decision from "Honey" Melody of Boston at the end of 10 rounds. Melody was wild, but landed many telling swings, which drew the visitor at times. Loughrey sent Melody to the floor in the second and fourth rounds and had him staggering a greater part of the time, but was unable to deliver a stiff enough punch to end the bout.
Dave Deshier of Cambridge fought a splendid 10 rounds against Tommy O'Keefe of Philadelphia, doing the forcing for eight of the rounds and landing telling blows but securing only a draw.

THAT PUMP LOAN

Appropriations Committee Couldn't Agree on Amount

Question of Increasing Wages of City Laborers Laid Over—Board of Charity Asked to File Amount of Indebtedness on Jan. 1909 and Jan. 1910

The committee on appropriations, Alderman Gray, chairman, met Monday night and dealt with business handed down by the city council for its consideration.

The first business before the committee was the recommendation of the committee on public buildings that $3200 be allowed for a shower bath and nine individual rooms in the Warren street engine house.

Inspector Dow of the buildings department was present and Alderman Wainwright asked him why the committee on buildings had not made a report with reference to other improvements in the department. Mr. Dow said he didn't know.

The estimates for work at the city farm and in the public schools were read.

On motion of Councilman Flanagan it was moved that the $3200 proposition be referred back to the committee on buildings with the recommendation that the committee submit a lump sum for all improvements.

The bill of $4200 owed by the charities department to the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children came up on the question of special appropriation. It was voted that the debts of the department in January, 1909, and in 1910 be submitted to the committee by the board of charities.

The Water Board

Members of the water board were ushered in at this point. President Van Tassel said the board felt that the old Morris pump had about outlived its usefulness. It had been in service since 1872 and was liable to break down at any time. The new pump would cost in the vicinity of $60,000. Building the foundation and installing the pump would cost perhaps $15,000 more.

The expenditure of $75,000 would come out of the revenues of the water department and would not, it was explained, effect the tax rate. Supt. Thomas said it would not be necessary to borrow this year as it would take a year or more to build a pump for Lowell.

Mr. Thomas spoke of the danger of a water famine and he said at such a time the Morris engine would not be equal to the task. "Twice today the engine broke down," said Mr. Thomas, "and we expect to keep repairing it now and then while we have it. Last year we paid $800 for repairs."

Asked as to the possibility of saving money to pay a part of the loan next year, Supt. Thomas said it wasn't fair to cripple the service. The department had a lot of work on its hands including the putting in of 200 new wells.

Robert J. Crowley said he did not believe in neglecting any part of the city. He said that the man in the outlying districts has just as much right to service as the man down town.

After the board had been excused the committee considered the proposition. Alderman Dexter said he would vote for an order to borrow $75,000 in any part of that amount necessary to buy a pump. The loan would not be negotiated until the arrival of the pump, but authority to the water board to go ahead on the proposition might be voted by the city council this year.

Chairman Gray thought that $65,000 was enough. Councilman Flanagan moved that $75,000 be borrowed. Alderman Wainwright said $70,000. It was evident that the members could not agree on a figure, and on motion of Councilman Flanagan the proposition was laid on the table until the next meeting.

To Increase Wages

Then came the proposition that the street department take the sum of $4000 from the general treasury fund to increase the pay of the city laborers from $1.75 to $2 a day.

Chairman Gray wanted to know why the city laborer should receive more than the corporation employee doing the same work.

Councilman Flanagan said that Lowell was behind other cities in the matter of wages to city laborers.

Chairman Gray said that the test of the question was found in the number on the waiting list.

Councilman Dunne spoke in favor of the order. He said the men were entitled to the increase.

Councilman Fulton said that the superintendent of streets should be the man to judge as to the relative value of his employees. Chairman Gray said he didn't think that there was money enough in the general treasury fund. About $8000 was left in the fund by the committee at the first of the year, and of this amount about $4200 was taken for the police board hearing, $1000 for Memorial day, and one or two minor sums for other purposes. It was figured that there was a little over $2000 remaining. The order was tabled on motion of Councilman Flanagan.

SCOTTISH SONGS

In Fine Concert by the Caledonian Club

The Caledonian Concert company, a purely local organization, gave its opening concert in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, last night. The hall was packed to the doors and they do tell that there was some class to that entertainment. The concert opened with a march and reel played by Piper James Ramsay on the bag pipes. The Caledonian quartet composed of Miss Annie Hamilton soprano, Mrs. F. L. Roberts contralto, Harry Hopkins tenor, and John McLaren bass, sang "Hail to the Chief." "Mary of Argyle" was given by Harry Hopkins and Miss Hamilton sang "Angus McDonald." John McLaren sang the "March of the Cameron Men," and Mrs. Roberts sang "Our Auld Folk," for which she received a rousing encore. James B. Donnelly imitated Harry Lauder in two of that noted comedian's numbers. They were "When I Gae Back Again to Bonnie Scotland," and "The Wedding of Sandy McNabb." Master Wallace McLaren, in Clan Grant tartan, danced a Highland fling and the sword dance with Mr. Ramsay at the pipes. Messrs. G. D. Smith, Hopkins and McLaren pleased much with the "Wullie Brewed a Peck o' Maut," "MacGregor's Gathering" was Mr. Hopkins' second solo, and Mrs. Roberts and Mr. McLaren gave two duets. They were "Heo Can Ye Gang, Laddie," "Miss Hamilton appeared to excellent advantage in "Loch Lomond" and Mrs. Roberts gave the familiar "Cam Ye by Athol." Master McLaren contributed two more dance numbers, a sailor's hornpipe and an Irish jig, sang "Green Grow the Rashes, O," the evening's entertainment closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire gathering.

PITTSBURG, April 20.—Guilty as indicted, with a recommendation for extreme mercy from the court, was the verdict returned yesterday in the case of former Councilman M. L. Swift, Jr., the first of the victims of the graft scandal to be put on trial. He was charged with bribery, Assistant District Attorney Seymour said last night that Judge Frazer has signified his intention to consider the recommendation for mercy and also that the district attorney's office will not oppose Swift. He added that the "immunity bath" is still open to those councilmen who desire to tell all they know of the graft syndicate.

BRITISH BUDGET LESTER HORNBY

Was Re-introduced By the Chancellor To be Tendered Reception Tonight

LONDON, April 20.—David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, re-introduced last year's budget in the house of commons yesterday. He declared that he realized that the present deficit of $131,240,000 would be more than wiped out when all arrears had been collected and that there would be an actual surplus of $14,800,000. If the budget had been passed as usual last year, he said, there would have been a surplus of $21,000,000.

The chancellor commented upon the remarkable decrease of 32 per cent. in the consumption of whiskey, which decrease he attributed mainly to the extra duty imposed. The loss in the revenue from spirits as compared with the estimate figures was $14,000,000.

An early feature of the debate was the intervention of William O'Brien, who bitterly attacked David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer. Mr. O'Brien insisted upon the correctness of the statement which he made in Cork, to the effect that the chancellor had promised the nationalists as concessions for their support of the budget, relief from the spirit, stamp and succession duties, brewery licenses, and land taxes and from a general revaluation. He declared as before, that he had read aloud to Mr. Lloyd-George a letter which he had previously sent to the chancellor and which contained a reiteration of the proposed concessions. As no witness was present at the reading Mr. O'Brien said the chancellor had thought it safe to issue his denial that such a letter had either been received or read to him.

Mr. O'Brien added:

"The matter involves the honor and character of the minister, and great personage as he is, he thereby raises an issue of truthfulness and straight dealing which I am quite willing shall be judged by those who know me and know him."

Mr. Lloyd-George, replying, declared again that Mr. O'Brien's account of their interview was grossly inaccurate. The chancellor admitted that upon their second interview Mr. O'Brien had given him a memorandum of what had occurred at their earlier meeting, but he said that the first he had heard of the letter described by Mr. O'Brien was from the newspapers.

Lester G. Hornby, the young artist recently risen to fame, will be given a reception at the Whistler house this evening. Mr. Hornby's etchings are now on exhibition at the Whistler house and have attracted much attention.

Lester G. Hornby, of course you know, is a Lowell boy and others than members of the Art association will be pleased and delighted to meet him and greet him as of yore, for despite his great triumphs he is still plain Lester G. Hornby, and this though he ranks among the foremost of foreign etchers.

Paris was the first to recognize the young artist's genius and now his name is rapidly becoming known in his native land.

The young artist has been engaged to do etchings of Boston, under contract with Houghton, Mifflin & Co., the publishers, to illustrate a book on Boston by Judge Robert Grant, the author of "Unhallowed Bread." When he has finished these he will go abroad again.

TO OPEN CAMP AT LOWELL GENERAL HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTIVES

A number of inquiries having recently been made concerning the tuberculosis camp of the Lowell General Hospital, the following may not be without interest:

Last year the camp opened May 16th and it is safe to predict that it will open about that time this year. Much will depend upon the weather, as it would not be wise for persons accustomed to outdoor life to make their first venture while the ground is wet and cold, and the weather generally disagreeable. Indeed, if the weather should be quite ideal there is no reason why the camp might not open some days even before the above date.

Statistics show that those who remain longest in camp are the most benefited, hence there should be no delay in beginning this outdoor life at the very earliest date possible.

Persons thinking about spending the summer at the camp should consult the superintendent of the hospital, Miss Sara A. Bowen, at once, in order that they may be present at the first day for examination of applicants, and thus have the full advantage of the camp for all the time it is open. Even if you have not fully decided what is the best thing to do, then consult your physician or go to the hospital and talk the matter over with Miss Bowen.

The camp was not established for advanced cases of tuberculosis. It is a camp established for those cases which experience has shown are most benefited by this particular kind of treatment, namely those in the early stages of the disease.

Through the continued generosity of Mr. Frederick Fanning Ayer of New York City, no one need be deprived of the benefits of this camp because of inability to meet any expense therefrom.

Those who are familiar with the work already done at this camp and have watched the steady progress so many have made toward recovery, feel most deeply upon this whole subject. They feel that if those persons who have the evidences of approaching serious lung trouble, could fully understand what one summer at the camp might mean to them, the applications for admission would vastly exceed the accommodations.

The hospital authorities ask the hearty cooperation of the medical profession, the press and the general public.

TWO VITAL THINGS REQUIRED IN TREATING SKIN DISEASES

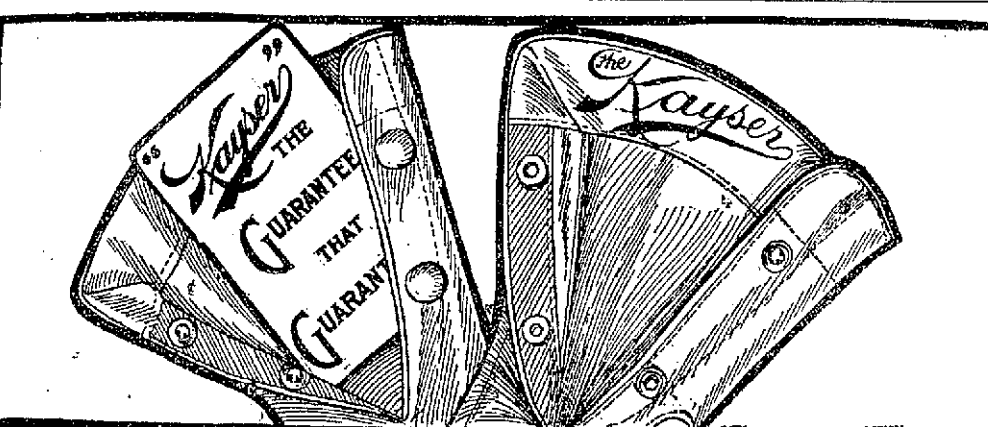

In treating and curing Eczema and other well defined skin diseases, two vital things must be done. One is to exclude dust, germs and air from the diseased parts, and the other is to set up the healing process at the same time. The new medical preparation called Cadum accomplishes both these results so effectively that the itching is stopped as soon as it is applied, and the sore parts heal up in a wonderfully short time. Anyone with skin trouble can test Cadum by getting a 10-cent box at any drug store, and thus personally realize the power of this new compound, which is just as effective in the cure of pimples, blotches, blackheads, eruptions, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, sores, chafings, etc.

THE RUSSELL CASE.

Fresno Dan has been acknowledged to be the genuine Daniel Blake Russell by William C. Russell who has been fighting against the claims of Dakota Dan. Thus the sentiment of the people of Melrose is proved false and the decision of Judge Lawton confirmed as correct.

THE CHINESE RIOTS.

The United States government should take prompt steps to stop the anti-foreign riots in China. Famine, it seems, was the exciting cause of the trouble, but once the outbreak came the foreigners became the chief object of fanatical fury. China should be made pay heavy indemnity for failing to protect the lives and property of the foreigners.

WOMEN HISSED THE PRESIDENT.

President Taft made a very gracious speech before the woman suffragists in Washington the other night. He had the candor to tell the women that he did not favor woman suffrage under present conditions, because he did not believe a sufficient number of women were interested in it. If women could vote, he said, the franchise would be exercised most regularly by the least intelligent or the least desirable. That may be true, and if men are induced for a financial consideration to remain away from the polls there is little doubt that women who do not fully appreciate the sacred character of the franchise could be easily persuaded to do the same. The president made an honest and reasonable speech and the women did not help their cause by hissing him as they did.

SENSIBLE PROTEST FROM MILKMAN.

The protest made to the board of health by Milkman Best has voiced the sentiments of a great many people throughout the city. The matter of a pure milk supply is important, of course, and as far as the board of health has taken wise action to secure that boon for the people, its course will be generally approved.

It may be, however, that as Mr. Best says, the rules and regulations for the care and sale of milk to stores are too strict to be conformed to by the ordinary milkman. For example, it is impracticable to put up milk in half pint bottles as will be necessary for those who have no ice and buy only from hand to mouth, if milk can be sold only in sealed bottles.

It appears that many of the independent dealers, owing to the rigorous regulations, are thinking of getting out of the business and thus the way will be cleared for the incoming of a milk trust such as rules in Boston. This would be unfortunate for the people of Lowell, and it is to be hoped that no action of the board of health will encourage any such result.

It is alleged that the trust is here already and is seeking a stronger foothold. Should a trust get control of the milk supply we would soon have to pay higher prices and perhaps get worse milk than we get now.

It is true, as Mr. Best states, that more may be accomplished by looking to the sanitary conditions of the homes than by too much strictness with the milkmen.

The board of health early in the season inaugurated a movement for cleaning up the city. As yet we are afraid that very little has been accomplished in that direction. Any one who passes along some of our streets and sees the amount of rubbish and filth that is visible in the alleys and back yards will realize that there has been no systematic attempt to clean up the city as a whole. It is time that something of the kind were done. Something more than hot air is needed to accomplish results in a cleaning-up crusade.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE MERRIMACK.

Why, oh why, do we not see a single sail upon the beautiful Merrimack? Why not even a coal barge gliding over her murky waters? Where is the Merrimack River Ruffing company and where, we were about to ask, is the gallant Commodore Pierce? But we know of his whereabouts and in fact we have heard from him on this very subject of the navigation of the Merrimack from Lowell to the sea.

Commodore Pierce assures us that the navigation of the Merrimack from Lowell to the sea is not impracticable despite the obstructions of low bridges, the building over canals and the abolition of several free landings. On this subject the commodore says:

"Fifty years ago the steamer Herald was sailed down the Merrimack river and sailed to New York under her own steam. When she arrived in New York, she was the largest steam vessel used and the ferry that formed the foundation of the Jacob Vanderbilt vast fortune was running to Staten Island.

"A steamer I owned, the Evangelina, under her own steam sailed up from the ocean to Nashua, and back again to the sea safely.

"Since that time by the work of the Locks & Canals huge jetties eight feet have been removed, and with the exception of a few large boulders above Lawrence there is not a natural obstruction to navigation between Lawrence and Lowell, except some few dangerous points at Hunt's Falls. The cost of getting them out of the way would be mighty small. The locks at Lawrence are in perfect repair. Every reef removed or rock blasted out is out for all time."

Thus the people of Lowell are reassured on the question of navigation so that if by congress is to appropriate any money for the deepening of the river bed, let the work begin at Lowell. It would be of enormous advantage to Lowell if it were feasible to convey coal from tidewater by boat.

This is a subject that should engage the attention of our congressmen, for the saving on the transportation of coal alone would soon pay the expense of deepening the bed of the river so as to overcome all the present obstructions to free, safe and economical navigation of our magnificent river.

We commend this subject to the attention of Congressman Ames and ask him whether Lowell and Lawrence are not equally entitled to a slice of the river and harbor appropriation to improve the navigable qualities of the river from Lowell to the sea.

PAINTERS, DECORATORS AND PAPER HANGERS

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The usual large holiday crowd was in attendance at the Opera House both afternoon and evening yesterday, and the program included LeRox and LeRex, an exceptionally fine aerial act, the Alpha Comedy Four, a quartet of clever colored singers and comedians, Drake and Morgan in the laughable skit "The New Groom," and C. W. Littlefield, American mimic and a series of the latest pictures, all of which were much enjoyed. Today will be the last of the current bill and commencing tomorrow afternoon and evening there will be a complete change of both vaudeville and pictures. A feature of more than ordinary interest will be seen Thursday and for the last three days of the week with the presentation of Col. S. J. Simmons' story of Gen. U. Grant in the days of '61, illustrated by Paul Philippoteaux's famous war paintings.

ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA
Commencing next Monday for the first three days of the week the management of the Opera House has secured as a special feature the motion pictures of ex-President Roosevelt in Africa.

VIOLET ALLEN
After an absence of several seasons, Violet Allen will pay a visit to Lowell, bringing with her an exceptionally able dramatic company, and presenting a new play by a well known American author. The company includes such well known players as James O'Neill, William Farnum, Minna Gale, Richelieu, Fanny Addison Pitt, Edwin Booth and Belle Chippendale. Warner, the play is "The White Sister," dramatized by the late F. Marion Crawford. She is bringing to Lowell identically the same cast and production as she has had all the present season. The engagement at the Opera House is for Saturday, April 30.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The first class show at the Academy of Music drew crowded houses these past two days. The Texas quartet and Mamie Fulton are proving great drawing cards. On Thursday the vaudeville features are the Van Cooks in a sketch called "Whoopee in a Chinese Laundry," and Gilbert Loebe, the man with many voices. Mae Bagshaw will contribute another song, and there will be new pictures, including a biograph. Amateurs tonight. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

THEATRE VOYONS.

The bill today at the Theatre Voyons shows a careful selection of subjects and all are popular. "Their Son Voyage" is a very good comedy, well acted and sure to bring lots of laughs. "The Miniature" and "A Tragic Idyll" are fine pictures, well acted and telling interesting stories. "The Scooters" shows three types of iceboats in the very much up to date and which show very much of record breaking speed. Tomorrow one of the features will be a dramatization of Richard Harding Davis' story, "Her First Appearance." This is the story which "The Little Girl" was founded on.

COLONIAL THEATRE, LAWRENCE

Mlle. La Gal and Monsieur St. Ella in "The Carnival of Roses" take Lawrence by storm. Mlle. La Gal and Monsieur St. Ella are presenting at the Colonial theatre the latest Parisian pantomime by Riccardo St. Ella. Both stars electrified the audience, both in their pantomime work and in their dancing. It is the most pretentious pantomime ever offered in vaudeville and accredited by public press and managers the peer of them all. Mr. John Adams is to be complimented in presenting to Lawrence such a worthy offering, an object lesson to all and an asset over which both sexes cry one and the same. The next capacity houses will rule all week and the public are to make their reservations and not miss it as it is the Madame X of vaudeville. The stars are assisted by 20 clever artists and dancers—the costumes are by Madam Frisinger of Paris and the scenery by Gables & Morgan of New York.

Surrounding this high class act is a vaudeville show of all star acts including Charlotte Parry & Co., Lane & O'Donnell, Harry L. Webb, Clark & Bergman, Chester Johnstone and Corrine Francis, a show you should see before the week is over.

CHANTECLER CLUB

A very pretty dancing party was held in Prescott hall Monday night by the Chantecler club. There was a large attendance and the affair proved to be a success both from a social and financial standpoint. Music for dancing was furnished by Kittredge's orchestra. One of the features of the evening was the flashlight dance, which had to be repeated several times, so popular was it with the guests.

SOCIAL SIDE

OF CHURCH WORK DISCUSSED BY REV. DR. BAKER

A goodly number of the members of the Allen's league of Calvinist Baptist church listened to a characteristic talk by Dr. Smith Baker, Monday night, on the importance of the social side of church work. Dr. Baker started with the proposition that the organization within a church that was worth while was the one that co-operated with the pastor in his own church. A strong church in any city strengthens every other church in that city. The same applied to individual members of a church. A man's field of Christian endeavor is within the lines of his church home.

Look out for strangers. Make every one feel that he is among friends. Men go where they are wanted. Preserve and exhibit a spirit of cheerfulness.

Dr. Baker told many delightful anecdotes in happy illustration of the points thrown out.

President, Aaron H. Maxey; vice-president, Louis Browning; secretary, John G. Gordon; treasurer, William G. Gardner.

Chairmen of standing committee: Membership, Elam Ryan Halsey; Sick and Aid, William P. Hills; Religious Work, Orson E. McGregory; Social, Calumet, Stanley; Entertainment, Rev. A. R. Ditts; Employment, Hans Moller.

The league voted to hold a lawn party and named as a special committee to have full power to run the party, Messrs. Halsey, Hills, McGregory, Stanley, Ditts and Moller, together with the officers of the league.

RECEPTION TO FR. SMITH.

Very Rev. T. W. Smith, O. M. I., was tendered a reception by the school children of the Immaculate Conception parish at the school hall Monday afternoon. An address was read and a banquet of flowers presented by the children. Fr. Smith thanked the children for their kind regards and wished them success in their studies.

SENATOR HALE

Tells Why He Withdrew From Contest

WASHINGTON, April 20.—While still far from voluble on the subject, Senator Hale talked last night with more freedom than during the day concerning his announced determination to retire from the senate. He told his friends that having been accorded the unparalleled honor of five full terms in the senate without contest of any character, he did not relish the prospect of entering into a scramble at his time of life.

But while this was the principal reason given by the senator, he made it plain that his course had not been dictated by any fear of the results. The senator contends that so far as the contest has gone the indications are entirely favorable to his reelection. It is the conflict itself that appeals to him. Seventy-four years of age and unused to opposition in his political aspirations, he says he simply hated to enter upon a scrimmage which, while it probably would result in his triumph, would be injurious to his health and at the same time greatly disturb his peace of mind.

Can Hugh Jennings Pilot His Tigers to Another Championship?

By TOMMY CLARK.

CAN Hugh Jennings and his band of ferocious Detroit Tigers plow their way through the seven American league pennant hunters and thereby smash all National and American league records by capturing the flag for the fourth consecutive time? This question is now being discussed by nearly every baseball fan in the country. In the history of the present major league organizations no club has ever captured a pennant four years in succession. In fact, the only teams in the history of organized baseball that ever won four flags in a row were the Bostonians in the National association during the seasons of 1872, 1873, 1874 and 1875 and Charley Comiskey's St. Louis Browns in the American association in 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888.

If Jennings can lead his Tigers to the top this season he will have accomplished a task that proved too much for Ned Hanlon, Adrian Anson, the late Frank Selee, Frank Chance and Fred Clarke. These men were the commanders of clubs that finished first three seasons in succession, but none of them, however, could land the banner for the fourth consecutive time. Now it's up to Hugh Jennings to make good.

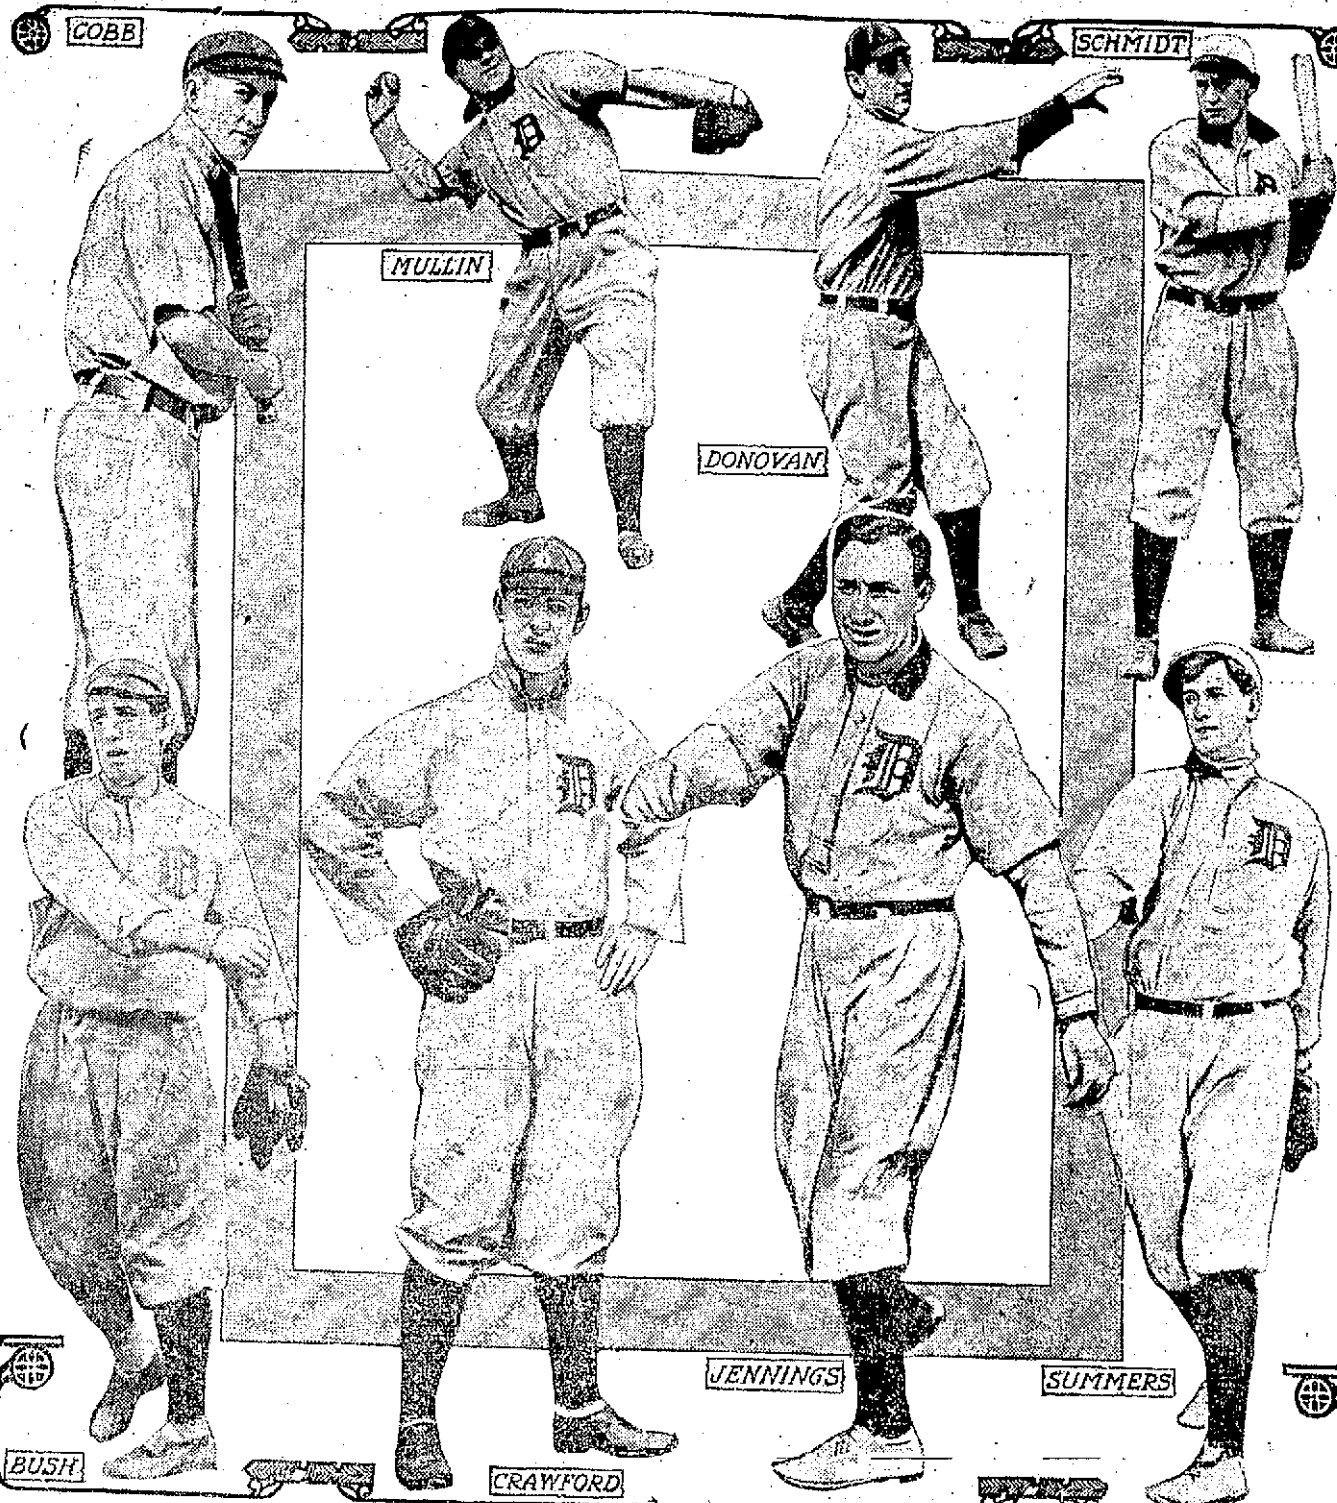

Anson had the chance in 1883, Selee in 1894, Hanlon in 1897, Clarke in 1901 and Chance in 1909. The Chicago team, which carried off the honors in 1890, 1891 and 1892, finished second the following year, being forty-one points behind Boston. In 1891, 1892 and 1893 Boston led the field and wound up third in 1894, Baltimore winning the banner, with New York the runner up. The Baltimore were the leaders in 1894, 1895 and 1896. One of them was Jennings, the record smasher. In 1897 the Bostonians wrested the championship title from the Orioles, who made a gallant fight to enter the ranks of four time winners. The Birdlets failed to do so, however, and when the final returns were in Boston's average was .706 and Baltimore's .698. In that year the destination of the flag hinged on the result of the final series between Baltimore and Boston.

The fourth National league team to win three flags in a row was Pittsburgh. The Pirates topped the list in 1901, 1902 and 1903. The following year they fell away off in their playing and dropped to fourth place.

Last year Frank Chance and his Chicago Cubs had the opportunity to become four time winners, but the Cubs ran a poor second to Pittsburgh, being forty-four points behind the Corsairs when the campaign closed.

The American league never knew what it was to have a team that finished first more than two years in succession until Hugh Jennings entered that organization. Chicago won the flag in 1906 and 1907. Boston was victorious in 1903 and 1904. Last year Jennings shattered precedents by piloting the Tigers to the top for the third consecutive time. He is now out to capture another gonfalon.

Since the men started training this season no manager in the country has been working harder than Jennings in order to have his team as strong as ever. In fact, Hughes knows none has as much to lose as himself. History reveals that a three time winning team is about the limit. After that performance no manager has been able to keep a championship team from deteriorating, and that is what is making Jennings dig as he never has dug before. The lightning changes Jennings made in his makeup last season were in an-temptation of a breakup. He saw it coming and put through trades that enabled him to get hold of First Baseman Tom Jones and Second Sacker Jim Delahanty. Jennings then appeared to be at the end of his string unless he could develop a star or two from his youngsters. Hughes has some advantage in the fact that he has experienced the slowing up of a pennant winner. He played short on the Baltimore Orioles during the day of three flags in a row and defeat by Boston for the pennant in 1897. He also closely observed the decline of the champion Giants under McGraw's leadership and the defeat of Chicago after they had won three pennants and two world's championships. Jennings is working his players harder than ever now. No detail escapes him. When a youngster shows a defect he is taken in hand until it is corrected. Cigarettes and late hours are barred, and the players are required to eat regularly and take the best care of themselves.

It is the general opinion that Jennings will experience tremendous difficulty in trying to keep the American league pennant for another year. It is also figured that the Tigers are destined to go back and go back badly in 1910 and that some club from the east, either Philadelphia or Boston, will be found at the top at the end of the 1910 campaign.

More Trouble For Horse Racing.

Once more the thoroughbred horse racing game is in danger. This time it is the comparatively new field of Florida that is likely to be invaded, and the mountain that is gradually rising out of a molehill is becoming a menace to the future status of the game in the commonwealth of the everglades.

Jacksonville has enjoyed one of the few successful meetings held since the wave of anti-gambling sentiment began to sweep through the legislatures of racing states. The meeting saw many high class horses competing, the gate was profitable and the general tone of the meeting seemed excellent. But the inevitable has happened. An irate owner—a woman, too—circulated handbills charging the management of the track with unfair tactics. She made it very much stronger than this. The gentleman against whom the diatribe was aimed saw fit to sue for criminal libel, and the matter has found its way into the courts.

A peculiar angle to the affair has jeopardized the status of racing in Florida. The woman's lawyer, in the course of his attack set up the proposition that it is not a crime to publish a libel against any institution which in itself is illegal. He also sets forth that bookmaking is illegal on the ground that the law permitting it to be conducted in this manner is unconstitutional.

This of course brings the old heated subject of the legality of betting on horse racing right into the crucible, and the outcome of this wrangle, if the matter is pressed, is not difficult to see. It is unfortunate that this should come up again at this time, just when racing seems in a fair way to rehabilitate itself, and respectably. Probably the matter will be adjusted amicably when the racing authorities realize the serious import of this chance trend to the affair. At the same time the discussion will not help the game, which is now in its swaddling clothes in Florida.

Why Not Let Johnson Alone?

Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, seems to be developing a very likely goat, which the various departments of the law in this land seem bent on capturing. Every time Johnson turns around he is made the butt of the displeasure of some legal official and is accused of all sorts of offenses. Many of these have been thrown out of court, indicating petty animus in the original arrest, probably due to race prejudice.

Recently Johnson was made the subject of the displeasure of a New York judge before whom the case of Norman Pinder against Johnson was brought. It was a case involving an alleged assault by Johnson during a row in a New York saloon. Because the prosecuting witnesses did not appear the court seemed to think that Johnson was the cause of their nonappearance, notwithstanding he had come all the way from Chicago to enter an appearance in the case. On the strength of this belief the judge raised Johnson's bail to $5,000 and kept the fighter in jail for five hours.

If it had been the case of a white man too heavy. If it had been a white man who had been arrested for no more serious an offense there would probably have been very little noise about the affair. It's almost time to let Johnson alone. He will have enough on his hands when he tackles Jeff on July 4. Some people think he will have more than enough.

McLean Not to Become a Fighter.

Ever since he had a run in with Manager Clarke Griffith there has been considerable talk of Larry McLean, the Cincinnati Nationals' star catcher, quitting baseball and joining the ranks of professional pugilists. This talk is all commonyr. While "Fighting Larry" is big enough to tackle Jeffries or Johnson, he will stick to the game he is best at. There has never been a successful ball player pugilist, while, on the other hand, any number of the topnotch boxers have proved to be first class ball players.

Turkey McGovern, Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries and a host of others can play the national game with considerable skill. Wrestlers have tried time and again to gain honors in the prize ring, but could not make good. Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, would rather be a good boxer than anything in the sporting line; so would Dr. Roller, the Seattle grappler.

Jockeys by the score have taken up the boxing game, and some of them made good, but the majority of the knights of the saddle found that they were not fitted for the ring sport. The latest turf star to adopt boxing as a profession is "Cash" Sloane, brother of the famous Tod Sloane. "Cash" won several bouts in Jacksonville recently and will try hard to hook up with the cracks in the east shortly.

Shrubb, Great Runner, Now Through.

Alfred Shrubb, the great English runner, has long been considered in a class by himself at any distance from five to fifteen miles. He was practically invincible at the latter distance up to a year ago, but since then he has been beaten a number of times and is now practically broken down. Hard training for the Marathon distance of 26 miles and 385 yards proved too much of a strain for Shrubb at his somewhat advanced age and brought about his poor condition.

New Pool Table.

A novel game of pool played on a new table has recently been introduced in the west. The table has two pockets in each side, one in the center of each end, and none in the corners. Ordinary billiard balls are used, and the game is really more like billiards than pool.

Players On and Off the Stage

By FRANK H. BROOKS.

THE New theater of New York kept its best wine for the last. Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale" was put on in the waning nights of the gorgeous home of drama and music. The production of what is supposed to be the last but one of Shakespeare's creations was the cap stone of the work that has been brought out at the New theater since its opening.

"The production was unlike any 'Winter's Tale' that has been seen. This does not mean that 'Winter's Tale' has bewildering scenic effects. True, it is of the Elizabethan period, and it has been thought by some commentators that it was written in compliment to Queen Elizabeth as an indirect apology for her mother, Anne Boleyn. Others dispute this. Anything about Shakespeare has been disputed ever since his genius was admitted.

"Winter's Tale" as seen at the New theater was the result of long study and training by the company that gave it. The arrangement of the scenes by tapestries was different, as it should have been, from any arrangement seen in this country or perhaps in any other. And yet the whole was worked out with such marvelous fidelity and care that on the premier there was not a hitch, not a jar, not a minute of drag, not a faltering on a single line. This on the first production of a Shakespearean play even by the most intelligent actors is almost unknown.

It can be said without any juggling of adjectives or without that sort of adulation that has become meaningless that never did a Shakespearean play have such an intense hold upon an audience as had this. It was one of the incidents that added to the accurate movement of the production.

Not many cuts were made in the version. The costumes were Elizabethan. The equipage, dignity and beauty of Miss Edith Wynne Matthison made her fit the part of Queen Hermione. Henry Kolker, a wandering star, was the jealous King Leontes. E. M. Holland, known in all cities where there are plays, was the foster father of Perdita, which character was beautifully sustained by Miss Leah Bateman Hunter, who was the personification of virginal innocence. Ferdinand Gottschalk—all of us remember him when he was one of the Rosina Vokes company, the only company of its kind—was the clown of the days when that word had a different meaning from that of today. And—it may have been the trickery of the incandescents—Gottschalk has kept out of the way of the years that overtake most of us.

English on an American Stage.

Quite an admission when you think about it for an American manager to go to a German theater and pick out the star to play on the stage of a theater where English only is spoken. One reason why the manager did this, according to his own admission, is that there are not enough actresses to go round. The first consideration for selecting Mme. Marietta Oily was that she could act. But she had never played in English. If there had been some one else who was her equal as an actress and who had been conversant with English Mme. Oily would never have been drafted. Hence the conclusion that English speaking actresses who can act in this country are scarce. The venture was made in a New York theater, and it proved a success. Jarvaschek, Modjeska, Rieca and Janisch were stars on the English speaking stage, but in spite of their great histrionic talents they never quite got United States talk under control. Mme. Oily, however, has other things under control far better than any of those named. She is considered the best trained actress on the stage, and that is giving her a good deal of credit.

MISS KATHERINE KAELED.

When John Mason played his last week at Thicket's theater, in New York city, in "A Sea of the People" he had a new leading woman in Miss Katherine Kaelred. She will appear in San Francisco during the summer as an actress-manager. She will return east next October, having contracted for a theater in New York city in which she will appear during the autumn season.

She lacks beauty, and her physique unsupported would imply a theater where she played, but she can look more than many American born and bred actresses speak. A twist of her wrist is enough to hold an old timer. She keeps herself in hand. Her emotions do not run away with her. She would not have been human had she not displayed some trepidation in appearing before an American audience as she did. Nevertheless she carried "The Whirlwind"—that is the name of the play—and left the impress of success upon it. But the fact remains that it is training that makes a triumph on the stage. Plenty of stage folks who think they can speak English are untrained for their parts, and many never get trained. An old manager who saw Mme. Oily in her trial remarked: "She has succeeded in acting. Now if she can succeed in speaking English she might hand the secret to a lot of folks who are not on the stage, as well as many who are."

The Passing of Forbes-Robertson. Not many plays, if any, have been seen by "all sorts and conditions" as "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which has been on the boards at Maxine Elliott's theater in New York city since the opening of the season in the fall of 1909. The faultless production closed its remarkable business April 9, and it is now playing in Canada. It is one of the productions that was indorsed by the pulpit, almost without exception. It was succeeded in the theater where it had such a long run by "Lulu's Husbands," a French farce, in which Mabel Harrison and Harry Conner are the principals.

When She Was Minnie Maddern. After all the triumphs (as well as failures) of the season back to New York went Minnie Maddern Fiske in "The Pillars of Society." Never mind now about that play. The story is about the little woman who, long before she became Mrs. Fiske, was wondering what would be the end of her aspirations. One afternoon in a western city Minnie Maddern was present at an afternoon tea. She was playing in the city in "Foggy Ferry." It wasn't much of a play. Minnie Maddern then was not much of an actress. But there was one woman in the city who had seen her and "fell in love with her," a thing one woman does not often do for another woman. She invited Minnie Maddern to her tea. It was not a fashionable tea, such as many women now indulge in. It was just a quiet affair to which the woman who gave it invited a few of her near friends. Between sips the little actress almost tearfully admitted that she would never succeed until she found some one who would believe in her and help her in having a play written. The woman who gave the tea told Minnie she knew a friend who was ambitious to write a play for some one who would take the same interest in it that she would take. Minnie Maddern nearly spilled a cupful of tea on her gown over the prospect. A meeting was arranged. The little actress and the would-be playwright talked it all over. They talked like two children. "Just make it something that will give me a chance to climb," said the star of "Foggy Ferry." She went on her way. The young man began writing a play. She waited and hoped and waited. The young man wrote and wrote. The play was never finished. No matter why. And then Minnie Maddern turned her thoughts to other fields. If the play had been finished maybe she would never have been Minnie Maddern Fiske. For many reasons. She met Mr. Fiske, that was one reason. No matter about the others.

Playhouses For Women.

Almost within speaking distance of each other are two theaters in a side street just off Broadway, New York city, that were built to please two women. One is the Maxine Elliott house; the other, just opening, was erected to please Mme. Nazimova, the Russian actress. She had frequently expressed a wish to have such a playhouse as that which opens April 18. She calls it "a dear." The parquet floor contains 325 seats, the balcony has 175 and the gallery has 150. There are four boxes on each of the proscenium opening, and each box has six seats. The interior decorations are in the Louis XVI style. The walls are paneled and inclosed silk tapestry. The entire color scheme of the house is in old rose with antique bronze decorations. The drop curtain, all the draperies, the seat upholstery and the carpets are in old rose tones, harmonizing with the silk tapestry wall panes. While the house was being constructed Nazimova passed many of her nights in going about other theaters just as outsiders who buy their tickets do, and enjoying the plays, dreaming always of the night when she would appear in her own little place. Her enthusiasm for her work is almost childlike. Not long ago she was in a box at a theater. She became so excited that she was fearful that her nervousness would be noticed, so she slid from her chair upon the floor and in that attitude she revealed in the scenes on the stage. She lives in her profession. That is why she has succeeded and that is why somebody had enough faith in her to build her a theater she could call her "own little playhouse." The same sort of interest in any business will win.

Fun For the Players.

The little things not on the program give the players a bit of fun on the side and help to put a rift in the monotony. One of a chorus may have neglected properly to adjust some part of her makeup, and then it is the company's time to say something witty or hear it. Giggling on the stage is not permissible by a stage manager, but it happens just the same.

MAY DE SOUSA AND HARRY FAIRLEIGH.

MISS MAY DE SOUSA.

Miss May De Sousa, who first played in a Broadway theater last winter in the prima donna in "A Skylark," a musical production that recently started in for a summer season, if it goes well, at the New York theater. The piece is under the direction of Henry B. Harris. Miss De Sousa's principal support is Harry Fairleigh. Her home is in Chicago. She began as a singer in the smaller cities and towns in the middle west. Then she went to Europe, where she finished her musical education. After appearing in London and other European cities she returned to the United States and was seen last winter for the first time in New York city in the "Goddess of Liberty" at Weber's.

From Boston to Lowell a Feature of the Holiday

The Squads Were Cheered by Great Crowds Along the Way and Got a Great Reception on Reaching Lowell—Banquet to the Officers by Humphrey O'Sullivan

A squad of soldiers from Company F, Fifth regiment, M. V. M., yesterday won the first military marathon ever held in this country by walking from Boston to Lowell in the remarkable time of 5 hours and 57 minutes, and also captured the handsome trophy offered by Humphrey O'Sullivan of this city.

That a great deal of credit is due the members of the winning squad as well as others for their remarkable showing is due to the fact that instead of being stripped down to light running regalia the contestants wore their uniforms, carried their muskets and other military accoutrements.

The places of the first ten finishing squads, with the time of the first four, entitled to cups, follow:

First, Company F, Fifth, M. V. M., Waltham, 5 hours, 57 minutes.

Second, Company I, Naval Brigade, Fall River, 6 hours, 13 minutes.

Third, Company A, Naval Brigade, Boston, 6 hours, 15 minutes.

Fourth, Signal Corps, Boston, 6 hours, 22 minutes.

Fifth, Fifth company, C. A. C., Chelsea, 6 hours, 25 minutes.

Sixth, Company H, Fifth regiment, Charlestown, 6 hours, 25 minutes.

Seventh, Company C, Sixth regiment, Lowell, 6 hours, 25 minutes.

Eighth, Company G, Sixth regiment, Lowell, 6 hours, 25 minutes.

Ninth, Company H, Ninth regiment, Boston, 6 hours, 25 minutes.

Tenth, Second company, C. A. C., Boston, 6 hours, 25 minutes.

That widespread interest was taken in the event was evident by the thousands of people who were lined along the course watching the soldier boys as they passed. Between Billerica and Lowell the crowd of spectators was the largest, while along Thorndike street and portions of Westford and Chelmsford streets the crowds were kept back from the middle of the street only through the strenuous efforts of the police.

The infantry was badly beaten at its own game by the navy, for although the first prize was captured by Co. F of the 5th infantry the naval brigade took second and third place with Co. I of Fall River and Co. A of Boston, and but for the collapse of one man, who had to be carried for nearly half the distance, the Fall River boys would have won hands down.

For the contest 27 teams reported at the state house at 8:45 a. m., each team try six teams, the 8th infantry eight teams, and the 9th infantry four teams. All were in light marching order; the blanket roll being discarded, but every man had to carry his rifle, bayonet, haversack and canteen, and everything that had to be partaken of during the march in the shape of food and liquid refreshments had to be carried on the person.

Start From State House

There was a large crowd of interested spectators present to see the start, including Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Brig.-Gen. Brigham, and the members of the governor's staff.

It was 10:40 when the bugle sounded the march, and then commenced one of the greatest tests of endurance ever attempted by soldiers in this country, either in the militia or the regular service, and the first competitive march ever undertaken in this country.

The goal was 25 miles away, Lowell, and the 27 teams started off at a good five miles an hour clip, down Bowdoin street to Cambridge street, and then the line began to straighten out.

Arriving at Cambridge bridge, several teams attempted to get into a better position, some going at double time, and the pace was increased to six miles an hour. Co. B of the 6th infantry forging ahead, but just before Cambridge was reached Co. H of the 9th infantry, by a long spurt at double time, went into the leading position, with its second team close up.

The clip up to Harvard college had been a killing one and the line was strung out nearly half a mile with Co. H of the 9th infantry bringing up the rear, and it was seen even at this early stage that some of the weak teams could not last half the distance.

Brushes For First Place

North Cambridge, 4 to 5 miles from the start, was reached at 10:34 with the second team of Co. G, 6th, in the lead, while close up came Co. I of the 9th, the 12th company, C. A. C., and Co. of the 6th, well hunched. The rear company at this point, Co. H of the 9th, was eight minutes behind the leaders.

For a couple of miles up Massachusetts avenue there were several brushes among the leading teams for first position, and as a result these teams ran away from their competitors, who were satisfied to keep up a four-mile-an-hour clip. The pace was working havoc among the weaker members of the teams, and many began to show signs of distress.

OLD SIXTH REGIMENT

Yesterday Celebrated Anniversary of March Through Baltimore

The Old Sixth Mass. Regiment association met yesterday at Memorial hall and observed the 49th anniversary of the march of that regiment through Baltimore. Many of the members were from out of town and the occasion was a very pleasant one.

Alonso Joy presided and called to order at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by Secretary-Treasurer Edwin P. Spofford. The reports were accepted, and the following letter from Gov. Draper, who found it impossible to attend, was read:

"Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Executive Chamber,
State House, Boston.

"April 2, 1910.

"My Dear Sir—I am extremely sorry that it is absolutely impossible for me to be present at the reunion of the Old Sixth Regiment association.

This regiment is bound closely to the stirring events in the history of this country. Its terrible experience in Baltimore in the opening days of the great rebellion will never be forgotten and it would be a real pleasure to me if I could be present at the reunion, but my engagements are of such a character that it is impossible.

"Trusting that the meeting will be a most pleasant and successful one, I am, Yours truly,
"Eben S. Draper."

Secretary-Treasurer Spofford announced that an invitation had been sent Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and that no answer had been received. Congressman Roberts forwarded a letter to the association expressing regret at not being able to attend.

Letters of regret were read from E. T. Jones, Benjamin Ford, both of Haverhill; Benjamin F. Goddard of Plymouth; Fred W. Glover, Groton, Vt.; George W. Reiser, Baltimore; Anson S. MEMORIAL MASS FOR MEMBERS OF HOLY NAME SOCIETY

The annual memorial mass for the deceased members of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's church was held yesterday at that church. The requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. John F. Burns, spiritual director, and over 100 members attended the service in a body. At 5.45 o'clock the members assembled at the fair hall and two abreast marched to the church, where seats were reserved. The blue was headed by Marshal William J. Gargan, followed by President Richard Lyons and Vice President Jas. W. Cooke and the other members, and it was a splendid showing indeed. As the members proceeded down the main aisle, Mrs. J. W. McKennedy at the organ played Chopin's funeral march. The choir under the direction of Mrs. McKennedy, augmented for the occasion, rendered the impressive Gregorian plain chant. At the offertory Miss May E. Whiteley in an exquisite soprano voice sang the beautiful Latin requiem hymn, "O Meritum Passionis" with deep devotion. After the elevation James E. Donnelly rendered "Jesu Salvator Mundi." After the mass the men filed from the church the choir chanted "De Profundis."

GRANT LICENSES

Excise Board Forestalls Bar Bill

BOSTON, April 20.—The licensing board, after an 11-day session yesterday, granted 122 licenses for the sale of liquor in this city during the coming 12 months.

This action would seem to render hope for the coming year, so far as Boston is concerned, the bar and bottle bill now bearing enactment at the state house. It is not unlikely that the validity of this issue of licenses will be taken into the courts in the event of the passage of the bill.

MEMORIAL MASS FOR MEMBERS OF HOLY NAME SOCIETY

The annual memorial mass for the deceased members of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's church was held yesterday at that church. The requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. John F. Burns, spiritual director, and over 100 members attended the service in a body. At 5.45 o'clock the members assembled at the fair hall and two abreast marched to the church, where seats were reserved. The blue was headed by Marshal William J. Gargan, followed by President Richard Lyons and Vice President Jas. W. Cooke and the other members, and it was a splendid showing indeed. As the members proceeded down the main aisle, Mrs. J. W. McKennedy at the organ played Chopin's funeral march. The choir under the direction of Mrs. McKennedy, augmented for the occasion, rendered the impressive Gregorian plain chant. At the offertory Miss May E. Whiteley in an exquisite soprano voice sang the beautiful Latin requiem hymn, "O Meritum Passionis" with deep devotion. After the elevation James E. Donnelly rendered "Jesu Salvator Mundi." After the mass the men filed from the church the choir chanted "De Profundis."

GREAT ENTHUSIASM PATRIOTS' DAY

Col. Roosevelt Wildly Cheered by the Hungarians

How the Holiday Was Observed in This City

BUDAPEST, April 20.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit left here last night by the Orient Express for Paris, where they will arrive Thursday morning. Instead of crossing Switzerland, the route runs north through the Austrian Alps and southern Germany, entering France at Avricourt.

Colonel Roosevelt's last day in Hungary only furnished additional proof of the deep impression his personality has made upon the hearts of the people, high and low. The pitch of enthusiasm increased to the moment of his departure. Hundreds cheered in front of the hotel, when he left yesterday morning for a visit to the government stock farm at Balbina, where the breeding of Arab horses is carried on, and thousands were massed about the station when he returned at 7 o'clock last night. They greeted him with Hungarian cries, equivalent to the American "hurrah for Roosevelt," which the ex-president, with his ability to grasp the meaning of things, seemed to understand and thoroughly appreciate.

The packed streets echoed the cries, as he passed, and this demonstration was repeated later during the evening—in front of the hotel as he departed for the breeding farm and on his return, and when he left the hotel finally for the station, where another frantic multitude had waited until midnight to see him off.

The same popular enthusiasm was displayed seventy miles from Budapest, on the drive from the railroad to Babolna. Carriages drawn by six horses, with drivers in picturesque Hungarian costume, covered the party through thatched-roof villages, decorated with crude American flags, under hastily constructed triumphal arches, amid the shouts of the entire populace. In each village the schools had been dismissed in order that the children might join in the acclamation of the American.

Mr. Roosevelt highly enjoyed his visit to the breeding farm. After lunch, at which the speeches of welcome were most fervid, a score of pure blood Arab stallions were trotted out for his inspection. The colonel in charge of the stud, an Arab who came from Syria as a stable boy, took the greatest pride in showing the fine points of the beautiful animals, saying to Mr. Roosevelt:

"I am not married; my family is in the stable."

The ex-president and the ladies of the party, including Countess Szechenyi, who was Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, fed the horses with sugar. Later the party visited the brood mares, where Col. Roosevelt was shown a tiny thoroughbred which was born yesterday. It was a filly, but the colonel christened it "Roosevelt."

There was an inspection also of the blooded cattle, sheep, pigs and domestic fowl. When the party left the Arab asked the ex-president if he was satisfied, and in the way of a reply Mr. Roosevelt shook him warmly by the hand, saying "Good-bye comrade."

The dinner at the foreign office last night, was followed by a big reception. Count Szechenyi, who had a narrow escape from serious injury from the whirling blade of a fan on board the train during the trip to the breeding farm, suffered no ill effects. The sharp blade fairly grazed his head; another half inch and it would have cleaved the skull.

SLANDER CASE

LONDON, April 20.—One farthing damages was awarded yesterday by the jury in a slander action brought by Jacques Henri Duveen against his cousin, Joseph Duveen, of the famous firm of Duveen Bros.

Jacques Duveen, whose real name is Handjas, complained that Joseph Duveen had described him as "an unscrupulous scoundrel, not to be trusted." Joseph on the stand yesterday denied using this language, but admitted describing the plaintiff as ungrateful, and explained how his firm had rendered assistance to his cousin. Under examination the plaintiff stated that he always went by the name of Duveen except when he signed legal documents, and then he signed "Handjas."

Patriots' day shone bright and clear, despite the fact that it was preceded by a night of rain, wind and nervous clouds. Those of us who "went to the feathers" about the midnight hour on Monday expected to awaken upon a rainy day, but instead of that there was sunshine everywhere and the air was deliciously balmy and refreshing.

Lowell's celebration of Patriots' day was not at all out of the ordinary. The ball games at Spalding park constituted the big noise and the games were well attended. When a ball game is on all else is faded in the distance and while the games were in session yesterday the streets down town were pretty well deserted except for the coming and going of visitors.

The finish of the military hike in the afternoon aroused considerable attention and enthusiasm. Though a fleeting show it was absolutely new and all along the line of march from Boston the boys were greeted with happy smiles. The scene at the armory in Westford street upon the arrival of the "hikers" was one of great cheer and enthusiasm.

The moving picture show was the place of resistance in the evening and although Lowell is fairly well supplied with houses of this kind they were not equal to the occasion last night and devotees of the moving picture were turned away at almost every picture house in the city.

The contingent from this city to Lexington and Concord was not as great as in days of yore. When the bicycle was having its innings the exodus from Lowell on Patriots' day was much greater than at present, yet quite a number went from this city to Lexington and Concord yesterday.

It seemed a great day for visitors in Lowell and one met a good many strange faces in the street. There was a good deal of automobileing, too, and there were other attractions in the city of games and sports besides the ball games at Spalding park.

Everybody seemed to be having a good time. Even the fellow who remained at home to put seven doors and windows and outside receptacles for flowers whistled as he painted and seemed to enjoy it as much as the fellows on the bleachers enjoyed the ball game.

After all it doesn't make much difference what we do to pass the day, if our hearts are in the right place we'll have a good time anyhow.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

BY MOLLY VARNUM CHAPTER, D. A. R.

Patriots' day was celebrated in an appropriate manner yesterday by the members of Molly Varnum chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Spaulding house in Pawtucket street. A business meeting was held, at which officers were elected, and following the meeting a musical program was carried out.

Mrs. F. L. Roberts had charge of the musical program, and the entertainers were, besides herself, Mrs. W. H. Pepin soprano, Mr. Harry Hopkins tenor, Mr. Warren T. Reid baritone, Miss Savage accompanist, and Miss Annabel Savage piano soloist. The program was as follows: Kipling's "Recessional," sung by the quartet; "The Serenade," by Schubert; Mr. Hopkins: "Passage Bird's Farewell," Eugene Hildach, Mrs. Pepin and Mr. Reid; "The Garden of Roses," Mrs. Roberts; piano selection, "Tendre Aveu," by Edouard Schuett, Miss Annabel Savage; trio, "O Memory," Mrs. Pepin, Mrs. Roberts, Mr. Hopkins; quartet, "Joy of Spring," and the closing number the "Star Spangled Banner."

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. Wm. D. Draper and Miss Mary A. Webster poured tea and chocolate.

AT CHELMSFORD CENTRE

A track meet on the common in the forenoon and a ball game on the Homestead grounds in the afternoon constituted the Patriots' day attractions at Chelmsford Centre. The track meet was between members of the Chelmsford high school and the Bills class of boys of the Central Baptist church. The Bills class won by a score of 54 to 27.

At the ball game in the afternoon the Chelmsfords defeated the N. Y. N. H. & H. clerks by a score of 7 to 3.

At North Chelmsford there was a gingery ball game in the forenoon between the North Chelmsford Machine & Supply Co., and a picked village team. The boys from the supply company won by a score of 3 to 5.

GAME AT TEWKSBURY

A ball game was among the Patriots' day attractions at Tewksbury. The contestants were the Tigers of Tewksbury and the Indians of Lowell. The game was forfeited in the ninth inning by the Indians refusing to play on the umpire's decision.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H. held a dancing party last night at Hilberian hall. There was a good attendance and the affair was a very successful one. The Colonial orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

Met Pres. Taft at White House

WASHINGTON, April 20.—William Jennings Bryan and President Taft spent more than an hour closeted together at the White House yesterday. The two great travelers exchanged reminiscences, it is said, and both commented upon how well the other was looking.

The president rather intimated that being beaten at the polls didn't seem to be such a bad thing for one's health and happiness, after all.

"The call was purely a social one," said Mr. Bryan as he left the executive offices.

"Did you discuss the tariff bill?" was asked.

"No," smiled the Nebraskan. "We forgot all about it."

"Or politics?"

"Both the president and Mr. Bryan seemed to have thoroughly enjoyed the quiet chat. Mr. Bryan walked in democratic fashion to the White House. He was received with the usual courtesy by the attaches and was shown at once into the president's office.

Mr. Bryan left at 1:55 o'clock last night for Lincoln, Neb.

CORPORATION TAX

The State May Lose a Large Slice of It

BOSTON, April 20.—Foreign corporations of all sorts, of which there are thousands in the state, that since 1903 have been paying the commonwealth an excise tax based on a percentage of their total authorized capitalization, have been presented with a very pretty gift by the United States supreme court.

In an opinion in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. the State of Kansas the court has ruled that a tax of this nature, based on the total capitalization of a foreign corporation and ignoring the property outside the state, is unconstitutional. What brings this right home to Massachusetts is that the foreign corporation excise tax in this state is figured just as the Kansas tax is, on the total authorized capitalization, irrespective of the proportion used in and outside this state.

There was a time, not so very long ago, when this decision would not have upset the state treasury to any special extent. Of late, though, the corporations have been giving up something more than $250,000 a year—a sum which will make more than a little difference in running expenditures.

LIQUOR LICENSES DISCUSSED

EXTRA

THE POLICE BOARD

Held Long Session and Discussed Granting of Licenses

The board of police held what might be called an all-day session today and the business under discussion was the granting of liquor licenses. The board met shortly after nine o'clock this morning and was in session until after noon when a recess was taken for lunch. At two o'clock the members met again and after discussing matters for about half an hour in the court of second sessions another recess was taken and the members left the Market street building, each taking a different direction.

While it is well known that the granting of licenses was the only topic under discussion the members of the board were non-communicative when it came to answering questions relative to what had been done during the sessions.

There were all kinds of rumors in the air relative to the long delay in the granting of the licenses, but every effort on the part of the newspapermen to secure information from the members of the board was unsuccessful. It was admitted by the members that the license grants were under consideration, but as to what was responsible for the delay there was no answer.

EXPRESS RATES

Discussed by the N. H. Board of Trade

NASHUA, N. H., April 20.—Express rates and legislation that would have a tendency to lower them was one of the topics discussed by delegates of the state board of trade at the annual spring meeting, which was held with the Nashua board of trade here yesterday.

Gov. Henry B. Quinnby was the guest and spoke yesterday afternoon on "The Automobile and the Roads." In the absence of ex-Gov. Bachelier, president of the state board, the meeting was called to order by Sec. H. H. Metcalf of Concord. Pres. Crowley of the Nashua board, a vice president of the state board, presided. The state body was invited to hold its next meeting with the Antrim board, which was organized last January, and the matter was left in the hands of the executive board.

William Savacool of Manchester, chairman of the special committee which is fighting the case against the American express company in behalf of the state board, made a report. The parents post was advocated and in the meantime legislation for lower express rates was suggested. Several members took part in the discussion. Gen. Charles J. Hamblett of this city suggesting amending the law so that a cumulative penalty would be attached to violations. The question of legislation was left in the hands of the executive committee. It was voted to request other state boards throughout the country to join in the movement for the parcels post.

Hill Will Case Ready for Trial, but Will Was Not Produced and Case Was Transferred to Superior Court—Judge Sheldon Presided Over Session

The supreme judicial court, Justice Sheldon presiding, held a brief session at the court house in Gorham street this morning, adjournment coming unexpectedly through a peculiar omission on the part of counsel in a case ready for trial.

Opening prayer was delivered by Rev. N. W. Matthews, after which the list was read. The Lowell list included three cases, one of which was supposed to be heard today. The case was to be heard was the appeal from the decision of the probate court in the case of Edward E. Hill executor, petitioner, vs. Clara B. Hill et al., appellées. George W. Moore and Dunbar & Rogers appeared for the petitioner and the Messrs. Hogan for the other side. Counsel in the case, after calling of the list, had gotten out their papers all ready to start on the case when Clerk Smith announced that the will had not been sent up from the probate court. The court announced that the case could not proceed without the will unless counsel agreed upon certain legal requirements relative to it and no agreement was reached. The court ordered the case transferred to this term of the superior court for trial.

The other two cases were: David N. Telenbloom, petitioner, vs. Talbot Bennett Silverblatt et al., appellées; Wilson; and the case of Susan J. B. Quinby, ex. pet., vs. Joseph E. Blood et al., John J. Harvey and the Messrs. Pearson. In the first counsel was in court while in the second one of the counsel announced a withdrawal of the contest. Court then adjourned to Cambridge. PERISHED IN A GALE

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., April 20.—Three fishermen of Priesis Pond, a small settlement on the north side of this island, are believed to have perished in a gale off shore yesterday. The men, Peter Schan, 21 years; A. Holland, 18 years, and Lergus Campbell, 30 years, put out at dusk yesterday in a power dory to tend their nets. The wind blew strong off shore and the sea is said to have been so high that the power boat could not live in it. After the boat was half a mile out one of the occupants is reported to have been seen working at the engine.

A boat sent in search of the three fishermen returned without finding any trace of them. The government steamer Brant went out today in hope of finding some trace of the men or boat.

JAMES PATTEN

Says He Will Pay for Cotton

NEW YORK, April 20.—James Patten of Chicago denied today that he was associated with any other interest in the cotton market and said that he was disposed to stand by his present position in the market.

Mr. Patten said: "I am not under any agreement with any other interest in the market. I was long on cotton before I even met the other gentlemen who are supposed to be bulls in the market, but naturally as we are on the same side of the proposition our interests are to that extent mutual. I intend to take up the cotton called for by my contracts and to pay for it. I am willing to make contracts to supply mills anywhere in the world with cotton so far as my holdings will go. If the government wants to stop trading in futures why is not a plain statement made to that effect instead of instituting proceedings which merely tend to confuse the entire trade."

WILL NOT RESIGN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 20.—Congressman Capron denied emphatically today the report up the cotton that he is to resign his seat in the house of representatives. He said he had no idea of such a procedure, and would not resign from the second republican district. Congressman Capron, who has been in ill health for the past three months, is at the present time improved.

BOSTON, April 20.—With the testimony today of two of the trustees of the closed Southbridge savings bank, both of whom admitted that they gave but little attention to their duties, the legislative investigation of the bank closed.

Trustee Henry C. Cady stated that he never learned his duties or inquired into the affairs of the bank. The management was entirely in the hands of Treasurer Hall, now in jail awaiting trial, and the investment committee. Every one in town had confidence in Hall. Trustee Charles H. Hill remembered auditing some of the accounts of the bank, but never looked over its liabilities.

He attended meetings when his own business permitted.

The committee will report to the legislature next week.

6 O'CLOCK HE SHOT HIMSELF

Man Wanted to Leave Wife Free to Marry

NEW YORK, April 20.—The happiness of his wife is more to John Kinosh than his own life and so he shot himself today that she might be free to marry another man whom he believed she loved.

Kinosh's wife, Annie, had a sweetheart in Poland named Michael Solder before she came to America several years ago. Solder came to this city a few months ago and went to live with the Kinoshs. The husband thought he saw signs of renewed affection in his wife for her old sweetheart. Early today his wife was accused by a revolver shot. Her husband lay gasping on the floor with a bullet in his abdomen.

"I am in the way," he said. "I shot myself so you could marry Mike."

They carried him off to the hospital and the doctors say he is dying.

Mrs. Kinosh says she loves only her husband and that his suspicions were groundless. Solder agrees with her.

MEAT PRICE HIGH KEEN RIVALRY

Because Fake Bids Are At Election of Officers Offered of D. A. R.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 20.—The high price of meat is due partly to the competition in bidding for cattle between buyers regularly employed by Swift, Armour and Morris, and buyers employed by the National Packing company, which is controlled by those interests, according to testimony given yesterday by A. N. Benn, vice president of the St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision company, in the investigation of the packing companies by Attorney-General Major of Missouri.

To this alleged "competition" the witness specifically attributed the recent price of $11.15 for hogs.

Benn stated that buyers, ostensibly representing the National company, but in fact, representing Armour, Swift and Morris, frequently bid against the buyers directly employed by these firms and thus force up the price of meat. The benefit of this policy, which raises the cost price of raw material for the meat companies, was explained by the investigator as producing an illusion of competition in the eyes of the public.

"The competition between the different buyers is something fierce," said Benn. "It had not been for this we should not have had hogs at $11.15."

"It looks as if the Swift, Armour and Morris interests are really trying to lift themselves over the fence by boat straps," commented Attorney-General Major.

"That's just what it is," agreed Benn.

KYLE WHITNEY

GOT THE DECISION OVER BILL HURLEY

LAWRENCE, April 20.—Kyle Whitney of California got the decision over Fighting Bill Hurley of Glens Falls, N. Y., before the new Bay State club last night in 15 rounds of hard fighting. The white man was outclassed in all particulars, but he put up a game battle, taking a vast amount of punishment.

The colored Californian was quick and had plenty of strength behind his blows. Time and again Hurley saved himself by grappling, and the bout resembled a wrestling match. Whitney carried himself safely throughout and seemed to be looking for an opportunity to deliver a knockout blow.

Hurley appeared groggy as the bell ended the last round. In skillful boxing the New Yorker was no match with the dusky lad and even at nighting, which Hurley preferred, he was not the star. Whitney's favorite blow was a right swing to the jaw and he landed many times. In the clinches the crowd thought that Whitney was inclined to use his shoulder and was cautioned two or three times by the referee.

Young Cashman of Northboro showed his superiority over Young Banks of this city in a three-round preliminary in what was to have been one of eight. Young Ivers and Young Burke landed eight to a draw and Scotty McGhee of this city bested Mark Taylor of Haverhill in six.

RICHARD CROKER

Looks for a Union of Republicans and Democrats

NEW YORK, April 20.—"What I look for is a union of democrats and republicans," said Richard Croker thoughtfully today while discussing the Rochester congressional election. "We're going to see one big party that will be made up of representative men from each of the leading political parties."

The former Tammany chieftain, now grizzled with advancing years, departed today on the Lusitania after a several months sojourn in this country.

"The trend of events," continued Mr. Croker, "has been in that direction for a long time and it probably will not be very long before we see vigorous steps undertaken for the amalgamation."

"The defeat of Aldridge looks good for the democrats for we will see more results like this. I see that Gaynor is making a good mayor and that he is a man with the courage of his convictions. It seems to me that a man who has accomplished as big things as he is fit to occupy any position that the country can give."

"I've had a jolly time. A ripping good time. This is a great town, really, you know. It has the prettiest girls I ever saw."

Charged With the Murder of Ruth Wheeler

NEW YORK, April 20.—With the resumption today of the trial of Albert Wolter for the murder of Ruth Wheeler the case entered upon a most important stage from the viewpoint of the prosecution. Yesterday, after the jury had been completed, Assistant District Attorney Moss devoted himself for the most part to an effort to establish the fact that it was in reality the body of the 15 year old stenographer that was found in a gunnysack on Wolter's fire escape. To this end, Ruth Wheeler's mother identified some of the exhibits in the case. Today it was expected the evidence of identification would be conducted by the testimony of Adelaide Wheeler, sister of the victim, who alone of the family, had been able to nerve herself up to viewing the dismembered and charred body. Pearl Wheeler was then expected to tell the jury of her anxious hunt for her young sister and of what befell her in Wolter's flat, thus bringing the testimony to a point where Wolter's direct connection with the crime is sought to be established. Whether Wolter's counsel would abandon the "other man" theory of the defense as rumored could not be learned before the opening of court today.

Wolter did not cross the bridge of signs from the Toms today, his attendants taking him early by another route to the court room and avoiding the curiosity seekers. The mother and the two sisters of the murdered girl were in court, and among the witnesses present was Jennie Fisher, the sales girl who is alleged to have sold a can of paint to Wolter the day the crime was committed and which the state seeks to show was used to obliterate traces of incineration in the fireplace in which the body was burned.

When Miss Fisher was called to the stand she testified that on the day in question she sold a can of paint and a brush to a person whom she positively identified as Wolter. Police Captain Hughes identified a memorandum book taken from one of two trunks which had been brought to the station house after the discovery of the body. In it was found the entry, "Ruth Amos Wheeler, aged 15, American, living with parents."

This is presumed to be the book which the prosecution seeks to show belonged to Wolter. Captain Hughes also identified a garment, claimed to have been taken from the fireplace from which Ruth's body was recovered. Some pieces of charred wood adhered to it and the exhibition of the stained bit of cloth appeared to make a profound impression upon the jury. Captain Hughes also identified the rope rumored could not be learned before the opening of court today.

Wolter maintained his attitude of stolid composure all through this testimony.

Mason is Charged With Assault on John Scott

John J. Mason, the young man who is alleged to have assaulted John Scott, the janitor of the Training school, a couple of weeks ago, appeared before Judge Hadley in police court for sentence this morning. The court was undecided whether to sentence Mason or hold him for the grand jury, but after a conference with Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs, Judge Hadley found probable cause of guilt and held Mason under $500 bonds for the grand jury.

Stole a Bicycle
John J. Burns was charged with drunkenness and the larceny of a bicycle valued at $25, the property of Napoleon Daigle. He entered a plea of guilty to both complaints and was ordered to pay a fine of $30 in three days or go to jail for three months on the larceny charge, the case of drunkenness being placed on file.

Napoleon Daigle, the owner of the bicycle, testified that he left his wheel outside his house in Worthen street on the night of March 17th and when he returned found it was gone. He then returned to the store Monday night and tried to sell the bicycle for $3, but witness knew the wheel had been stolen. He told the court that he knew the wheel and the number owing to the fact that he had fitted it with tires.

Court Officer Peter Cawley said that he was told by Burns that a little boy met him in Adams street and asked him if he wanted a ride. Burns, according to his story, took a ride and when he returned was unable to find the boy.

Patrolman Somers said that when he placed Burns under arrest the latter said that he did not know how or where he got the bicycle, but later said that it was given him by a boy in Adams street.

Alfred Plouffe, who was in Keegan's store Monday night, corroborated that portions of Keegan's testimony relative to Burns trying to sell the wheel.

The defendant, when placed on the stand, said that Monday night, while under the influence of liquor, he was passing through Adams street and a little boy asked him if he wanted a ride. He said he did, and taking the bicycle which was offered him rode around the streets for a while and returning was unable to find the boy. He did not know what to do with the bicycle when he met a friend of his and the friend suggested that they "sell the wheel down to Keegan's."

Clergyman Fined
Rev. Panos Glineres appeared before

Judge Hadley in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with operating a motor vehicle without being licensed. He was fined $10.

Placed on Probation
John E. Archambault, who was arrested on a complaint of drunkenness Saturday night by Patrolman Cosselle and when arraigned in court Monday morning entered a plea of not guilty and asked for a continuance, was in court this morning and he stoutly denied that he was under the influence of liquor when taken into custody.

Patrolman Cosselle said that the man was drunk and noisy and that complaint had been made to him by the man's wife. Wagon Officer Frawley and Keeper Mulry also testified that Archambault was drunk.

The defendant informed the court that he was not drunk, but admitted that he was noisy and said that it made him crazy when he was sober and his wife would say he was drunk. "I am working in Lawrence," said the defendant, "and if you give me a chance to go there I will keep away from Lowell. They don't bother me down there like they do here."

He was given a sentence of six months in the house of correction, the sentence was suspended and he was placed in the custody of the probation officer for one year.

Unstamped Veal
Jesse Kemp pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with unlawfully selling veal, and a fine of $15 was imposed. Kemp's case was brought as the result of the activity of the board of health in prosecuting people who sell unstamped veal, the law stating that "unstamped veal shall be unfit for sale."

Case Continued

Drunken Offenders
Edwin S. Bow, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to the state farm and Dennis J. Grogan, a parole man, will be returned to that institution. Della Kennedy was sentenced to one month in jail, but she entered an appeal. Henry Burdell was sentenced to the state farm.

Horatio H. Otis will spend the next ten days in jail. John Jackson and Henry D. Egan were fined $5 each. There were five first offenders who were fined $2 each and two simple drunks were released.

HAVENS' FRIENDS

TALKING OF HIM AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—In the first flush of victory the friends of James S. Havens, the democrat who was elected to congress yesterday by a large plurality in one of the strongest republican districts in the country, are already talking of Havens for governor this fall. Judging from the conservative tenor of the successful candidate's remarks, however, he accepts his victory as bearing little on the political situation in the state except as regards the issue of bossism.

"This is not wholly a partisan victory," said Havens. "It is a victory over the things for which Cannon has stood and for the ideals which Gov. Hughes represents."

The Hughes republicans today declare that although Havens' election shows that the people of this district are dissatisfied with the tariff policy of the republican national administration and with the political control of George Aldridge, Havens' defeated opponent, it entrenches Gov. Hughes and his policies more strongly than ever. Expressions by various Hughes legislators in Albany, telegraphed here, confirm this idea.

Messages of congratulations received by the successful candidate from all over the country show the intense interest displayed by the nation in yesterday's election.

BILL PAPKE

SAYS JEFFRIES IS IN GOOD SHAPE

BEN LOMOND, Cal., April 20.—Bill Papke, the fighter who joined Jeffries' training camp yesterday, expressed much surprise at Jeff's "good appearance."

"From the pictures I saw in some of the papers," he remarked, "I thought Jim looked like an old man, but he looks no more like an old man than I do. He is down in weight and appears to me like a fellow that had never been out of the ring. It seems to be in good condition already."

His day from training yesterday appeared to do Jeff much good and his happy state was heightened by a telephone message from his wife in Oakland and saying she was recovering fast from her illness and expected to return to Ben Lomond.

ZION CITY ELECTION

CHICAGO, April 20.—At Zion City yesterday Wilbur Glen Voliva, successor to the late John Alexander Dowle, won back most of the power he lost at his election a year ago. The election was the second test of strength between the theocratic party, represented by Voliva, and the independents, led by Mayor Ritchey. At the close of the election last year the independents won every city office. Yesterday Voliva elected three aldermen and a police magistrate, all the officers voted

WORLD'S RECORD

New Mark Set by Hancock Handtub

BROCKTON, April 20.—Fifteen hundred people saw the champion Hancock handtub, under foreman "Lon" Willis and his crew from Brockton Heights, break the world's record by throwing a stream 263 ft 1-2 in. at the New England firemen's muster held at Highland park yesterday afternoon.

The new record will stand, the muster being conducted under the official rules of the New England veteran firemen's league. The best previous playing record was made several years ago at Nashua, N. H. by the General Butler crew of Lowell, with 259 ft. 6 1-4 in.

Six machines were entered in yesterday's muster. Protector won second place with a stream of 250 ft. 11-4 in. Washington of Brookville won third money with 240 ft. 9 1-4 in. and Alabama Coon fourth place with 227 ft. 11 in. The prizes were $60, $45, $30 and $15.

The wind conditions were variable. At the time of the record play by the Hancock the wind blew nearly directly down the board. The muster was held under New England rules except that the machines used 200 feet of hose, instead of 250 feet of iron pipe and hose. The playing was on 15-minute time.

The judges were John A. Jackson of Brockton chairman, Frank E. Drake of Stoughton, clerk, Charles Thompson of Brockton timer. At stream, John A. Jackson, Edward Cox of Brockton and William Crawford of Brookville; at pipe, Godfrey Knight of Avon and George Langford of Weymouth; at engine, Edward Nickerson of Stoughton, Edward Murphy of Brockton; inspectors, Charles L. Leavitt of Hingham and F. E. Drake of Stoughton.

The summary:

	Feet	In.
1—Hancock, Brockton	263	1 1/2
2—Protector, Brockton	250	11 1/4
3—Washington, Brookville	240	9 1/4
4—Alabama Coon, Stoughton	227	11

6—Columbia, Brockton	193	9 1/4

SEAL HUNTING

MOTOR BOATS BEING USED BY SOME VESSELS

VICTORIA, B. C., April 20.—Japanese sealers, reaching Vancouver yesterday, report that motorboats are being used for seal hunting this year by some of the forty vessels sent from Japan to Behring sea. International sealing regulations provide that only sailcraft may be used for pelagic sealing but Japan is not a party to the treaty and maintains that the regulations do not apply to Japanese sealers.

CRIMSON AND NAVY CREWS READY FOR START OF RACE ON SEVERN

For the next few months rowing will share the center of the college athletic stage along with baseball and track athletics. In fact, rowing will be the last of all the branches of collegiate athletic activity to pass from popular attention this year, for the reason that when the Harvard-Yale race at New London, the concluding event upon the varsity aquatic program, is rowed all of the other athletic teams will have been disbanded for the season. The Harvard-Yale race, by the way, comes late this season, being scheduled for June 30, but even so the windup of the college rowing season is a day or two earlier than in 1909. The first big event on the calendar is the Harvard-Annapolis race to be held on the Severn April 21.

COLUMBUS DAY

Rep. Keliher Wants It National Holiday

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Representative Keliher yesterday appeared before the house committee on the judiciary in favor of the Harrison bill making Oct. 12 the anniversary of the discovery of America, a national holiday.

Mr. Keliher told the committee that there is strong sentiment in Massachusetts in favor of making Christopher Columbus day a legal holiday and predicted that the legislature would soon pass a law to accomplish that purpose.

Mr. Keliher said the event which it is proposed to commemorate is the most momentous in history and that there is no greater historical figure than Columbus. He thought the republic could afford to commemorate that event and the central figure in it in fitting manner.

LONDON, April 20.—Edmund Heller, the zoologist of Riverside, who accompanied Mr. Roosevelt on his African hunting trip, has decided that the sable antelope killed by Kermit Roosevelt is a new specie, peculiar to the Namibias region and not heretofore described. It will be named the Roosevelt.

$15,000 VERDICT

Was Set Aside by the Court

NEW YORK, April 20.—Damages in $15,000 were won and then lost by Miss Blanche B. Freeman of Philadelphia in the supreme court yesterday in her suit against Clifford B. Harmon, wealthy real estate operator and balloonist, for his alleged failure to pay her $100 a month for life and to provide her a home in settlement of a $100,000 breach of promise suit.

The jury made the award but it was immediately set aside by Justice Erving as excessive.

Miss Freeman claimed that Harmon jilted her to wed the daughter of E. C. Benedict, yachtman and banker. She sued for $21,000.

HAVENS ELECTED

Democrat Wins in a Strong Republican District

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—Between 10,000 and 15,000 voters of Monroe county changed from the republican to the democrat column today and elected the first democratic congressman that has represented the 32d district in 20 years.

James S. Havens, a democrat, running on a tariff reform platform, defeated George W. Aldridge, for a score of years the ruler of the county republican organization, by 5331 votes.

Monroe county, which comprises the 32d district, is normally republican by about 6000.

James Brock Perkins, whose death in the middle of his third congressional term, necessitated a special election today, carried the district in 1903 by 10,167 votes.

Havens had arrayed against him one of the strongest political organizations in the state. Yet in a campaign lasting but 17 days and with hastily constructed machinery, he accomplished one of the most remarkable overturns in political history. The result of this election takes its place beside the democratic victory in the 14th Massachusetts district, where Eugene N. Foss was sent to congress from a district supposed to be as rock-ribbed republican as this one.

Mr. Havens rode to victory on a platform advocating tariff revision of the duties on wool and woolen goods, removal of the tax on hides, lumber and iron ore, an income tax, and party independence of all political bosses.

Mr. Aldridge, his opponent, contented himself with general proclamations in favor of the policies of the republican administration. On the tariff proposition he was regarded as a "stand patter."

SHAM PAINTINGS MAYOR MEEHAN

An Investigation of their Reappoints Assistant Sale Fire Engineers

NEW YORK, April 20.—The revelations made in the case of Count De Gatligny who with his countess is being examined at Tours on a charge of having misrepresented the origin of paintings and the antiquity of furniture to Mrs. Charles Payne of this city have caused a profound impression in the art world and served to open up the whole question of the many-sided traffic in sham paintings, other works of art and antique furniture.

Although the declarations of Henri Rochefort, editor of the Patrie, regarding the Rembrandts may constitute a satirical exaggeration it is the general opinion that there is a nucleus of truth in his assertion that collected collections in hundreds of homes in America and elsewhere contain spurious Rembrandts as well as copies of other masters. M. Rochefort has said that 80 per cent of the "Rembrandts" owned in America are forgeries.

The recent exposures are hailed here as helping to check the brazen frauds perpetrated in France and elsewhere and as a warning to foreigners to buy masterpieces with the greatest caution. The newspapers pursue the Gatligny affair with avidity and are immensely amused over the various reports of how the count entered the most exclusive society. Early photographs of Gatligny show a handsome young man with a proud face, fair and long locks and frank blue eyes. He is dressed in the uniform of a councillor of the Order of Melusine. His breast is literally laden with ribbons and medals.

THE K. OF C.

THE MONTH OF APRIL A BUSY ONE FOR THE LOCAL COUNCIL

With the two regular monthly meetings and the lecture of last Sunday and the events that are scheduled for the remaining part of the month, the council will experience the busiest, best and biggest month of its existence.

Thursday evening, April 21, an illustrated lecture on the "Grand Canyon of Arizona" will be delivered by Charles F. J. Neume, P. G. K., of Cambridge, and from the records of the papers where he has delivered this talk the members will well be paid for their attendance. Over 150 colored views will be shown and a very graphic description of the canyon ensues.

There will be a musical program of several numbers, all new to the members, and a buffet lunch will be served. The feature of the program will be the presentation of the Pocahontas Glee Club.

The following week, April 25, will occur the annual banquet of the council and the committee in charge is striving to outdo all previous occasions and is to be congratulated upon the selection of speakers, among whom are Dr. James J. Walsh of Fordham university, New York, who is rated as the best on any occasion. This appearance at the State banquet of last year was so acceptable that an effort was made by the same body to secure him again, but to no avail, and Lowell council is indeed fortunate in securing him. The Rev. J. J. Prendergast, S. J., of Boston college, is another speaker, and his reputation as a powerful speaker is too well known to need any comment.

The state officers and a long list of invited guests will add to the bearing of the banquet. It is expected that a very large number of the members will be present and the success of the affair bids fair to be long remembered.

A committee has been appointed to arrange for communion Sunday when a reception will be held in honor of Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. L., chaplain of the council.

Sunday, April 23, at 3 o'clock Mr. Arthur M. Mabel, organist at St. Jean Baptiste's church, will give a recital on the piano and organ at the rooms and all members and friends are welcome.

Will Round's free offer on page 6.

Mayor Meehan, today, reappointed as assistant fire engineers, James P. Norton, Edward Meloy, Charles Stackpole and Charles E. Alway. Mr. Norton is first assistant and is appointed for a term of three years. The appointments will go to the board of aldermen tonight for confirmation.

ANNUAL REPORT

Of Street Dept. Received by City Clerk

"The best prepared report that comes into this office, and I think it ought to receive special mention," said City Clerk Dudman as he called the report of the superintendent of streets as prepared by Clerk Clarence Raymond. The reporter allowed that the report was a splendidly prepared one, but the detail was a bit overwhelming. All of the information contained in the report is of a statistical nature and in the street and sewer department there is a big territory to cover.

The report gives 155.44 as the number of miles of accepted streets in Lowell, January 1, 1910, and the miles of paved streets as follows:

Brick 177, asphalt 1.93, asphaltina 1.56, stone block 16.054, wood block 0.256, bituminous 1.31, macadam 35.56, Hassam 0.437.

Streets Committee

The committee on streets will go a-voyaging tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will visit premises mentioned in petitions now before it.

Start Sewer Work

Supt. Putnam hopes to be able to start in on sewer work within a week or ten days. The start will be made in East Merrimack street where the brick sewer will be extended from its trunk near Buttram road to Plummer avenue and a pipe sewer will be laid in Plummer ave. in accordance with a petition submitted a year or more ago.

Rep. Sullivan

Rep. John F. Sullivan of East Boston was a caller at the mayor's office this forenoon.

MARK TWAIN'S CONDITION

REDDING, April 20.—The condition of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), who is seriously ill of angina pectoris at his home here, was reported practically unchanged this morning from that of last night when he was said to be resting quietly, but to have grown weaker. A physician and nurses are in constant attendance. Dr. Robert Halsey of New York, who has remained at the bedside of the sick man since his arrival at Stormfield last Thursday evening, said this morning, "Mr. Clemens had a restless night, but his condition is unaltered."

NIGHT EDITION

Appears in Charles E. Adams Will Case

Now it's the Middlesex probate court that is overwhelmed with cases, owing to the celebrated Russell and Glover cases which occupied the attention of Justices Lawton and McIntire for so long a time. Both judges appeared at the local sessions this morning, it being Judge Lawton's first appearance for many months. Judge Lawton presided over the uncontested session while Judge McIntire held court in the contested session.

Judge McIntire announced at the opening of the contested session that counsel would experience some difficulty in getting immediate assignments of cases owing to the crowded condition of the list. There are many cases, he said, that have been on the list since last fall.

Price Case Again
The family troubles of Louis Price and his wife, Sarah, which have previously been heard before Judge Chamberlain, are evidently not yet at an end, for this morning the first case on the list was a petition of Louis Price for a modification of his divorce recently given by Judge Chamberlain, giving the custody of their child to the mother. Mr. Price asked that the decree name how often and under what conditions he can see his child and enjoy the little one's company. Judge McIntire suggested that as Judge Chamberlain was familiar with the facts in the case that counsel could present the matter to him at Cambridge next Tuesday and it was so agreed.

Adams Will Case
The contested will case of Charles E. Adams, contested by John Q. Adams of Lowell, and Mrs. Dale of North Attleboro, a new contestant, claiming to be a cousin of the deceased, was in today's list and Messrs. McEvoy for the contestant Adams and Judge Pickman for the will asked for an immediate hearing if possible. Mrs. Dale's counsel was not present. Judge McIntire was unable to assign a date for the hearing today but asked counsel to confer with him at Cambridge next Tuesday when a date will be set for a hearing in this city.

Byam vs. Byam
One of the features of the alleged cruel and abusive treatment of Mrs. Marion W. Byam by her husband, George Byam, Jr., as told Judge McIntire by Mrs. Byam was that he would make fun of her figure in front of other people and ridicule her about her physical appearance.

Mrs. Byam was married in 1906 and the wife claimed that their troubles began six months after their marriage. Mrs. Byam has been living apart from her husband since January, 1910. There were several witnesses. A brother and a sister of the petitioner, residents of Bradford, testified to a conversation with Mr. Byam in January at the time of the separation, in which Mr. Byam stated that his wife had always been faithful but that he didn't like her any more and would give her $5 per week but would not live with her. The brother testified that when reminded of the child Mr. Byam said that the child was too much like its mother.

WIFE EXPECTED TO MEET HIM HERE
John de Sultrencia, a native of the Madeira Islands, died yesterday morning at St. John's hospital. He had been in this city but a short time and his wife is now on the ocean on her way to this city, he having notified her to sail for America. That was before he was taken sick and now the poor woman will arrive to find her husband dead and buried as the funeral will take place tomorrow.

BIG HANDICAP RACE
EPSON, England, April 20.—The City and Suburban handicap of 2000 sovereigns for three years and up, distance about one mile and a quarter, was run today and won by Danvers Double, a three-year-old, ridden by Danny Maher, the American jockey, was second and Dean Swift third. There were four starters.

King Edward's derby winner Minoru was a warm favorite in the betting but was unable to secure a place. The American stables were not represented in this event.

Have You Tried?
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and honest statements of facts.

Cresson, Pa.—"Five years ago I had a bad fall, and hurt myself inwardly. I was under a doctor's care for nine weeks, and when I stopped I grew worse again. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it as directed, and now I am a stout, hearty woman."—Mrs. Ella B. Aikay, Cresson, Pa.

Baird, Wash.—"A year ago I was sick with kidney and bladder troubles and female weakness. The doctors gave me up. All they could do was to just let me go as easily as possible. I was advised by friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am completely cured of my ills, and I am nearly sixty years old."—Mrs. Sarah Leighton, Baird, Wash.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

STOCK MARKET WAS WEAK AT THE CLOSING HOUR
TODAY
Bears Covered and Prices Stiffened for a Short Time—Prices Yielded to Lowest of the Day

NEW YORK, April 20.—Light selling orders depressed opening prices for stocks a small fraction all around. The lower range of prices in London was an influence here. Amal. Copper declined a point. The changes otherwise were trivial.

Pressure relaxed and fractional losses were recovered, but new selling orders were put out after prices had returned to yesterday's close, forcing some stocks lower than at the beginning. Wells Fargo Express receded 3 points and Great Northern Oregon, etc., and International Pump 1.

Stocks were persistently sold on a constantly declining range of prices. The metal industrial were conspicuously weak. Rumors were current that the quarterly earnings of the U. S. Steel Corporation would show a heavy contraction from the preceding quarter. Copper trade advices also were unfavorable. Additional gold exports threatened the market.

Liquidation was attributed to last week's buyers, who were disappointed over the public indifference to the market. Selling was suspended for a time but there was no attempt made to bid up prices, the market ruling quiet at the low level.

Liquidation was resumed in active force, the lack of support to the market discouraging holders of stocks. The persistent pressure against U. S. Steel deterred buying of the general market. Delaware & Hudson lost 3 points and U. S. Steel and Wabash bid 2 1/2.

The market closed weak. Covering operations by the bears stiffened the market for a short time, but prices yielded again to the lowest of the day. The close in United States Steel ran to 2 1/2, Amal. Copper 3 1/2, Reading 2 1/2 and others were similarly affected.

THE DEMOCRATS
PLEASED WITH THE RESULT IN NEW YORK
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Not since the present congress began have the democratic members been in such a jubilant mood as they were today over the result of the New York election. The republican leaders declined to attach any particular significance to the defeat. "It was just a skirmish; it does not mean anything," said Rep. Boutwell of Illinois.

Representative Underwood, the democratic whip, declared that "it was a repudiation of the Payne-Aldrich law and the administration."

Rep. Norris of Nebraska, one of the insurgent leaders when asked "What does it mean to this house," replied: "It means that the members who are here because of machine politics—both republicans and democrats—should be able to see the end they are coming to. They won't be here much longer."

There was incidental reference in the senate to the election by Mr. Gallinger.

FINGER CRUSHED
J. W. Kenny of 23 Rock street, sustained a painful laceration of the last finger of the right hand while unloading steel in the freight yard of the Boston & Maine railroad this forenoon. He was treated at the Emergency hospital. Mr. Kenny is 44 years old and has been in the employ of the B. & M. 20 years.

AFTERNOON GAME
Nearly 5000 people turned out for the afternoon game. The bright particular star was little Tyler from Derry, N. H. Some fans there are who have doubts as to Manager Gray's ability to judge a ball player, not having much experience as a manager up to a year ago. But here is a case that proves that he knows a good player when he sees him. Last season Tyler who had been playing good ball in the country towns came here for a few games but was nervous before the multitude and proved to be an unsafe man in a pinch, but nevertheless he impressed Manager Gray that he had the goods somewhere concealed about his person and the latter held on to him, taking him along with the team for practice and reserving him for this year. Tyler by the end of the season had become used to his surroundings and went back to Derry vowing that he would show the goods this year. Yesterday was really his first appearance and he pitched magnificent ball. He had everything known to the pitcher's art. He was quick and the slow one shoots wide curves and does a good deal of work on them over the plate. He was a caution. He made the heavy hitting Uteas look like bad money and after the game they freely admitted that he was something of a pitcher. He fielded his position nicely and with Sullivan figured in a sensational play at first base. Tyler didn't allow a single walk; he struck out 14 men and gave only four hits, a couple of which were of the scratch variety. Magee was the star of the game. He headed off a run at the plate by a beautiful throw and made two doubles and a single.

Well scored two in the first. Fitz opened up and got first by being hit. He stole second. Ordway fanned. Fluharty hit safely to centre and Fitz scored while Fitz made second on the play. Flu scored on Magee's two-bagger. Jones hit a line drive to Daly who doubled with Magee at second. In the fifth Campbell opened with a two-bagger and took third on Tyler's sacrifice. Fitz bunted down the third base line and Campbell sprinted home, beating out the ball. The next two men were easy outs. The visitors scored in the first and ninth innings. In the opening inning he was out at Ordway fumbled Johnson's grounder and stole second. He scored on a single by Zimmerman while the latter stole second. Wilder hit to left field for a clean single and Zimmerman attempted to make home. Magee fielded the ball quickly and by a perfect throw to the plate shut off the run. In the ninth an error by Campbell let Genest on first and he stole second. A clean single that nearly took the roof off Umpire Reed's body scored him. Uteas will play here again tomorrow. The score:

THE MORNING GAME
The Hartford team, champions of the Connecticut league, was the attraction at the morning game and it presented an old opponent for a pitcher in the person of Ira Swanson, formerly with the Fall River team. Moore, formerly of the Millinocket (Me.) team, did the twirling for Lowell, and for six innings it was a pretty pitcher's battle with honors even. In the seventh, for some unaccountable reason, the visitors sent up a fellow named Wood to replace Swanson, and the home team took to Wood like a kid to a stick of candy. They swallowed him up and won out at the last moment. Moore surprised the local fans with his slow, straight delivery and as he pitched the first few innings they were nervous and couldn't see where he was going to get off, putting them over as large apparently as balloons. The visitors, too, thought they had something soft in Moore's delivery and it was amusing to watch them fall for it. Moore showed up well.

For six innings the pitchers did the twirling and there was no scoring in the fourth, with only one out. Fluharty cracked out a pretty two-bagger and went to third on a wild pitch, but Magee and Jones were fanned out and he was left at the third station. In the sixth Lowell got one. Fitz opened with a pretty single and made second on Ordway's grounder to Gode. Ordway dying at first. A single by Magee sent Fitz home. Smith and Fitz by lightning throwing stopped a score by the visitors in the first. McKenna got on with a single and later with two out made third on Connelly's single. He and Connelly then tried a double steal and McKenna was miked at the plate. The visitors didn't get beyond second until the seventh, when they threatened to pull off a victory. In this inning Connelly opened with a single and Gode got first on being hit by a pitched ball. Metzger flied out to Smith. Then Clark got a single and Connelly scored. Wadleigh bunted down the third base line and Gode scored, while Sully dropped the ball, letting Wadleigh on. With two men on bases Anderson, who went to bat for Swanson, struck out and McKenna flied out. Fluharty.

Lowell had trouble with Wood in the seventh. After Sullivan had gone out, Smith cracked the ball to the right center fence for a clean three-bagger, and Campbell scored him with a two-bagger. Campbell then went to third on a batted ball. Moore hit to Smith, who was miked at the plate and scored. Fitz went out on a grounder and a single by Ordway scored Moore. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES
Troy today.
Big Pat Sullivan was quickly recognized by the fans. Sully broke into passionate applause at Spaulding Park when he played right field for Fred Lake.

Campbell, Ordway and Fitz are three fast infielders.
Moore is a deceiving twirler. His delivery looks like easy meat but it isn't.

Fluharty's crack in the morning game would have been a three-bagger if he had not fallen.

As Al Winn once remarked: "Are we discouraged? No-o-o!" Not at all. We have a good team.

Maybe that boy Tyler didn't bend them over, yesterday, 14 strikeouts, 4 hits, no bases on balls. Some ball playing.

Troy today, weather permitting, Uteas tomorrow and Worcester Friday.

The attendance yesterday were up to expectations.

THAT PUMP LOAN

Appropriations Committee Couldn't Agree on Amount

Question of Increasing Wages of City Laborers Laid Over—Board of Charity Asked to File Amount of Indebtedness on Jan. 1909 and Jan. 1910

The committee on appropriations, Alderman Gray, chairman, met Monday night and dealt with business handed down by the city council for its consideration.

The first business before the committee was the recommendation of the committee on public buildings that $2000 be allowed for a shower bath and nine individual rooms in the Warren street engine house.

Inspector Dow of the buildings department was present and Alderman Vainwright asked him why the committee on buildings had not made a report with reference to other improvements in the department. Mr. Dow said he didn't know.

The estimates for work at the city farm and in the public schools were read.

On motion of Councilman Flanagan it was moved that the $3200 proposition be referred back to the committee on buildings with the recommendation that the committee submit a lump figure for all improvements.

The bill of $1200 owed by the charities department to the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children came up on the question of special appropriation. It was voted that the debts of the department in January, 1909, and in 1910 be submitted to the committee by the board of charities.

The Water Board

Members of the water board were ushered in at this point. President Van Tassel said the board felt that the old Morris pump had about outlived its usefulness. It had been in service since 1872 and was liable to break down at any time. The new pump would cost in the vicinity of $60,000. Building the foundation and installing the pump would cost perhaps $15,000 more.

The expenditure of $75,000 would come out of the revenues of the water department and would not, it was explained, effect the tax rate. Supt. Thomas said it would not be necessary to borrow this year as it would take a year or more to build a pump for Lowell.

Mr. Thomas spoke of the danger of a water famine and he said at such a time the Morris engine would not be equal to the task. "Twice today the engine broke down," said Mr. Thomas, "and we expect to keep repairing it now and then while we have it. Last year we paid $800 for repairs."

Asked as to the possibility of saving money to pay a part of the loan next year, Supt. Thomas said it wasn't fair to cripple the service. The department had a lot of work on its hands including the putting in of 200 new wells.

Robert J. Crowley said he did not believe in neglecting any part of the city. He said that the man in the outlying districts has just as much right to service as the man down town.

After the board had been excused the committee considered the proposition. Alderman Dexter said he would vote for an order to borrow $75,000 or any part of that amount necessary to buy a pump. The loan would not be negotiated until the arrival of the pump, but authority in the water board to go ahead on the proposition might be voted by the city council this year.

Chairman Gray thought that $65,000 was enough. Councilman Flanagan moved that $75,000 be borrowed. Alderman Vainwright said $70,000. It was evident that the members could not agree on a figure, and on motion of Councilman Flanagan the proposition was laid on the table until the next meeting.

To Increase Wages

Then came the proposition that the street department take the sum of $4000 from the general treasury fund to increase the pay of the city laborers from $1.75 to $2 a day.

Chairman Gray wanted to know why the city laborer should receive more than the corporation employee doing the same work.

Councilman Flanagan said that Lowell was behind other cities in the matter of wages to city laborers.

Chairman Gray said that the test of the question was found in the number on the waiting list.

Councilman Donohoe spoke in favor of the order. He said the men were entitled to the increase.

Councilman Fulton said that the superintendent of streets should be the man to judge as to the relative value of his employees. Chairman Gray said he didn't think that there was money enough in the general treasury fund.

about $3800 was left in the fund by the committee at the first of the year, and of this amount about $2000 was taken for the police board hearing, $1000 for Memorial day, and one or two minor sums for other purposes. It was figured that there was a little over $2000 remaining. The order was tabled on motion of Councilman Flanagan.

SCOTTISH SONGS

In Fine Concert by the Caledonian Club

The Caledonian Concert company, a purely local organization, gave its opening concert in Odd Fellows hall, Contraville, last night. The hall was packed to the doors and they do tell that there was some class to that entertainment. The concert opened with a march and reel played by Piper James Ramsay on the bag pipes. The Caledonian quartet composed of Miss Annie Hamilton soprano, Mrs. E. L. Roberts contralto, Harry Hopkins tenor, and John McLaren bass, sang "Hail to the Chief." "Mary of Argyll" was given by Harry Hopkins, and Miss Hamilton sang "Angus McDonald." John McLaren sang the "March of the Cameron Men" and Mrs. Roberts sang "Our Ain Polka," for which she received a rousing encore. James E. Donnelly imitated Harry Lander in two of that noted comedian's numbers. They were "When I Gae Back Again to Bonnie Scotland," and "The Wedding of Sandy McNeill." Master Wallace McLaren, in Clan Grant tartan, danced a Highland fling and the sword dance, with Mr. Ramsay at the pipes.

Messrs. E. D. B. Smith, Hopkins and McLaren pleased much with the trio "MacGregor's Gathering" was Mr. Hopkins' second. Mrs. Roberts sang "Hoo Can Ye Gang Awa, Laddie" and "When Ye Gang Awa, Laddie." Miss Hamilton appeared to excellent advantage in "Loch Lomond" and Mrs. Roberts gave the familiar "Cum Ye by Awh!"

Master McLaren contributed two more dance numbers, a sailor's hornpipe and an Irish jig, and the quartet for its second number sang "Green Grow the Rushes, O." The evening's entertainment closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire gathering.

Was Re-introduced By the Chancellor

LONDON, April 20.—David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, re-introduced last year's budget in the house of commons yesterday. He declared that he realized that the present deficit of $131,240,000 would be more than wiped out when all arrears had been collected and that there would be an actual surplus of $14,800,000. If the budget had been passed as usual last year, he said, there would have been a surplus of $21,000,000.

The chancellor commented upon the remarkable decrease of 32 per cent. in the consumption of whiskey, which decrease he attributed mainly to the extra duty imposed. The loss in the revenue from spirits as compared with the estimated figures was $14,000,000.

An early feature of the debate was the intervention of William O'Brien, who bitterly attacked David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer.

Mr. O'Brien insisted upon the correctness of the statement which he made in Cork, to the effect that the chancellor had promised the nationalists as concessions for their support of the budget, relief from the spirit, stamp and excise duties, brewery licenses and land taxes and from a general revaluation. He declared as before that he had read aloud to Mr. Lloyd-George a letter which he had previously sent to the chancellor and which contained a reiteration of the proposed concessions.

As no answer was given, Mr. O'Brien was present at the reading of Mr. Lloyd-George's budget but thought it safe to issue his denial that such a letter had either been received or read to him.

Mr. O'Brien added:

"The matter involves the honor and character of the minister, and great as the issue of truthfulness and straight dealing which I am quite willing shall be judged by those who know me and know him."

Mr. Lloyd-George, replying, declared again that Mr. O'Brien's account of their interview was grossly inaccurate. The chancellor admitted that upon their second interview Mr. O'Brien had read him a memorandum of what had occurred at their earlier meeting, but he said that the first he had heard of the letter described by Mr. O'Brien was from the newspapers.

LESTER HORNBY

To be Tendered Reception Tonight

Lester G. Hornby, the young artist recently risen to fame, will be given a reception at the Whistler house this evening. Mr. Hornby's etchings are now on exhibition at the Whistler house and have attracted much attention.

Lester G. Hornby, of course you know, is a Lowell boy and others than members of the Art association will be pleased and delighted to meet him and greet him as of yore, for despite his great triumphs he is still plain Lester G. Hornby, and this though he ranks among the foremost of foreign etchers.

Paris was the first to recognize the young artist's genius and now his name is rapidly becoming known in his native land.

The young artist has been engaged to do etchings of Boston, under contract with Houghton, Mifflin & Co., the publishers, to illustrate a book by Boston by Judge Robert Grant, the author of "Unleavened Bread." When he has finished these he will go abroad again.

TO OPEN CAMP

AT LOWELL GENERAL HOSPITAL, FOR CONSUMPTIVES

A number of inquiries having recently been made concerning the tuberculosis camp of the Lowell General Hospital, the following may not be without interest:

Last year the camp opened May 10th and it is safe to predict that it will open about that time this year. Much will depend upon the weather, as it is not to be wise for persons unaccustomed to outdoor life to make their first venture while the ground is wet and cold, and the weather generally disagreeable. Indeed, if the weather should be quite ideal there is no reason why the camp might not open some days even before the above date.

Statistics show that those who remain longest in camp are the most benefited, hence there should be no delay in beginning this outdoor life at the very earliest date possible.

Persons thinking about spending the summer at the camp should consult the superintendent of the hospital, Miss Sara A. Bowen, at once, in order that they may be present at the first day for examination of applicants, and thus have the full advantage of the camp for all the time it is open. Even if you have not fully decided what is the best thing to do, then consult your physician or go to the hospital and talk the matter over with Miss Bowen.

The camp was not established for advanced cases of tuberculosis. It is not a camp for incurables. It is a camp established for those cases which experience has shown are most benefited by this particular kind of treatment, namely those in the early stages of the disease.

Through the continued generosity of Mr. Frederick Fanning Ayer of New York City, no one need be deprived of the benefits of this camp because of

TWO VITAL THINGS REQUIRED IN TREATING SKIN DISEASES

In treating and curing Eczema and other well defined skin diseases, two vital things must be done. One is to exclude dust, germs and air from the diseased parts, and the other is to set up the healing process at the same time. The new medical preparation called Cadum completely accomplishes both these results so effectively that the itching is stopped as soon as it is applied, and the sore parts heal up in a wonderfully short time. Anyone with skin trouble can test Cadum by getting a 10-cent box at any drug store, and thus personally realize the power of this new compound, which is just as effective in the cure of pimples, blotches, blackheads, eruptions, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, sores, chafings, etc.

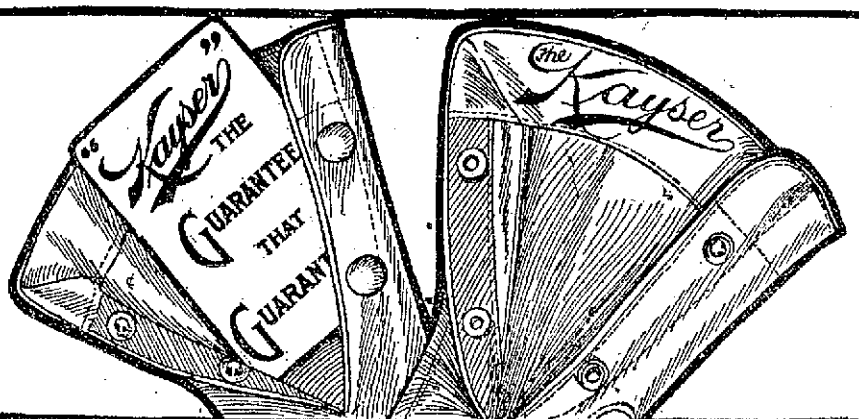

A NEW COAL A NEW PRICE

I am now receiving new, freshly mined coal from the mines every week. I can quote you this month the lowest possible prices I can make you this season. Why not let me fill your bins now and have your coal supply taken care of?

Whenever you are up Gorham street, drop in and look over my yard's stock and facilities, and decide for yourself whether I am the right man to trust with your fuel trade or not.

Can Hugh Jennings Pilot His Tigers to Another Championship?

By TOMMY CLARK.

CAN Hugh Jennings and his band of ferocious Detroit Tigers plow their way through the seven American league pennant hunters and thereby smash all National and American league records by capturing the flag for the fourth consecutive time? This question is now being discussed by nearly every baseball fan in the country. In the history of the present major league organizations no club has ever captured a pennant four years in succession. In fact, the only teams in the history of organized baseball that ever won four flags in a row were the Bostonians in the National association during the seasons of 1872, 1873, 1874 and 1875 and Chapley Comiskey's St. Louis Browns in the American association in 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888.

If Jennings can lead his Tigers to the top this season he will have accomplished a task that proved too much for Ned Hanlon, Adrian Anson, the late Frank Seale, Frank Chance and Fred Clarke. These men were the commanders of clubs that finished first three seasons in succession, but none of them, however, could land the banner for the fourth consecutive time. Now it's up to Hugh Jennings to make good.

Anson had the chance in 1888, Seale in 1884, Hanlon in 1897, Clarke in 1904 and Chance in 1908. The Chicago team, which carried off the honors in 1880, 1881 and 1882, finished second the following year, being forty-one points behind Boston. In 1891, 1892 and 1893 Boston led the field and wound up third in 1894, Baltimore winning the banner, with New York the runner up. The Baltimore were the leaders in 1894, 1895 and 1896. One of them was Jennings, the record smasher. In 1897 the Bostonians wrested the championship title from the Orioles, who made a gallant fight to enter the ranks of four time winners. The Birdlets failed to do so, however, and when the final returns were in Boston's average was .705 and Baltimore's .693. In that year the destination of the flag hinged on the result of the final series between Baltimore and Boston.

The fourth National league team to win three flags in a row was Pittsburgh. The Pirates topped the list in 1901, 1902 and 1903. The following year they fell away off in their playing and dropped to fourth place.

Last year Frank Chance and his Chicago Cubs had the opportunity to become four time winners, but the Cubs ran a poor second to Pittsburgh, being forty-four points behind the Corsairs when the campaign closed.

The American league never knew what it was to have a team that finished first more than two years in succession until Hugh Jennings entered that organization. Chicago won the flag in 1900 and 1901. Boston was victorious in 1903 and 1904. Last year Jennings shattered precedents by piloting the Tigers to the top for the third consecutive time. He is now out to capture another gonfalon.

Since the men started training this season no manager in the country has been working harder than Jennings in order to have his team as strong as ever. In fact, Hughes knows none has as much to lose as himself. History reveals that a three time winning team is about the limit. After that performance no manager has been able to keep a championship team from deteriorating, and that is what is making Jennings dig as he never has dug before. The lightning changes Jennings made in his makeup last season were in an anticipation of a breakup. He saw it coming and put through trades that enabled him to get hold of First Baseman Tom Jones and Second Sacker Jim Delahanty. Jennings then appeared to be at the end of his string unless he could develop a star or two from his youngsters. Hughes has some advantage in the fact that he has experienced the growing up of a pennant winner. He played short on the Baltimore Orioles during the day of three flags in a row and defeat by Boston, for the pennant in 1897. He also closely observed the decline of the champion Giants under McGraw's leadership and the defeat of Chicago after they had won three pennants and two world's championships. Jennings is working his players harder than ever now. No detail escapes him. When a youngster shows a defect he is taken in hand until it is corrected. Cigarettes and late hours are barred, and the players are required to eat regularly and take the best care of themselves.

It is the general opinion that Jennings will experience tremendous difficulty in trying to keep the American league pennant for another year. It is also figured that the Tigers are destined to go back and go back badly in 1910 and that some club from the east, either Philadelphia or Boston, will be found at the top at the end of the 1910 campaign.

More Trouble For Horse Racing.

Once more the thoroughbred horse racing game is in danger. This time it is the comparatively new field of Florida that is likely to be invaded, and the mountain that is gradually rising out of a molehill is becoming a menace to the future status of the game in the commonwealth of the everglades.

Jacksonville has enjoyed one of the few successful meetings held since the wave of anti-gambling sentiment began to sweep through the legislatures of racing states. The meeting saw many high class horses competing, the gate was profitable and the general tone of the meeting seemed excellent. But the inevitable has happened. An irate owner—a woman, too—circulated handbills charging the management of the track with unfair tactics. She made it very much stronger than this. The gentleman against whom the diatribe was aimed saw fit to sue for criminal libel, and the matter has found its way into the courts.

A peculiar angle to the affair has jeopardized the status of racing in Florida. The woman's lawyer in the course of his attack set up the proposition that it is not a crime to publish a libel against any institution which in itself is illegal. He also sets forth that bookmaking is illegal on the ground that the law permitting it to be conducted in this manner is unconstitutional.

This of course brings the old heated subject of the legality of betting on horse racing right into the crucible, and the outcome of this wrangle, if the matter is pressed, is not difficult to see. It is unfortunate that this should come up again at this time, just when racing seems in a fair way to rehabilitate itself, and respectively. Probably the matter will be adjusted amicably when the racing authorities realize the serious import of this chance trend to the affair. At the same time the discussion will not help the game, which is now in its swaddling clothes in Florida.

Why Not Let Johnson Alone?

Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, seems to be developing a very likely goat, which the various departments of the law in this land seem bent on capturing. Every time Johnson turns around he is made the butt of the displeasure of some legal official and is accused of all sorts of offenses. Many of these have been thrown out of court, indicating petty animus in the original arrest, probably due to race prejudice.

Recently Johnson was made the subject of the displeasure of a New York judge before whom the case of Norman Plinder against Johnson was brought. It was a case involving an alleged assault by Johnson during a row in a New York saloon. Because the prosecuting witnesses did not appear the court seemed to think that Johnson was the cause of their nonappearance, notwithstanding he had come all the way from Chicago to enter an appearance in the case. On the strength of this belief the judge raised Johnson's bail to $5,000 and kept the fighter in jail for two hours.

If it had been the case of a white man too hasty. If it had been a white man who had been arrested for no more serious an offense there would probably have been very little noise about the affair. It's almost time to let Johnson alone. He will have enough on his hands when he tackles Jeff on July 4. Some people think he will have more than enough.

McLean Not to Become a Fighter.

Ever since he had a run in with Manager Clarke Griffith there has been considerable talk of Larry McLean, the Cincinnati Nationals' star catcher, quitting baseball and joining the ranks of professional pugilists. This talk is all tommyrot. While "Fighting Larry" is big enough to tackle Jeffries or Johnson, he will stick to the game he is best at. There has never been a successful ball player pugilist, while, on the other hand, any number of the topnotch boxers have proved to be first class ball players.

Terry McGovern, Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries and a host of others can play the national game with considerable skill. Wrestlers have tried time and again to gain honors in the prize ring, but could not make good. Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, would rather be a good boxer than anything in the sporting line; so would Dr. Roller, the Seattle grappler.

Jockeys by the score have taken up the boxing game, and some of them made good, but the majority of the knights of the saddle found that they were not fitted for the ring sport. The latest turf star to adopt boxing as a profession is "Cash" Sloane, brother of the famous Ted Sloane. "Cash" won several bouts in Jacksonville recently and will try hard to hook up with the cracks in the east shortly.

Shrubb, Great Runner, Now Through.

Alfred Shrubb, the great English runner, has long been considered in a class by himself at any distance from five to fifteen miles. He was practically invincible at the latter distances up to a year ago, but since then he has been beaten a number of times and is now practically broken down. Hard training for the Marathon distance of 26 miles and 385 yards proved too much of a strain for Shrubb at his somewhat advanced age and brought about his poor condition.

New Pool Table.

A novel game of pool played on a new table has recently been introduced in the west. The table has two pockets in each side, one in the center of each end, and none in the corners. Ordinary billiard balls are used, and the game is really more like billiards than pool.

Players On and Off the Stage

By FRANK H. BROOKS.

THE New theater of New York kept its best wine for the last. Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale" was put on in the waning nights of the gorgeous home of drama and music. The production of what is supposed to be the last but one of Shakespeare's creations was the cap of the work that has been brought out at the New Theater since its opening.

The production was unlike any "Winter's Tale" that has been seen. This does not mean that "Winter's Tale" has bewildering scenic effects. True, it is of the Elizabethan period, and it has been thought by some commentators that it was written in compliment to Queen Elizabeth as an indirect apology for her mother, Anne Boleyn. Others dispute this. Anything about Shakespeare has been disputed ever since his genius was admitted.

"Winter's Tale" as seen at the New Theater was the result of long study and training by the company that gave it. The arrangement of the scenes by tapestries was different, as it should have been, from any arrangement seen in this country or perhaps in any other. And yet the whole was worked out with such marvelous fidelity and care that on the premier there was not a hitch, not a far, not a minute of drag, not a faltering on a single line. This on the first production of a Shakespearean play even by the most intelligent actors is almost unknown.

It can be said without any juggling of adjectives or without that sort of adulation that has become meaningless that never did a Shakespearean play have such an intense hold upon an audience as had this. It was one of the incidents that added to the accurate movement of the production.

Not many cuts were made in the version. The costumes were Elizabethan. The equivoque, dignity and beauty of Miss Edith Wynne Matthison made her fit the part of Queen Hermione. Henry Kolker, a wandering star, was the jealous King Leontes. E. M. Holland, known in all cities where there are plays, was the foster father of Perdita, which character was beautifully sustained by Miss Leath-Bateman Hunter, who was the personification of virgin innocence. Ferdinand Gottschalk—all of us remember him when he was one of the Rosina Vokes company, the only company of its kind—was the clown of the days when that word had a different meaning from that of today. And it may have been the trickery of the incandescents—Gottschalk has kept out of the way of the years that overtake most of us.

Quite an admission when you think about it for an American manager to go to a German theater and pick out the star to play on the stage of a theater where English only is spoken. One reason why the manager did this, according to his own admission, is that there are not enough actresses to go around. The first consideration for selecting Mme. Marietta Oily was that she could act. But she had never played in English. If there had been some one else who was her equal as an actress and who had been conversant with English Mme. Oily would never have been drafted. Hence the conclusion that English speaking actresses who can act in this country are scarce. The venture was made in a New York theater, and it proved a success. Januscheck, Modjeska, Rhea and Janisch were stars on the English speaking stage, but in spite of their great histrionic talents they never quite got United States talk under control. Mme. Oily, however, has other things under control far better than any of those named. She is considered the best trained actress on the stage, and that is giving her a good deal of credit.

MISS KATHERINE KAELED.

When John Mason played his last week at Hackett's theater, in New York city, in "A Sinner of the People" he had a now leading woman in Miss Katherine Kaelred. She will appear next October, having contracted for a theater in New York city in which she will appear during the autumn season.

She lacks beauty, and her physique unsupported would empty a theater where she played, but she can look more than many American born and bred actresses speak. A twist of her wrist is enough to hold an old timer. She keeps herself in hand. Her emotions do not run away with her. She would not have been human had she not displayed some trepidation in appearing before an American audience as she did. Nevertheless she carried "The Whirlwind"—that is the name of the play—and left the impress of success upon it. But the fact remains that it is training that makes a triumph on the stage. Plenty of stage folks who think they can speak English are untrained for their parts, and many never get trained. An old manager who saw Mme. Oily in her trial remarked: "She has succeeded in acting. Now if she can succeed in speaking English she might hand the secret to a lot of folks who are not on the stage, as well as many who are."

The Passing of Forbes-Robertson. Not many plays, if any, have been seen by "all sorts and conditions" as "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which has been on the boards at Maxine Elliott's theater in New York city since the opening of the season in the fall of 1909. The faultless production closed its remarkable business April 9, and it is now playing in Canada. It is one of the productions that was endorsed by the pupil, almost without exception. It was succeeded in the theater where it had such a long run by "Lulu's Husband," a French farce, in which Mabel Barrison and Harry Conner are the principals.

When She Was Minnie Maddern. After all the triumphs (as well as failures) of the season back to New York went Minnie Maddern Fiske in "The Pillars of Society." Never mind now about that play. The story is about the little woman who, long before she became Mrs. Fiske, was wondering what would be the end of her aspirations. One afternoon in a western city Minnie Maddern was present at an afternoon tea. She was playing in the city in "Fog's Perry." It wasn't much of a play. Minnie Maddern then was not much of an actress. But there was one woman in the city who had seen her and "fell in love with her," a thing one woman does not often do for another woman. She invited Minnie Maddern to her tea. It was not a fashionable tea, such as many women now indulge in. It was just a quiet affair to which the woman who gave it invited a few of her near friends. Between sips the little actress almost tearfully admitted that she would never succeed until she found some one who would believe in her and who would either write her a play or help her in having a play written. The woman who gave the tea told Minnie she knew a friend who was ambitious to write a play for some one who would take the same interest in it that he would take. Minnie Maddern nearly spilled a cupful of tea on her gown over the prospect. A meeting was arranged. The little actress and the would-be playwright talked it all over. They talked like two children. "Just make it something that will give me a chance to climb," said the star of "Fog's Perry." She went on her way. The young man began writing a play. She waited and hoped and waited. The young man wrote and wrote. The play was never finished. No matter why. And then Minnie Maddern turned her thoughts to other fields. If the play had been finished maybe she would never have been Minnie Maddern Fiske. For many reasons. She met Mr. Fiske, that was one reason. No matter about the others.

Playhouses For Women.

Almost within speaking distance of each other are two theaters in a side street just off Broadway, New York city, that were built to please two women. One is the Maxine Elliott house; the other, just opening, was erected to please Mme. Nazimova, the Russian actress. She had frequently expressed a wish to have such a playhouse as that which opens April 18. She calls it "a dear." The parquet floor contains 325 seats, the balcony has 175 and the gallery has 150. There are four boxes on each of the proscenium opening, and each box has six seats. The interior decorations are in the Louis XVI. style. The walls are paneled and inclosed silk tapestry. The entire color scheme of the house is in old rose with antique bronze decorations. The drop curtain, all the draperies, the seat upholstering and the carpets are in old rose tones, harmonizing with the silk tapestry wall panels. While the house was being constructed Nazimova passed many of her nights in going about other theaters just as outsiders who buy their tickets do and enjoying the plays, dreaming always of the night when she would appear in her own little place. Her enthusiasm for her work is almost childlike. Not long ago she was in a box at a theater. She became so excited that she was fearful that her nervousness would be noticed, so she slid from her chair upon the floor and in that attitude she revealed in the scenes on the stage. She lives in her profession. That is why she has succeeded and that is why somebody had enough faith in her to build her a theater she could call her "own little playhouse." The same sort of interest in any business will win.

Fun For the Players.

The little things not on the program give the players a bit of fun on the side and help to put a rift in the monotony. One of a chorus may have neglected properly to adjust some part of her makeup, and then it is the company's time to say something sotto voce. The audience does not see it or hear it. Guffing on the stage is not permissible by a stage manager, but it happens just the same.

MAY DE SOUSA AND HARRY FAIRLEIGH.

MISS MAY DE SOUSA.

Miss May De Sousa, who first played in a Broadway theater last winter, in for a summer season, if all goes well, at the New York theater. The piece is under the direction of Henry B. Harris. Miss De Sousa's principal support cities and towns in the middle west. Then she went to Europe, where she finished her musical education. After appearing in London and other European cities she returned to the United States and was seen last winter for the first time in New York city in the "Goddess of Liberty" at Weller's.

took second and third place with Co. I of Fall River and Co. A of Boston, and but for the collapse of one man, who had to be carried for nearly half the distance, the Fall River boys would have won handsly.

For the contest 27 teams reported at the state house at 8.45 a. m., each team

ASSISTING A TIRED COMPANION.

being made up of eight men, all members of the Massachusetts militia and came from seven different organizations, the coast artillery having entered four teams, the naval brigade two teams, the signal corps one team, the 5th infantry two teams, the 6th infantry two teams, the 8th infantry two teams, and the 9th infantry four teams. All were in light marching order, the blanket roll being discarded, but every man had to carry his rifle, bayonet, haversack and canteen, and everything that had to be partaken of during the march in the shape of food and liquid refreshments had to be carried on the person.

Start From State House

There was a large crowd of interested spectators present to see the start, including Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Brig.-Gen. Brigham, and the members of the governor's staff.

It was 10.40 when the bugle sounded the march, and then commenced one of the greatest tests of endurance ever attempted by soldiers in this country, either in the militia or the regular service, and the first competitive march ever undertaken in this country.

The goal was 26 miles away, Lowell, and the 27 teams started off at a good five miles an hour clip, down Bowdoin street to Cambridge street, and then the line began to straighten out.

Arriving at Cambridge bridge, several teams attempted to get into a better position, some going at double time, and the pace was increased to six miles an hour, Co. B of the 6th infantry forging ahead, but just before Cambridge was reached Co. H of the 9th infantry, by a long spurt at double time, went into the leading position, with its second team close up.

The clip up to Harvard college had been a killing one and the line was strung out nearly half a mile with Co. H of the 5th infantry bringing up the rear, and it was seen even at this early stage that some of the weak teams could not last half the distance.

Human square, 3 1/2 miles from the start, was reached in 25 minutes, and here one of the teams of Co. G, 6th, put on a spurt at double time and ran through the whole outfit, but it was undoubtedly their undoing, as they shortly after fell back with several of the men in distress.

Brushes For First Place

North Cambridge, 4 1/2 miles from the start, was reached at 10.24 with the second team of Co. G, 6th, in the lead, while close up came Co. H of the 9th, the 12th company, C. A. C., and Co. G of the 6th, well bunched. The rear company at this point, Co. H of the 5th, was eight minutes behind the leaders.

For a couple of miles up Massachusetts avenue there were several brushes among the leading teams for first position, and as a result these teams ran away from their competitors, who were assisted to keep up a four-mile-an-hour clip. The pace was working havoc among the weaker members of the teams, and many began to show signs of distress.

show up as they passed team after team and began to crawl up on the leaders. At this point Co. G, 6th, lost a man from its second team and was out as far as any chance of winning was concerned, but the seven men kept gamely on.

Arriving at the 11-mile post on the town line of Winchester and Woburn, Co. F, 5th, was still in the lead, the time from the start being two hours and three minutes, and with the 27th team from Fall River 100 yards in the rear. Close up came the 12th company, C. A. C., signal corps, and Co. A, naval brigade. All five teams were strong and fit at this point.

Hard March to Finish
At the 14-mile post the Fall River boys overtook the team from the Watch city, the time being 2 hours 42 1/2 minutes. Co. A, naval brigade, and the team from the signal corps were five minutes behind the leaders, but both were going strong.

At 16 miles Co. A, naval brigade, began to close up and was pushing the leaders, but had men in bad condition, two men in Co. I, naval brigade, being badly used up, but the balance of the team was strong, and they helped the weak ones along by carrying their rifles. It was at this point that Yeoman Louis R. Morley showed the stuff that he is made of, as he not only carried three rifles for over eight miles, but also assisted one of his weak comrades by holding him up by the arm.

Arriving at Billerica, 19 miles from the start, which was covered in 4 hours and 17 minutes, one of the Watkham boys showed signs of distress, but by a comrade carrying his rifle and hanging on to the bolts of his teammate, he was dragged along.

From here to the finish it was a hard march, but all were game, at least the great majority, as up to that time but five teams had withdrawn from the contest. 22 teams passing through the square in good order. At North Billerica things began to look different, as the five leading teams had opened up a gap of nearly two miles, and the news being carried back disheartened many of the men, and the electric cars which began to pass the teams had a very inviting appearance to the weary and footsore soldiers. Several after passing this point gave it up and took cars to Lowell.

Harry Dunlap was out at his Billerica farm with a supply of refreshments for the boys, but he was disappointed on finding that it was against the rules to accept any refreshments except what was carried by the squad.

Waltham Boys 16 Minutes Ahead

At Billerica the boys of the Waltham company found awaiting them Capt. Hamilton and a score of their comrades, who cheered them along the last six miles, in fact so much so that after marching along for a mile they wrested the lead from Co. F, Fall River, and kept forging to the front, leading in the armory 16 minutes ahead of the weakest.

The last four miles was performed under most grueling conditions, the men stooping in mud puddles to wet their handkerchiefs to bathe their heads.

The time for the leaders was 5 hours and 52 minutes, which was little over four miles an hour for the 26 miles, arriving at 3.52.

The third team to arrive was Co. A, naval brigade, who crossed the line at 3.55; fourth, the signal corps at 4.10; fifth place, 12th company, C. A. C., Fall River, 4.12; sixth place, Co. H, 5th infantry, Charlestown, 4.15; seventh place, Co. C, 6th infantry, Lowell, 4.40; eighth place, Co. G, 9th infantry, Boston, 4.55; ninth place, 10th place, Co. G, second team, 6th infantry, Lowell, 4.59; 11th place, Co. L, 6th infantry, Boston, 5.16, with six men.

The latter squad was commanded by Sergt. H. E. Carter, 48 years old, and who has been in the service 32 years. He finished as fresh as many of the younger men.

Immediately the teams arrived at the armory they were examined by the surgeons, and none was found to be worse for the trip. The principal trouble with men who fell by the wayside was through stomach trouble and cramps in the legs.

HELD A REUNION

The South Lowell Social club had a pleasant reunion Monday night, for the members and their families. Whist was played and a pleasing literary and musical program was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Pronovost, Miss Aurora Rodrigue, Pierre Masse and Arthur Brin. William Miehaut presided.

Rosa Medeiros Cravler, aged 21 years, and a resident of New Bedford, who was an inmate of the state infirmary at Tewksbury, made her escape from that institution yesterday, but she had been at large but a short time when she was placed under arrest in Merrimack square last night by Patrolman Kilroy.

She was taken to the police station and placed in one of the detention rooms. This morning when a doctor and a nurse and officer from the Tewksbury institution called for the woman she was seized with a fit of hysteria and it was found necessary to send to Tewksbury for the ambulance.

Shortly before noon the ambulance arrived and the woman was taken back to Tewksbury.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM PATRIOTS' DAY

Col. Roosevelt Wildly Cheered by the Hungarians

How the Holiday Was Observed in This City

BUDAPEST, April 20.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit left here last night by the Orient Express for Paris, where they will arrive Thursday morning. Instead of crossing Switzerland, the route runs north through the Austrian Alps and southern Germany, entering France at Avricourt.

Colonel Roosevelt's last day in Hungary only furnished additional proof of the deep impression his personality has made upon the hearts of the people, high and low. The pitch of enthusiasm increased to the moment of his departure. Hundreds cheered in front of the hotel, when he left yesterday morning for a visit to the government stock farm at Babelna, where the breeding of Arab horses is carried on, and thousands were massed about the station when he returned at 7 o'clock last night. They greeted him with Hungarian cries, equivalent to the American "hurrah" for Roosevelt, which the ex-president, with his ability to grasp the meaning of things, seemed to understand and thoroughly appreciate.

The packed streets echoed the cries, as he passed, and this demonstration was thrice repeated later during the evening—in front of the hotel as he departed for the breeding farm and on his return, and when he left the hotel finally for the station, where another frantic multitude had waited until midnight to see him off.

The same popular enthusiasm was displayed seventy miles from Budapest, on the drive from the railroad to Babelna. Carriages drawn by six horses, with drivers in picturesque Hungarian costume, conveyed the party through thatched-roofed villages, decorated with crude American flags, under hastily constructed triumphal arches, amid the shouts of the entire populace. In each village the schools had been dismissed in order that the children might join in the acclamation of the American.

Mr. Roosevelt hugely enjoyed his visit to the breeding farm. After lunch, at which the speeches of welcome were most fervid, a score of pure blood Arab stallions were trotted out for his inspection. The colonel in charge of the stud, an Arab who came from Syria as a stable boy, took the greatest pride in showing the fine points of the beautiful animals, saying to Mr. Roosevelt: "I am not married; my family is in the stable."

The ex-president and the ladies of the party, including Countess Szechenyi, who was Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, fed the horses with sugar. Later the party visited the brood mares, where Col. Roosevelt was shown a tiny thoroughbred which was born yesterday. It was a filly, but the colonel christened it "Roosevelt."

There was an inspection also of the blooded cattle, sheep, pigs and domestic fowl. When the party left the Arab asked the ex-president if he was satisfied, and in the way of a reply Mr. Roosevelt shook him warmly by the hand, saying "Good-bye comrade."

The dinner at the foreign office last night was followed by a big reception. Count Szechenyi, who had a narrow escape from serious injury from the whirling blade of a fan on board the train during the trip to the breeding farm, suffered no ill effects. The sharp blade fairly grazed his head; another half inch and it would have cleaved the skull.

SLANDER CASE

LONDON, April 20.—One farthing damages was awarded yesterday by the jury in a slander action brought by Jacques Henri Duveen against his cousin, Joseph Duveen, of the famous firm of Duveen Bros.

Jacques Duveen, whose real name is Handjas, complained that Joseph Duveen had described him as "an unscrupulous scoundrel, not to be trusted." Joseph on the stand yesterday denied using this language, but admitted describing the plaintiff as ungrateful, and explained how his firm had rendered assistance to his cousin. Under examination the plaintiff stated that he always went by the name of Duveen except when he signed legal documents, and then he signed "Handjas."

Patriots' day shone bright and clear, despite the fact that it was preceded by a night of rain, wind and nervous clouds. Those of us who "went to the feathers" about the midnight hour on Monday expected to awaken upon a rainy day, but instead of that there was sunshine everywhere and the air was deliciously balmy and refreshing.

Lowell's celebration of Patriots' day was not at all out of the ordinary. The ball games at Spaulding park constituted the big noise and the games were well attended. When a ball game is on all else is faded in the distance, and while the games were in session yesterday the streets down town were pretty well deserted except for the coming and going of visitors.

The finish of the military hike in the afternoon aroused considerable attention and enthusiasm. Though a meeting show it was absolutely new and all along the line of march there were happy smiles. The scene at the army in Westford street upon the arrival of the "hikers" was one of great cheer and enthusiasm.

The moving picture show was the piece de resistance in the evening, although Lowell is fairly well supplied with houses of this kind they were not equal to the occasion last night, and devotees of the moving picture were turned away at almost every picture house in the city.

The contingent from this city to Lexington and Concord was not great as in days of yore. When the bicycle was having its innings the exodus from Lowell on Patriots' day was much greater than at present, yet quite a number went from this city to Lexington and Concord yesterday.

It seemed a great day for visitors in Lowell and one met a good many strange faces in the street. There was a good deal of automobile, too, and there were other attractions in the line of games and sports besides the ball games at Spaulding park.

Everybody seemed to be having a good time. Even the fellow who remained home to paint screen doors changed windows and outside receptacles for flowers whistled as he painted and seemed to enjoy it as much as the fellow on the beachers enjoyed the ball game.

After all it doesn't make much difference what we do to pass the day, if our hearts are in the right place we'll have a good time anyhow.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

BY MOLLY VARNUM CHAPTER, D. A. R.

Patriots' day was celebrated in an appropriate manner yesterday by the members of Molly Varnum chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Spaulding house in Pawlucket street. A business meeting was held, at which officers were elected, and following the meeting a musical program was carried out.

Mrs. E. L. Roberts had charge of the musical program, and the entertainers were, besides herself, Mrs. W. H. Peppin and Mr. Harry Hopkins tenor, Mr. Warren T. Reid baritone, Miss Savage accompanist, and Miss Annabel Sayre piano soloist. The program was as follows: Kipling's "Recessional," sung by the quartet; "The Serenade," by Schubert, Mr. Hopkins; "Passage Bird's Farewell," Eugene Wildach, Mrs. Peppin and Mr. Reid; "The Garden of Roses," Mrs. Roberts; piano selection, "Tendre Avenir," by Edouard Schuett, Miss Annabel Sayre; trio, "O Memory," Mrs. Peppin, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Hopkins; quartet, "Joys of Spring," and the closing number the "Star Spangled Banner."

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served by the hospital committee, Mrs. Wm. P. Brazier and Miss Mary A. Webster poured tea and chocolate.

AT CHELMSFORD CENTRE

A track meet on the common in the forenoon and a ball game on the Homestead grounds in the afternoon constituted the Patriots' day attractions at Chelmsford Centre. The track meet was between members of the Chelmsford high school and the Ellis class of boys of the Central Baptist church. The Ellis class won by a score of 10 to 2.

At the ball game in the afternoon the Chelmsfords defeated the N. Y. N. H. & H. clerks by a score of 7 to 3. At North Chelmsford there was a gingers ball game in the forenoon between the North Chelmsford Machine & Supply Co., and a picked village team. The boys from the supply company won by a score of 8 to 5.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

Met Pres. Taft at White House

WASHINGTON, April 20.—William Jennings Bryan and President Taft spent more than an hour closeted together at the White House late yesterday. The two great travelers exchanged reminiscences, it is said, and both commented upon how well the other was looking.

The president rather intimated that being beaten at the polls didn't seem to be such a bad thing for one's health and happiness, after all.

"The call was purely a social one," said Mr. Bryan as he left the executive offices.

"Did you discuss the tariff bill?" was asked.

"No," smiled the Nebraskan, "we forgot all about it."

"Or politics?"

"No, that didn't occur to us either."

Both the president and Mr. Bryan seemed to have thoroughly enjoyed the quiet chat. Mr. Bryan walked in democratic fashion to the White House. He was received with the usual courtesy by the attaches and was shown at once into the president's office.

Mr. Bryan left at 7:55 o'clock last night for Lincoln, Neb.

CORPORATION TAX

The State May Lose a Large Slice of It

BOSTON, April 20.—Foreign corporations of all sorts, of which there are thousands in the state, that since 1903 have been paying the commonwealth an excise tax based on a percentage of their total authorized capitalization, have been presented with a very pretty gift by the United States supreme court.

In an opinion in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. the State of Kansas the court has ruled that a tax of this nature, based on the total capitalization of a foreign corporation and ignoring the property outside the state, is unconstitutional.

What brings this right home to Massachusetts is that the foreign corporation excise tax in this state is figured just as the Kansas tax is, on the total authorized capitalization, irrespective of the proportion used in and outside this state.

The was a time, not so very long ago, when this decision would not have upset the state treasury to any special extent. Of late, though, the corporations have been giving up something more than $250,000 a year—a sum which will make more than a little difference in running expenditures.

Funeral services will be held at 56 Fairmount street, Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Friends are invited without further notice. Burial will be private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

THE MARATHON RUN SOCIETY PEOPLE

Was Won by Cameron of Nova Scotia in Fast Time

BOSTON, April 20.—Fred L. Cameron of the Amherst (N. S.) Ramblers rambling in a comparatively easy winner of the annual Patriots' day Marathon of the Boston Athletic Association yesterday. Cameron was one of a field of 165, started at seven o'clock, "Old Maid's" grade at Ashland, the starting point of the race, at just high noon to a second. Two hours 28 minutes, 52.2 seconds later Cameron broke the water in front of the B. A. A. clubhouse on Foster street. Only twice before in the history of the race has the distance been covered in faster time, one of these occasions being when Longboat did his 26. 24m. 24s. in 1907. Henri Rehaud, last year's winner, did no better than 2h. 53m. 38.4-ss.

Just a minute, plus one-fifth of a second, behind Cameron came Clarence H. DeMar of the North Dorchester A. A. The only local runner to finish within the prize list of eight. DeMar had run a waiting race, eating up distance in a spectacular fashion during the last five miles. And it is one of the numerous "ifs" of the race that had he started to extend himself a bit earlier, the minnow trophy cup, that goes with the winning might not only have remained on this side of the border line, but have been won by a local runner. Not since Timmy Ford won in 1906 has a Marathoner of Greater Boston been able to pull down the capital prize.

It was a great day and a great race for the Canadians, for in addition to uncovering the winner in Cameron, three others of those to finish in the first eight all hailed from Toronto, Ont. These were: James J. Corkery of the Canadian-Irish A. C., who finished third and so came nearest to making good the dream of the other numerous favorites before the race. Behind Corkery in fourth place came a fellow-townsmen, John R. Roe, from the West End Y. M. C. A. Seventh place went to the short and chippy kaffed B. E. McCormack of the Toronto A. C.

Several things stick out conspicuously in connection with Cameron's win. In the first place, when the Amherst Ramblers underwent the customary examination just before the start it was found that his heart had the most "rumor" of any of the starters. There was nothing, however, in his running to indicate that he possessed even a trace of what is popularly known as "athletic heart," and when he was disassembled, just after finishing his 26 miles, he was found to be in far better condition physically than any of those who came in behind him. Seven pounds of flesh was the price he paid for his win. He scales showing 118 pounds when he stepped upon the scale before the start. He could just brush up the arm at 111 pounds at the finish.

"Jackie" Lynch of Centralville finished 35th.

Flory quit in the 20th mile, while Carr could not go farther than the 16th. Dubuque got weak in the 14th mile and was taken off the course in an automobile. Webb failed to start as did Christo and Halstead.

GENERAL READER

Elected Historian of the S. A. R.

BOSTON, April 20.—The Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the American Revolution celebrated their 21st birthday yesterday with a dinner at the American House. The men who spoke, all emphasized the importance of turning the ideals of patriotism and liberty for which the society stands into a practical endeavor to face and fight the problems which threaten the Republic today, as the minute men of 1775 faced and fought the British at Lexington and Concord.

The dinner was preceded by a meeting at the Old South Church at which the regular annual business of the society was transacted and officers for the ensuing year were elected.

The Massachusetts society, according to a report read by the secretary, has now a membership of 1660, of which number seven are actual sons of men who fought in the Revolution. These are: John Adams of Gardner, Alport Barnes of Lowell, Eliza J. Faxon of Salem, Eliza J. Gifford of Worcester, George Mitchell of Groveland, Henry R. Reynolds of Dorchester and Cyrus S. Rockwell of West Bangor, N. Y.

The following officers were elected by a unanimous vote: President, Nathan Warren of Waltham; vice-president, Edwin Sandford Crandon of Cambridge; Luke Stevens of Springfield and Luther Atwood of Lynn; Secretary, registrar, Herbert Wood Kimball of Woburn; treasurer, Dr. Charles Montville Green of Boston; historian, Brig.-Gen. Philip Deane of Lowell; chaplain, the Rev. Lewis Wilder Hicks of Wellesley; board of managers, Alvin Richards of Bailey of Newton, John Stuart Barrows of Boston, William Williams Bartlett of Roxbury, David Lloyd of Winthrop and Wilford Jacob Littlefield of Southbridge.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20.—John Lucas representing P. B. C. Hyde, today rendered his testimony to prevent the state from introducing any testimony in the trial of his client for the alleged murder of Col. Thomas H. Swane that does not bear directly upon the death of the late millionaire.

The trial was brought to an abrupt halt yesterday afternoon in the midst of the testimony of Miss Pearl Keller, a nurse, in order that the defense might argue the point. The court has held thus far that the state has a right to introduce any testimony in order to prove motive.

BURIED AT SEA

Two Babes Died on Steamship

BOSTON, April 20.—Two deaths occurred on the Italian steamship Lazio, which arrived early yesterday from Mediterranean ports. Shortly after leaving Naples Velive de Rocco, an infant of 8 months, was found to be suffering from intestinal trouble, and Latoria Ciro, the same age, was afflicted with acute bronchitis. In mid-Atlantic the infants died and their bodies were hurled at sea. On arrival four steerage passengers, one having spinal meningitis and the others fever, Giuseppe Lalano, classed as a stowaway, was found concealed in one of the Lazio's lifeboats. He had a large sum of money in his possession and claimed he was carried away from Naples by mistake, having boarded the ship to say good bye to a relative.

The 1600 steerage passengers proved one of the cleanest lots of immigrants brought to Boston in a long time from Italy. Many were returning to this proportionate state destined to the middle west. But 60 were held for investigation by a board of special inquiry.
